Studio Opening

William Arthur Jones, who is opening a studio to teach singing in this city, has had a long and varied experience in the musical profession.

Born in North Wales, where music is everyone's first interest, he learned to read music as he learned his "ABC's". He studied with the Curwen School of Music, receiving a diploma from the same.

When a very young man he came to the United States and of course gravitated to New York City because of the famous teachers there. Among his teachers were Herbert Witherspoon and Leo Braun, whose names will always be remembered in connection with the Metropolitan Opera.

At this time, the Welsh musical festival, called Eisteddfods were becoming a great cultural asset in the Eastern United States. Mr. Jones took advantage of the training and experience they offered. Eight times he won the chief tenor solo competition in the national Eisteddfods at Utica, N. Y. and once the international competition at Pittsburgh, Pa. In later years, he trained choirs and pupils to compete in these festivals, and many of his choirs won first honors.

So great was his interest and active participation in these events that before he left the United States, the Cymruyddion Society held a special session in Utica, N. Y., and made a presentation to him in appreciation of his activities and helpfulness in carrying on the Eisteddfod in America.

Mr. Jones travelled as a concert singer all over the United States and parts of Canada. He was engaged as tenor soloist for the Elijah, the Messiah, and other famous oratorios, by many well known choirs.

Wearied of the trying life of the concert stage, after some years, Mr. Jones settled in Schenectady, N. Y. where he has had a studio ever since, except for six years, which he spent at Acadia as head of the voice department.

While at Acadia, during summer vacations, he studied with Field-Hyde in the Royal Academy of Music, London, England.

When he came to Schenectady, the Welsh there organized the Cambrian male chorus which is now in its thirty-fifth year; the chorus has long ceased to be Welsh; but it is still a great asset to the musical life of the Capital district.

With the exception of his Acadia years, Mr. Jones has directed the chorus continuously. Mr. Jones has directed a great number of secular choirs in the Capital district, including Union College Glee Club, the Edison Glee Club, the General Electric Mixed Chorus, and the W.O.K.O. male chorus which consisted of a hundred voices, and was heard over the air, every Sunday for three years. He directed, also, church choirs of all denominations. When he left Schenectady this August, he had been with State St. Presbyterian Church twenty years.

Mr. Jones expects to make his home on P. E. I. and take part in the development of musical enjoyment in the Province.

ENJOYABLE SHOWER AT WINSLOE - On Wednesday evening, August 20th, a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craswell when a large number of friends and relatives gathered to tender a miscellaneous shower in honor of their daughter Lois prior to her coming marriage. To the strains of the British Chorus played by Mrs. Stanley Younker, the bride to be was escorted to a prettily decorated chair by Preston Cudmore. After she had been seated under a large white bell a dainty gift was set before her laden with gifts with varied experience in the musical profession.

The presents were then opened by Miss Charlotte Moreside while Miss Vera Nunn read the accompanying verses. The many useful gifts were placed on the table by Mrs. C. J. Younker. After a shower of confetti the bride to be was thanked by many friends for their kindness and invited them to visit her in her future home. After the singing of "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow" the bride was heartily congratulated. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies and the remainder of the evening was carried out to a close with dancing brought to a close with dancing. Music furnished by Dolton Brothers, Glasgow Road, after which all departed for their homes wishing Lois every future happiness.

PERSONALS
Mr. J. T. Revell, Charlottetown, leaves this morning for Ottawa where he will attend a meeting of the Canadian Legislative Board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Mr. Bert R. Brown who has been visiting his daughter Doris Brown at West Covehead has returned home going by the way of motor with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morse, Attleboro, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Mueller (nee Isabel Brown) and daughter, Margaret of Detroit, Michigan, have returned home after spending a pleasant ten days at Blanche Beach Inn, visiting friends and her sister, Doris Brown at West Covehead.

Miss Annie McKenna, Medicine Hat, Alberta, who has been visiting in the city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jay, Mr. Edward Road left Saturday on return. During her visit Miss McKenna greatly enjoyed the horse racing under the night lights also the racing at the Parlor Track, Covehead.

York And Vicinity
Mrs. William Bowen of Wheatley River is at present visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ling of York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Brown, York, were very welcome visitors to the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Vessey.

The many friends of Mrs. Milton Vessey are hoping for a speedy recovery and wish to see her out in the near future.

The many friends of Mrs. Allan Swan are pleased to see her out again after suffering severely with inflammation in the leaders of her leg and ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Willis entertaining merchant of Covehead Road have returned after a very enjoyable motor trip through Nova Scotia. While enroute they attended the livestock exhibition in Truro.

A motor party from Wheatley River comprising Mr. and Mrs. Lockley Bowen, Mrs. William Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. James Waters were recently visiting in York the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ling and family and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vessey.

Among the record crowd attending the horse races at Covehead on the Parlor Track of Canada were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Bowness and two children Frank and Pearl also Mr. and Mrs. Theo. J. Lig accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Brooking of Kensington and Mr. and Mrs. William Ling of Wheatley River.

Miss Lulu Clark of Sunset Lodge in Charlottetown has been a very welcome visitor to York. While there she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Mallett. She also attended the opening service of Rev. MacCallum who has been inducted to the Central Church comprising Central Church Dunstaffnage, Brackley, Pleasant Grove and York congregations.

The cucumber growers of York and vicinities have completed the harvesting of the crop and are reporting a very successful year having had bumper crops. The past summer's ideal weather with its occasional showers and abundant sunshine had but one drawback it produced such abundant growth that it was very difficult to keep the cucumbers from becoming over-size. The picking plant of Matthews & Wells was taxed to over capacity in the handling of all the contracted crops.

The many friends of Miss Florence MacMillan are indeed pleased that she has regained her usual health and she was able recently to be one of a motor party from Covehead who greatly enjoyed the beautiful scenery of Nova Scotia through New Glasgow and Halifax. While in New Glasgow she was the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim MacMillan who were former residents of this community. It has been several years since they left P.E.I. Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim MacMillan were the summer guests of his brothers, Mr. Ben MacMillan in Marshfield, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund MacMillan in York and many other friends in Covehead and Charlottetown.

The education of the young people of York is a very noteworthy phase in the life and activities of the community. Through the medium of Junior and Senior Mission Bands also the Junior and Senior Red Cross the young are taught the rudiments or rules of holding organized meetings and they have been greatly encouraged by their educationally minded parents and teachers to seek the higher education, as is clearly seen by those attending the different colleges in Charlottetown such as: Norma and Anita Lewis, Vivian and Marian Andrews, Arthur and Aletha Brown, Olga and Christine Proulx, Shirley Cooke, Mary and Verna Watts, Gladys Crockett and Margaret Vessey. The school is again in capable hands for the 47-48 session having Miss Ann MacPherson in the Principal Department, Ann having been in York for at least three years, and Miss Evelyn Underhay who is entering the teaching profession for the first time. A very successful year is the wish extended to pupils, students and teachers.

The regular monthly meeting of York's Missionary Society comprising the Ladies Auxiliary and Mission Circle met jointly in the Church. The devotional period was led by the President of York's Society and Provincial Secretary for Prince Edward Island, auxiliary after the business period opened and roll calls were answered by verse of Scripture Mrs. E. J. Vessey in her usual capable manner arose and after splendidly pointing out the pre-eminence of Mrs. Nicholson took in all the activity of the Church and for the betterment and welfare of community and the province called upon Mrs. W. D. Cooke who read the address of the Society. Mrs. Nicholson graciously thanked the societies for gift and stated it was an honour and pleasure to have done her part in the Mission of the United Church of Canada. The treasurer's reports were given, and allocations for present year, $302, to be raised by Auxiliary Mission Circle and the two Mission Bands. Meeting closed by Miss Phyllis Benedict.

Tribute To Buchan

were many thousands of vocal Scotmen openly delighting in the knowledge that yet another name had sent a poor boy forth into the world to show what industry and education and courage and character could accomplish in a Commonwealth of opportunity. And almost everyone joined in this delight. For Canada, like the rest of North America, feels a sort of family pride in a man who, without wealth or privileges or influence, shows his own path through the forests of the frontier. Here, they thought and said was a man with a North American star.

There was a little disappointment that the hero of the story was coming as a peer and not as a commoner, but the necessity for that was understood. There was a general feeling that he was the choice of both great political parties, and that for once Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. R. B. Bennett were in complete agreement on a matter of high policy.

All those who wrote poems and made books and painted pictures and sang songs and delivered speeches were certain that a master, who understood the yearning of those who set their pretence hand to creative things, was coming to encourage them and to advance the strength of the intellectual life of their country and to give them a feeling too, that John Buchan would understand not only the lyrical things that had been written of Canada but also the epic things that were being done in far places, the vision beyond the hills, the drama of the frontier, the romance of the past, the color of the fabric of the present, the strength of the fibre of many races of which a new national pattern was being fashioned.

Those who thought seriously of the new Commonwealth and of Canada's national and international destiny in a world already darkened by the gathering clouds so bigger and no smaller than the hands of Hitler and Mussolini those who longed for and were striving to achieve a permanent solution of Canada's historical racial problem and all who found a proud new hope in the stirring of Canada's growing strength, believed that the Scotsman who lives and queries the English the biographer of the brave who lived and died for a cause that was lost and yet never lost, the chronicler of the Great War, one of the earnest young brotherhood who sought to heal the wounds of South Africa would have something provocative to contribute to the healthy intellectual and political unrest that was the mark of the new Canada that saluted its new Governor-General.

In short, the choice of him as an exciting national event, the unanimity that welcomed him on his first coming was surpassed only by the universality of the grief that mourned his departure.

UPSET STOMACH on the Train...

TWO RENNIES give instant aid

INDIGESTION comes at the most awkward times—on the train for instance, and miles from home or a drug store. But you can have quick relief at once if you carry a few RENNIES in your vest-pocket. You take RENNIES right on the spot (no need to wait for a glass of water).

Digestif RENNIES are pleasant-tasting tablets. You dissolve them on your tongue like candies. Their soothing antacid ingredients mingle with the saliva of your mouth, and drip gently into your stomach, thus quickly helping to neutralize excess acid and also helping to relieve the distressing gnawing sensations of indigestion... upset stomach and heartburn.

Each RENNIE tablet is individually wrapped in hygienic waxed paper, so you can always carry a few in your pocket or handbag. Easy to take—anytime, anywhere. At all Drug Stores, 25c, and 75c.

Each RENNIE don't relieve your indigestion, it's high time you saw your doctor.
