The site selected, was in Henry Wood's grove which proved to be a beautiful place for a picnic. Early in the evening the crowd dispersed and made their way to Vernon River Bridge hall to hear Dr. Moore lecture.

Dangerous forest fires have been raging around Kensington for the past few days. Saturday evening there was a big blaze in the vicinity of Tuplin's mill, Indian River, and on Friday evening a fire threatened to do great damage in Burlington. In the present dry weather great precautions should be taken and the law which makes carelessness a crime should be enforced. Happily heavy rain at Kensington yesterday afternoon materially lessened the present danger.

Great preparations are being made for the monster reunion to be given by J. J. Hughes M. P. at Souris this evening upon the arrival of the train from Charlottetown. The firemen were called out a few minutes after eleven o'clock Saturday night and there was joy among those who for years have been looking vainly for an up-to-date depot when it was learned that the Railway Station was in flames. The spot was soon reached by the firemen and the blaze was located in the roof over the news stand where it was probably ignited by a spark from the express which had come in some time before. A few minutes sufficed for the water to extinguish the fire and general expressions of regret from the spectators. This is the fourth time within several years that the same building has been ignited but the hope for the destruction of the building has always been doomed to disappointment.
