of Kipling's, this great imperialist is of the same opinion. We have not forgotten Roosevelt's great tribute to the work that Britain has done and is doing for Egypt. Certainly the presence of Lord Milner is not making easier the task of Field Marshal Lord Allenby. The effect that these various commissions have had upon the public mind, added to the hesitancy of Britain in declaring positively that Egypt is British, is indicated by the action of the native princes who recently declared themselves in favour of Egyptian independence. This cowardly and worthless lot would never have declared in favor of independence had the Nationalists not well paved the way. It is to be doubted if the degenerate princes have any real principles or sound opinions on the matter. They are doing what they think may prove popular and be remembered in their favor when independence comes. If they were to be bundled out of the country and their allowances stopped, the problem they present would be easily settled. They have no following, and will have none that is not secured for them by the indecision of the British government.

Ungrateful Princes. "Put not your faith in princes," is an adage whose wisdom has been established by the ages, and no one ought to be astonished to learn that anything the Egyptian princes have or are they owe to Britain. The founder of their dynasty was Mehemet Ali, an Albanian peasant. His life was saved at the battle of Aboukir by Sir Sydney Smith and it was Lord Palmerston who exorted from the Sublime Porte the arman investing him with the hereditary Pashalik of Egypt. Again the dynasty was saved when Britain prevented the Khedive Ismail from excluding his eldest son, Tewfik, from the succession. In 1882 when the Arabi-Nationalists rebelled against Tewfik it was Britain that intervened with fleet and army to crush the insurrection and restore him to his throne. The whole tribe was confirmed in estates and secured from the danger of arbitrary confiscation by one power and one alone—Great Britain. When Sultan Abbas was deposed because of his relations with the enemy, Britain chose what appeared to be the least unworthy of a worthless lot and raised Fuad to the Sultanate.

A Feeble Khedive. Khedive Fuad may not be irresponsible, but judging from Mr. Owen's appraisal of him he is ridiculous. His first public appearance was in the role of a henpecked husband. When his wife's brother shot him he got plenty of sympathy, but people laughed again when he had himself mentioned as a candidate for the throne of Albania, where, it may be remembered, his ancestor, Mehemet Ali, hailed from. Probably

Two Men Hanged in Peterboro Jail. PETERBORO, Ont., Jan. 15.—"Koodbya, Canon" simultaneously by Thomas Knoek and Michael Bahri uttered their last message to Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson as the black caps slipped over their heads and hid their faces from view in the grey hour of dawn Wednesday morning. At 8.30 three minutes after they left their cells the trap was sprung and both men paid the extreme penalty for the murder of Philip Yanoff in June last. They walked to the scaffold with scarcely a tremor and made their last remark unwaveringly.

GIVE UP SMOKING TO HELP WOMEN. TORONTO, Jan. 11.—Bishop Reeve told an audience of 500 returned soldiers in the Parish Hall of St. Ann's church, last night, that the men of Canada might well give up smoking as an example to the women of the country. "I have nothing to say against smoking," the Bishop said, "but what is going to become of the country when the women are beginning to smoke, as they are doing now, and when they dress as they are now doing at dances. You will have to give up smoking if you don't want your girl smoking, also your wives. The men will have to give up smoking in self-denial to set an example to the women." The majority of the men present were smoking at the time the Bishop was addressing him. They listened to him in respectful silence.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen—Theodore Dorcas, a customer of mine, was completely cured of rheumatism after five years of suffering by the judicious use of MINARD'S LINIMENT. WHAT AMUSED HIM
He was a well-known artist, and he was standing near the offspring of his brain in the picture gallery, when an old gentleman, whose attire suggested a country tailor suffering from neuralgia, approached, inspected the picture and burst into a paroxysm of laughter. "Seems to amuse you, sir," said the artist, huffily. "It do that." "It isn't meant to be funny." "No? Well, I never!" "I've been offered $500 for that picture. Probably you don't think it's worth it; probably you think you know more about it than all the best critics, who have praised the work, eh?" "Don't know nothing about art, mister," said the old fellow, wiping his eyes. "but I be dead nuts on cows. Wheredid you see that cow what you've paint-
