Judge Critical Of Chaplin's Performance

LONDON, Dec. 1. (A.P.)—Charlie Chaplin played a courtroom role today, and didn't like it very well.

The comedian, looking the part of complete gravity, gave a performance that failed to impress Judge Tobin. The judge, in fact, was rather fleg with his criticism.

The upshot of the proceedings was that Chaplin paid 100 pounds and costs to Miss May Shepherd, who claimed back pay for publicity and secretarial services in connection with his visit to England.

He dropped his defense of the suit, he explained, because the names of prominent persons had been brought into it.

Yesterday Miss Shepherd's testimony that Chaplin ducked out of a dinner engagement with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and she had to write his letter of apology provoked the judge to remark: "This is going to do us a lot of good in foreign countries. Fancy how foreigners will laugh at us, and quite rightly too."

When court opened this morning Chaplin, who was not present yesterday, showed up with his lawyers who announced a settlement had been reached subject to the court's permitting Chaplin to make a statement under oath.

"Oath should I hear Mr. Chaplin on oath except at the proper time?" asked the judge.

One of the lawyers remarked that Chaplin had been "astonished to hear the names of very distinguished and influential persons, whose friendship and acquaintance he was privileged to have, were being banded about the court."

"Banded about?" said Judge Tobin. "I don't like that 'banded about'."

Counsel explained it was extremely painful to Chaplin that such names had been mentioned.

"What does he want to say?" asked the judge. "Does he want to apologize to the Prime Minister?"

"No, that isn't it," the lawyer replied.

"Why should I let the time of the court be taken up when he is no longer contesting the case?" demanded the judge.

But he let the comedian take the witness box. Chaplin, dapper in a blue suit, but looking worried, barely started to answer the first question asked him when the judge interrupted, admonishing him to speak up.

After the comedian had declared his regret about the prominent names, counsel for both sides retired to a consultation room. They were gone about twenty minutes when the judge sent word he would give them just three minutes more.

When they returned Chaplin sat with his defenders.

"It is the practice of this court for counsel only to occupy these front benches," the judge said. "I cannot have liberties taken by other people."

Chaplin took a seat two rows to the rear.

The comedian subsequently explained he had started to fight the case because he understood "the lady had been paid in full."

CONFLICT OF

In brief, the majority, whose recommendation was that the men should accept the proposed wage-cut take the stand that the present depressed conditions of railway earnings, together with the lower cost of living, warrants the decrease. On the other hand, Dr. Hemmeon considers the present a most inopportune time to reduce wages and expresses the conviction that "better times are at hand, but for times for both the railways and the employees."

In a message from Montreal this afternoon came announcement by the general chairman of the 21 railway brotherhoods affected that the men rejected the board's award. A telegram to this effect was despatched to Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways. At a late hour today this wire had not been received at the department.

"What the next step will be remains for the future. Strong efforts to reconcile the disputants will be put forward. Officials here expressed the hope that some means might be devised on getting the affected parties together and ironing out the difficulties."

The reports indicate an exhaustive analysis of the voluminous exhibits that were presented in evidence. These had to do with statistics dealing with the cost of living, railwaymen's wages, company finances and other cognate elements. The majority report finds that a marked decrease has taken place in the cost of living and that, even with a ten per cent cut, the employees affected would still be ahead of conditions as they existed in the days of higher wages and higher living costs. It does not accept the railwaymen's views that wages in Canada should be dictated by the schedules existing for similar work on United States roads. Canadian wages should be governed by conditions, not in another country, but in Canada itself.

Will Not Accept Cut

The stand of the general chairmen was summed up in the following letter sent to Grant Hall, Vice-president of the Canadian Pacific and S. J. Hungerford, Vice-president of the Canadian National, signed by J. B. Ward, Chairman, Conference Committee of General Chairman of Railway Employees and B. L. Daly, Secretary:

"The conference committee of General Chairmen, representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and telegraphers on your lines received this morning the majority and minority reports in connection with the investigation recently held on the proposals of the railways to reduce wages by 10 per cent. We have advised the Department of Labor (at Ottawa) as follows:

"In reply to your letter of December 1st, enclosing a copy of the board's decision indicating the view of two members of the board that basic wage rates should be reduced by 10 per cent, I am authorized to advise; by unanimous vote, this committee of general chairmen finds themselves unable to accept the recommendation for 10 per cent, reduction of the basic wage rates and this letter will therefore advise you that the question at issue will now be submitted to the 26,000 or more employees directly concerned."
