HAT CAUSES SO UCH SICKNESS

onstipation Responsible for 90% of Disease

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Corrects It

It is generally recognized among e medical profession that Constiation or Insufficient Action of The owels, produces more disease than any her one cause. Constipation is resonsible for at least 90% of the disease the world today—because Constiation is responsible for the Indiges-on and Dyspepsia—the nervousness, somnia and Rheumatism—the Ecma and other skin troubles—the eadaches and Backaches.

Why is this?

As you know, it is the duty of the owels to carry off the waste matter the system. If the bowel muscles e weak or the liver inactive, then is waste matter remains in the body d poisons the blood. As a result, ery organ in the body is poisoned this waste.

"Fruit-a-tives" has been wonderfully uccessful in relieving Stomach Troubles, ervous Troubles, Liver Troubles, Kidey Troubles, Skin Troubles and Blood roubles, because "Fruit-a-tives" positive- and emphatically relieves Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve onstipation, even though the trouble as been chronic for ten, fifteen and enty years. Thousands of grateful sers proclaim "Fruit-a-tives" the reatest remedy for Constipation that he world has ever known.

The Fall Weather Hard On Little Ones

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bakers' Raisin Pies

—save baking at home

THERE are luscious raisin pies just around the corner, at your grocer's or a bake shop.

Baked to a turn—a flaky crust filled with tender, tempting raisins, the rich juice forming a delicious sauce.

Once try these pies that master bakers bake fresh daily in your city and you'll never take the trouble afterwards to make raisin pies at home.

Get a pie now and let your men folks taste it.

Made with tender, thin-skinned, meaty, seeded Sun-Maid Raisins. Raisins furnish 1560 calories of energizing nutriment per pound in practically predigested form.

Also a fine content of food-iron—good food for the blood.

Use raisins frequently, therefore, which are both good and good for you, in puddings, cakes, cookies, etc.

You may be offered other brands that you know less well than Sun-Maids, but the kind you want is the kind you know is good. Insist, therefore, on Sun-Maid brand. They cost no more than ordinary raisins.

Hallowe'en Traditions

tells the story of a poor herd loon who won the hand of his master's only daughter as the result of a Hallowe'en play. The herd secreted himself in the kiln and held the end of the clue that the farmer's daughter threw down. Following the custom, she asked, "Wha hauds?" and the boy replied of course by giving his own name. Years passed, and the girl refused one suitor after another until the herd had gained in years and stature, when she accepted him as her fore-ordained husband.

Sowing of Hemp Seed.

The sowing of hemp seed was very popular. Sometimes the young man, sometimes the young maid, would steal out unperceived and sow a handful of the seed. On looking ove rthe left shoulder, after the sowing, the future mate was seen following. The seeds were sown to an incantation, several versions of which still exist. The following are the three that were commonly used:—

Hemp seed, I sow thee, hemp seed,
I sow thee,
And he (or her) that is to be my true love,
Come after me and pou thee.

In the other versions the last line was:—

Come after me and shaw thee (i.e., show thyself) or
"Come behind and harrow me" (i.e., come behind and harrow in the seed.)

The sowing of hemp seed was also practised in Ireland.

Little can be added to Burns' account of the customs of nut burning, the pulling of oats out of the rick, the winnowing of phanton grain, the fathoming of the bear stack, the washing of the sleeve in a south running stream and the ceremony of the three dishes, the one empty, the others filled with pure and dirty water respectively.

Dipping for Apples

There are customs peculiar to Hallowe'en that Burns omits altogether, the most notable beingt that of dipping for apples. The apples were in a tub filled with water, and the contestants had to fish them out without the aid of their hands. The only method left them was to seize the apples with their teeth as they floated on the surface; and a hard undertaking it used to prove. Sometimes an apples was suspended by a string from the roof, and it belonged to the person who could grasp it in his mouth as it swung to and fro. A still more difficult method was this: a beam of wood was hung balanced from the ceiling and to one end was tied a lighted candle, to the other an apple. The beam was whirled round and all who entered the lists tried to catch the apple with their mouths, but ofteuer got singed by the candle. Those apple games were in vogue all over the British Isles.

One more rite of augury may be noted. The person who wished to scan the future went to a field the furrows of which lay due north and south. He entered the field from the western side, walked over eleven ridges and stood in the centre of the twelfth. While he stood there, if he heard sounds of mirth then he had a hopeful future to look forward to, but if it were mournful sounds that he heard then an earthly death was to be his lot.

But all this had to do with the past. Hallowe'en and Faster Even, and all the other polly days beloved of our fathers, are ignored in our supposedly more civilizer age. In outlying districts children may still pull kail storks, hardly knowing the meaning of the art, or dip for apples, but that is all that now remains of the high festival of Hallowe'en.
