"Dorothy Lamour" In "Her Jungle Love" At Prince Edward

Storionic romance on a tropic South Sea island, coupled with during thrills and the beauty of Technicolor make "Her Jungle Love" which opens today at the Prince Edward Theatre, a rousing "must" on your weekly movie list.

Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland, the romantic team of "The Jungle Princess" are united again in the same type of picture that vaulted them to screen stardom. Miss Lamour turns in an impressive performance as the beautiful white "goddess" living alone on a jungle isle, and Milland, linking it until fate, in the form of a typhoon forces Milland, a trans-Pacific flyer, to a forced landing on her isle. Milland and Lamour, Ovarman, his mechanic, are befriended by Miss Lamour who is being kept on the island by the power-mad ruler of crocodile worshipping natives, Dr. Carrol Nash, who uses her as a puppet "goddess" to maintain his hold over the superstitious islanders.

Falling in love with Miss Lamour, Milland only complicates matters and makes the situation dangerous. Nash, who is also in love with her, intends to make Miss Lamour his bride, and so increase his hold over the islanders.

While they are being led to the sacrificial altar by Nash's crew of Malay Islanders, an earthquake rocks the subterranean temple, freeing the trio and trapping Nash. Emerging through a fissure in the roof they discover a yacht anchored off the island, manned by Dorothy Howe, Milland's sweetheart, left behind when he started his trans-Pacific flight. Tom, her lover, has love for the lovely Miss Lamour and his engagement pledge to Miss Howe, Milland is ready to sail back to civilization, but she releases him. He happily returns to the island by the side of his beautiful "goddess."

Miss Lamour sings two excellent songs in the film, "Switch in the Stars" and "Come and Kisses for Two." Her natural beauty is displayed to the best advantage by the wonders of Technicolor as is Milland's charming good looks.

ganize branches of the C. W. L. delegates were told by those who reported on organization. Mrs. Frank Murray, Charlottetown spoke for Queen's County, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan, Summerside, for Prince County and Mrs. H. J. Hynes, Montague, for King's County.

A suggestion that the C. W. L. members interest themselves in the T. B. clinics held in the public schools was made by Mrs. Leslie Ramsay, Indian River, convener of social service and child welfare.

Mrs. E. G. Gillis, Kensington reported for the Sisters of Service and Mrs. M. M. Murphy, Charlottetown for education and scholarship. Mrs. Murphy announced girls winning the C. W. L. scholarship would be able to take a course in social service work at London, Ontario, this year. Formerly they were compelled to go to the United States for this instruction.

Mrs. James McCormack, Vernon River, reporting for the C. W. L. Magazine urged all members to become subscribers.

Mrs. R. J. McDonald, Charlottetown, reported on publicity.

In connection with a report on lay retreats by Mrs. Frank Murray a very interesting dual discussion by Miss Helen Adams and Miss Louise MacDougall, both of Charlottetown was given. Important points in connection with the lay retreat movement were brought out.

Mrs. Parnell McMahon, Summerside read a very interesting paper on what she considered the duties of citizenship.

Mrs. James Pendergast, Kensington reported as convener of the committee dealing with the Sisters of Martha.

Miss Iphigene Arsenault, Charlottetown explained the idea of conducting girl guides under the auspices of the League.

Following the business session afternoon tea was served by the Sisters. In connection with this part of the program a very interesting demonstration of weaving on a small loom was given by the Sisters. Delegates were afforded also a visit to an exhibit of handicraft work from various subdivisions.

The evening session was educational in nature. Mrs. A. J. Howatt, Charlottetown, convener of the study club committee presided. The meeting opened with O Canada, Miss Claire Hughes pianist.

Miss Iphigene Arsenault, Convener of girl guides put on a demonstration in which she showed how young girls could be taught to give first aid, send a message by Morse signals, rescue a person from drowning, and give an entertainment.

Mrs. Howatt, chairman of the meeting in a short address laid stress on the work of study clubs. She introduced Hon. Dr. W. J. MacMillan, principal speaker for the evening.

In opening his address Dr. MacMillan referred to the great benefit the Province derived from the establishment of the library system and from the endowing of a chair of sociology and economics at St. Dunstan's University and Prince of Wales College. The pre-

"Smith Ballew" At The Capitol

The rough-and-ready West roars into romantic Hawaii for rousing outdoor adventure in "Hawaiian Buckaroo" starring Smith Ballew, great rugged cowboy of the screen. Coming today to the Capitol Theatre, the film brings the virile drama and action-filled pace of the great Southwest to the paradise isle of the Pacific for the first time.

Swinging into trouble and scrapping his way out with luring cowboy songs on his lips, a trouble-busting cowboy heads for a far-off danger quest on the relentless trail of rustlers from the hills of Arizona to the shores of Waikiki. Ballew blazes new trails to new thrills as he finds adventure and romance in the Pacific isle.

The story opens in the dust bowl of Arizona, where the rain-famine causes a once-great ranch man to give up his business. Turned out of work, Ballew and his pal, Mike, invest their savings in a pineapple plantation in Hawaii and set out for it full of hope.

The supposedly fertile land turns out to be a bare, rocky expanse, and the cowboy, Ballew, and his partner, Mike, refuse to take a chance on buying it, refuse to make good. Swearing vengeance, the cowboy pair get jobs on the cattle ranch owned by Evelyn Knapp.

Ballew's short acquaintance with Evelyn on the boat to the islands causes her to take a violent dislike to the cowboy. Ballew, and his gang, who are stopping at nothing in their attempts to get Evelyn's ranch for themselves, the thrilling climax with broadsword horsemanship and thrills, convinces the girl where her future interest lies.

Ballew introduces three new songs in "Hawaiian Buckaroo."

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. T. J. HARRIS

The death occurred in Parrsboro, N. S., yesterday forenoon of Jessie Henrietta Harris, widow of the late Mr. T. J. Harris, at one time proprietor of the London House of Charlottetown.

Mrs. Harris who had been residing with her son, Mr. James E. Harris of this city, left about three weeks ago on a visit to her other son, Rev. Charles R. Harris, rector of the Anglican Church at Parrsboro. Although 81 years of age, she was apparently in good health when she left Charlottetown, and the news of her sudden death comes as a great shock to relatives and friends.

Mrs. Harris was a daughter of the late Mr. James Douglas Hazzard, formerly King's Printer of this province. She was a most estimable Christian woman, a devoted member of St. Peter's Cathedral in this city and took an active part in the work of the Women's Auxiliary Society.

Mrs. Harris mourn two sons, Rev. Charles R. Harris and James E. Harris.

Mr. Louis A. Hazzard of Charlottetown and his brother, Harry in the United States are nephews. She was the last surviving member of her family, a sister, Mrs. C. Robinson of Charlottetown, passing away a year ago.

LENINGRAD, Aug. 25 - Alexander Kuprin, 68, Russian writer and novelist, died today. Kuprin was the author of "The River of Life", "The Earth Anthology" and "Ya ma".
