BELGIAN'S KING NEAR BETRAYED TO THE GERMANS

His Majesty Escaped Only by Shooting His Chauffeur, says French Paper

Papers on Chauffeur's Body Show He Was Offered Two Hundred Thousand Dollars

PARIS, Sept. 26.—King Albert of the Belgians escaped capture by the Germans recently only by shooting the chauffeur, who was driving him rapidly toward the German lines, according to the newspaper Progres du Nord published in Lille.

Describing the narrow escape of the King, the paper declares the incident occurred while His Majesty was making a tour of inspection of the Belgian forts. He noticed that his chauffeur was taking him near the German lines and ordered him to stop. Instead, the chauffeur put on full speed and headed straight for the army. King Albert drew his revolver and shot the chauffeur dead, then turned the car about. Papers were found on chauffeur's body showing that the Germans had promised him $200,000 if he was successful in delivering the King into their hands.

AUTUMN WEATHER

LONDON, September 26.—A correspondent to the Daily Mail in France says that the rain has affected a change in the German operations on the Aisne. Chalky soil, he says, holds water in trenches like a cup and the Autumn downpour has driven the Germans out of the trenches and forced them to fight in the open where the French can get at them with their bayonets.

ALLIES' PRISONERS.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A Central News Agency has the following despatch from Rome: "A message from Berlin says the General Staff having agreed to complete an official list of prisoners, has found it necessary to admit that the totals already announced were erroneous: the aggregate number of prisoners in German hands is now reduced from 250,000 to 50,000 of whom 30,000 are Russians."

IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY

proved their real metal. Their difficulties welded them into a unit. That is just what we find in the British Empire to-day. This cruel war has shown what a reality the unity of the British Empire is.

THE GRANDEUR OF THIS UNITY.
What a picture it is! Only a few weeks ago Nationalists and Ulsterites were drilling and arming for what seemed to be civil war in Ireland. At times it looked as if nothing could prevent bloodshed over Home Rule. Liberals and Unionists were embittered against each other. The Premier and the Leader of the Opposition were not on speaking terms. Mr. Redmond would not concede any more, and there did not seem to be any way out of a very dangerous position, when suddenly Mr. Redmond and Mr. Bonar Law became friends. Lord Beesford, who bitterly opposed Mr. Winston Churchill, shouted across the House: "Well done." Bonar Law declared that in the face of national peril all difference must cease. Mr. Redmond thanked the House and the Empire when he said that every soldier could be withdrawn from Ireland and Protestants and Catholics would defend the shores. If the German Emperor planned on help from Ireland he will be bitterly disappointed. Sir Henry Lucy's words in Punch are true. "Whatever may be happening in Belgium or the North Sea, Millennium reigns at Westminster." Every sign of faction has disappeared. The unity of the British Empire is one of the wonders of the world. How do we account for it?

The spies of the German Emperor thought they heard a loud note of discord in India. The natives were about to revolt. What does the Kaiser think about it now? The Gaekwar of Baroda has offered all his "troops and resources" to the British Government. The pictures of two Indian Princes appeared in the Montreal Daily Star recently, and they have sent word to their King: "What history does our Lord, the King-Emperor, want to write? Let us know and our blood will write it." To-day Indian troops are fighting beside English and French troops in France. These facts are the best answer to the unrest in India. Why does India remain so loyal to the British crown?

Perhaps the German Emperor was foolish enough to believe that Canada was disloyal because she did not build three dreadnoughts. The best answer is the fact that 40,000 men rushed to Valcartier when only 25,000 were asked for. Perhaps he will be glad to learn that the enlistment will go on until the end of the war. I wonder if the German war party thinks England can be starved out when Canada sent 1,000,000 bags of flour as a free gift out of her immense stores. Why is Canada so loyal to the British Empire?

Why did New Zealand send out an expeditionary force and take German Samoa? Why has Australia pledged her utmost ability to help in this war? Why is General Botha leading the expeditionary force against German South-West Africa? He declared in the South African Parliament that the Boers would rather live under British than under German rule. What subtle power is it that unites all parts of the Empire at this critical time? It is a magnificent sight such as the world has never seen before.

THE MORAL GREATNESS OF THIS UNITY.

The grandeur and greatness of this unity is that it is moral greatness. There is no legal process by which Great Britain can command a single Canadian soldier to enter the field in her aid. Great Britain cannot legally take a dollar of Canadian money for this war without Canada's consent. All must be given voluntarily if given at all. Yet men and money are being given freely. This is what makes this unity great. It is based on a moral principle. It is a noble picture that the Empire presents to the world in its moral strength. It is an evidence that spiritual power is stronger than material.

We give reasons for this marvellous unity and they have their use, but we must go deeper. We agree that England could not violate the Treaty of London and that she could not morally so back on France, her friend. English justice and honour would not allow English statesmen to regard a sacred treaty as a "scrap of paper." We are agreed that this war is a struggle for the existence of the Empire. That unites us. Life is dear. But why do not some of the nations of the Empire try just now to shake off the British yoke? That is just what they are not trying to do. They are forging more and more the chains of Empire. Why do they do it so willingly?

We are agreed that this is a struggle to rid the world of German military despotism. Germany is consumed with material ambitions and has become a menace. The German Emperor is seeking the absolute prostration of Europe. Her philosophy has taught her that the proper thing to do if you are hedged in is to "hack your way through." Germany is so anxious to advance her position that she does not hesitate to do it by rapine and murder. The philosophy of Nietzsche and the extreme Higher Criticism have done their dreadful work. This war is the end of this miserable dream. The Emperor William may be only the mouthpiece of the war party, but he has brought this bloodshed upon the world because he was unable to restrain himself and them. He is not as great a man as Napoleon, but the same could be written of him as was found on the Column Vendome which was erected to Napoleon's honour: "Monster, if all the blood that thou hast shed could be collected in this square, thou mightest drink without stooping." We are fighting the same fight that our fathers did against the tyranny of Napoleon. Our battle is against the way of the sabre. We are determined to cast down the war god from his column and grind him to powder. We believe that democratic institutions are threatened with a death wound. We are not fighting for ourselves alone, but for the freedom of the world. The most flagrant iniquity in the world to-day is German militarism, and it must die.

UNITED WE STAND.

Have we answered the question why is the British Empire so solidly united in this war? We have tried to show that underneath all the apparent reasons there is the main one, which is moral and spiritual. It is the great moral and spiritual earnestness of the English people, which comes from the gospel of Jesus Christ, that unites them. We entered upon this war because we believed that righteousness was the only thing that would keep the world right.

"That right is right, and God is God, and right the day will win. To doubt would be disloyalty, to falter would be sin."

It is the consciousness that great moral issues are at stake, which we as British people have upheld, that drives us to battle. That is why the Empire is so loyal and united. If Germany conquers liberty will be put back for centuries. If England conquers every man in every land will have a better chance to the rights which belong to him. Bunyan in his immortal Allegory speaks about the man of very stout countenance who came up to the writer with the horn at the door of the Interpreter's Palace. When every man started back for fear of the armed men, he said: "Set down my name, sir." That is what the men of the British Empire are doing in the face of the militarism of Germany. United we stand in the face of the common foe of humanity. It is the

ALLIES ARE NOW CERTAIN ENEMY IS FALLING BACK

Within Two or Three Weeks They Declare Germans Will be Out of France

PERCEPTIBLY GIVING GROUND Gains of Allies are Slow But Sure—Germans Destroy as They Go

PARIS, September 24.—Convinced that Germany now has her entire field strength available, the high military officials here declare that within another fortnight or three weeks at the outside, she will be fighting a defensive contest outside of French territory. They base this belief on the reports received by General Gallieni, that the British-French turning movement on the left continues, with the Germans giving ground—slowly and stubbornly—but giving ground. The German centre and left have seemingly given up the attempt to assume the offensive and should the left give way the inevitable outcome must be the abandonment of their entire present line just the instant that it gets out of proportion with the right.

The fact that the Allies now hold the hills north of the Aisne river from Soissons to Craonne proves conclusively, it is pointed out here, that the German reinforcements sent

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 26.—An appeal to the civilized world has been issued by the committee of the German Humanity League here. It is signed by Earl Bernstein, Emil Gott, Franz Mandlsdorf, Gustav Ochs and Ernest Schuster, and says:—

"We reiterate, as men passionately loving our Fatherland, and although living in exile, serving our country to the utmost of our power, that is the bounden duty of every man who cares for the welfare of mankind to join hands in arresting the Kaiser and the men around him responsible for the appalling crimes which have disgraced our nation in the eyes of the world. No matter how long the campaign and how great the sacrifices it may entail, we know that the true and lasting interests of the toilers and wage earners in Germany can only be served by a victory of the allied armies."

THE KAISER'S DECEPTION.

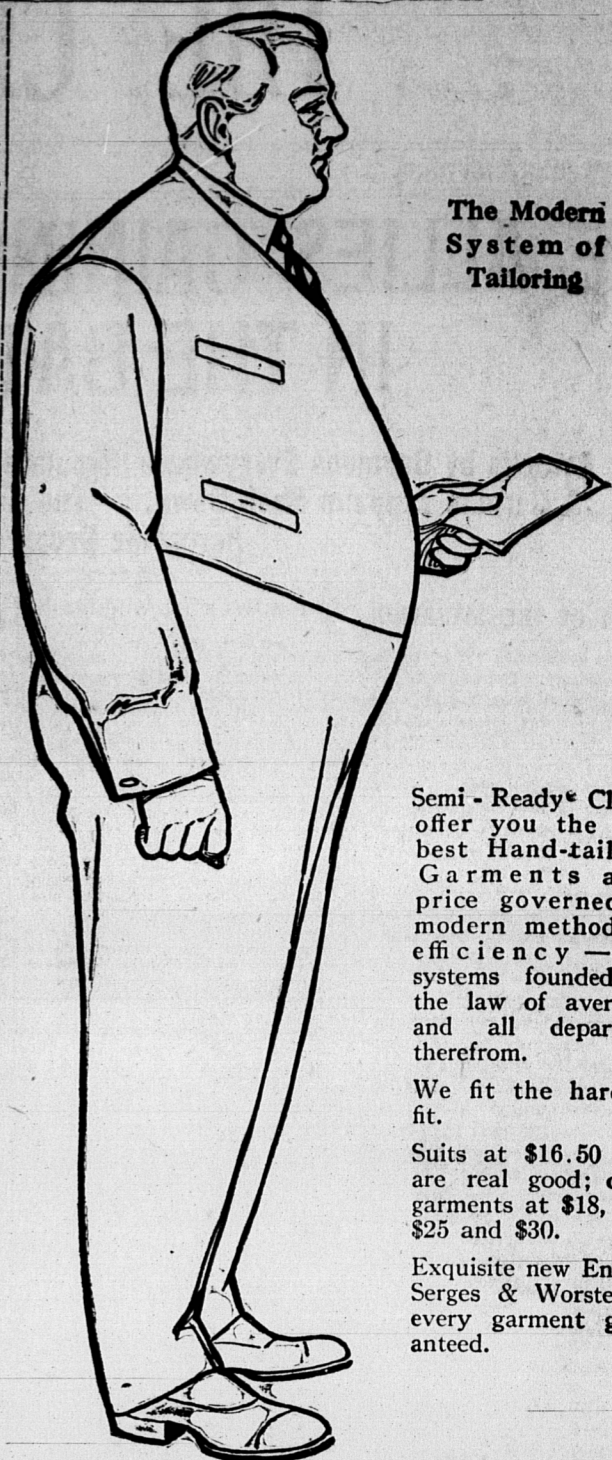

"The Kaiser having ruined innocent people and deceived Belgium, is now despoiling France and drenching the land with the blood of his victims."

"It must therefore be plain to all honest men without distinction of race or creed or party that there can be no settlement of the existing disruptions, no lasting peace or security for the rights of man and no protection of democracy from brigandage and death until the Imperial domination of Prussia within Germany is crushed, disarmed and swept away forever."

est doubt that the Germans have already commenced withdrawing and that the battle of the Aisne, the third decisive conflict of the war to date, is to be settled with a second victory recorded for the Allies. They openly assert that the destruction of the Rheims Cathedral, emphasizes this belief in their mind, the German plan of campaign to date having been chiefly remarkable for the terrible damage wrought through motives dominated by revenge.

JOHN R. DINNIS PEDIGREED FOXES LTD.

Description of Ranch

The chief point of interest for the thousands of tourists who visit Charlottetown is the Dinnis Farm. It is situated about ten minutes' drive from the city on an eminence overlooking the harbour, and consists of one hundred and sixty acres of land. It is chiefly of interest because the fox ranch, which occupies ten acres of woodland on the highest point of this farm, is the largest in the province and its owner has the reputation of being the most successful of fox breeders up to the present time.

Situated as it is on a wooded hill-top, it is ideally located for a fox home. The natural drainage of the ground is perfect, so that there is no danger of spring freshets, so fatal to young foxes. The air is always pure and fresh, for the winds which sweep the hill-top carry away all harmful and disagreeable odours and tumble the chilling fogs into the valley below. The fact that Mr. Dinnis has never had a single case of sickness among his animals since he acquired the present ranch (three years ago) is sufficient evidence of the healthfulness of the ranch and surroundings. The ranch has an enviable history of success. Last year seven per cent. of the island's increase of young foxes were born on this ranch. This year Mr. Dinnis has raised fifty-eight young foxes. It is not much wonder that he is called the "Wizard Rancher."

THE DINNIS RANCH.

The largest on Prince Edward Island, containing at present 110 foxes.

Description of Foxes

DINNIS PEDIGREED FOXES are regarded as the type, "par excellence" of silver black fox. They are characterised by thin mobile ears; a full neck, short and arched from the back; width over shoulders and through the heart; a long, delicately turned head; a springy pelt, and pink skin covered with a wealth of fine lustrous fur, particularly marked on limbs and under body; and a large heavy "brush." These are the hall marks of health and vigour.

The foundation stock of the DINNIS PEDIGREED FOXES was selected from the pens of the Pioneer Ranchmen, Charles Dalton and R. T. Oulton, Alberton, and from the famous Rayner Ranch, Alberton, Prince Edward Island. The crossing of these two noted strains has produced a beautiful, vigorous, large animal that combines the fine rich lustrous fur of the one breed with the high quality blood and phenomenal productiveness of the other. The pelts of ancestors of some of these foxes sold for the highest prices on the London market. The litter reared last year by the mother of Queen Mary, one of the Company's foxes sold for forty-five thousand dollars (45,000), while another litter reared by the dam the Duke of Connaught sold for forty-six thousand dollars (46,000).

Guarding The Dinnis Ranch

Standing out prominently is the night watchman's house, which overlooks the ranch and the public road. Supplementing the eye of this officer is the vigilance of another watchman, whose especial business it is to patrol the ranch. There are brilliant lights surrounding the ranch, which are turned on every night to enable the trained night watchman to protect the foxes from disturbance.

The equipment is the largest and most up-to-date in the Province. The pens of the PEDIGREED FOXES number one to eleven and occupy the premier position on the ranch. Every convenience that ingenuity can suggest, and money procure, has been incorporated in the construction of their dens. The pens in which they take exercise are very large, and no pains have been spared to assure absolute comfort to the valuable occupants of these de luxe dwellings. The shareholders of the JOHN R. DINNIS PEDIGREED FOXES LIMITED have sole use and control of Mr. Dinnis' name so long as the Company carries on business.
