ARREST AUTO THIEF - Caught in the act stealing articles from a parked car on Market Square Saturday night, a man was arrested by City Police and will appear in Court on a charge of theft from a car. He had been noticed as he went from the car attempting to get into each. When he finally succeeded, Constable Gordon Poole apprehended him. Just as he was caught the thief threw a flashlight in the ground. Another thief, who was "hitting" a nearby car, escaped before he could be reached by the policeman.

FIRST LOBSTERS - The first lobsters of the season appeared on the markets in Charlottetown on Saturday night. From one section of the country, the first of the fishing village on the north side, came 700 pounds of the tasty crustaceans. This was the result of the first day that only part of the traps out. The fishermen in this section did not complete "running the lines" until Saturday. Most of the lobsters caught the first day were small. They were priced at 35 cents a pound in Charlottetown.

SEIZE 'STILL' - Early this morning 'still' after midnight, the City Police combined with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the seizure of a liquor distilling plant in a residence in the city. The still was in operation when police raided the house. It was located in the kitchen. Two buckets of "mash" and a found of corn whisky was found in the still. Court action will follow. Those taking part in the raid were: Cpl. N. A. Shaw and Lawrence McInnis, A. J. Lund and Duncan McPhail of the City Police.

JAMES CHURCH Concluding his sermon last night in the Kirk, the Minister, Flight Lieutenant, Rev. T. H. Russell, said, "The peace of God, which is the victory of the God-centred life, and such is strong ineffable serenity. It is based on understanding, it is based on love, it is based on faith, it is based on the face of a friend who has found it, you may have watched the transforming influence at work in one life here, and another there; but you cannot realize its power or blessedness until you have it for your own possession. For it surpasses all our dreams. The peace of God is not something to be captured once for all; it is something which is captured all over again every day. It is achieved, not by one big, spectacular resolution, but by a daily surrender of the will to God, an ever-renewed grip of the only hand that can hold us upright and keep us safe. If only we would start each day with Christ, reaching out from the dust and darkness of this low earth to clasp the hand of that Friend, the ever-old, ever-new miracle would happen once again, and our restless hearts find rest and healing in the invincible peace of God." HOLY REDEEMER A large number of children were present at the Church of the Holy Redeemer last evening as special devotions in honor of the Virgin Mary were held. The May procession around the church included in its numbers brownies, girl guides, boy scouts, wolf cubs, and sanctuaries boys. The service opened with prayers which were led by Rev. A. MacDonald, C. S. R. An appropriate sermon on "Our Blessed Lady" was preached by Rev. Thomas Green, C. S. R. This was followed with benediction celebrated by Father MacDonald. During the impressive ceremony hymns suitable to the occasion, were sung by the children. Yesterday morning at the 10.30 mass, Rev. Father Green was the celebrant. The gospel was read by Father MacDonald who also read the announcement and outlined the program for the 25th anniversary of the Episcopal Consecration of Pope Pius XII. This will commence next Sunday and continue throughout the week.

Many shocked By death of Mr. L. S. Blanchard. The many friends of Louis S. Blanchard were shocked to learn of his death on Saturday night in the Charlottetown Hospital after a comparatively short illness. Mr. Blanchard was the son of Mr. Alvina Blanchard and the late Judge Stanislaus Blanchard, Judge of the County Court of King's County. After primary education at Queen's Square School, Mr. Blanchard entered St. Dunstan's University in 1911, where he spent three years with the Royal Bank of Canada. He then joined the Provincial Bank of Canada, where he served for seven years as manager of the North End Branch in Saint John, N. B. From 1918 to 1921 he was and for seven years he was capable manager of the Summerside branch. On the mainland he held important offices in the Elks Club and at the time of his death was a member of the board of trustees of the Prince County Hospital. Possessing a kind, gentle and charitable nature, the late Mr. Blanchard quickly became a general favorite and the esteem in which he was held can easily be estimated by the numerous friends he made. He leaves to mourn his demise his mother, three brothers, Cornelius B. Halifax; Jack and Albert at home; and five sisters, Mrs. Byron Brown, Mrs. Mrs. Jack McLeod, Mrs. J. Douglas, Mary and Antoinette all of Charlottetown. (Saint John papers please copy)

THE BAPTIST CHURCH For his morning sermon the Rev. I. Judson Levy spoke on "The True Values of Life". One of life's greatest problems is to find a sense of the permanent amidst the changing values of the day, to sit out the worthwhile while from the trivial. Men are questioning, what really matters? What is the object of all our striving? Is there anything that we have been so busy about those matters that seem useful and urgent and setting aside the best. Jesus offers us a guide. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. We have emphasized all things in terms of the material while Jesus says "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he hath." In these days when so much floats and jettison upon a sea, stainless, shoreless, bound nowhere. "We need a curfew to ring in a community spirit, which counts upon something more than every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost. "We need a curfew to wake up a lot of us Christians, afflicted with sleeping sickness, who know not the difference between a curfew bell and an alarm clock. "Nothing is so useless, meaningless and absurd as a bell without a ringer; a curfew that doesn't ring. We have laws and resolutions without resolution. "We talk about the City Council, the police officers and all the rest of law enforcement. One thing is certain-absolutely certain-you can change your council, multiply your police force, add a hundred new bye-laws, and after all our changes, there is no law and no guardians of the law who can do our job, the job that you and I must do or the job which must be forever undone. "The City Council needs a backing, without which the Council, the police, the magistrate will be as less as the fifth wheel on a wagon. "You and I are the council. Every decent citizen is a policeman. Every little added to what we already have of authority, will clean our streets and empty our alleys and make our city a place where men and women can walk without the fear of meeting the morning after the night before. "Let us have a curfew backed by the best homes, the best in the community, the best in the churches, the best everywhere, and I venture to say the curfew will ring and no one will say-"Curfew must be rung to-night." Mr. Levy MacGregor and Lieutenant W. L. Dingwall were heard in two effective and inspiring solos. PREVENTS TIRE THEFTS To assist police in preventing tire thefts, it has been made an offence to sell or purchase any tire from which the serial number has been obliterated.
