"Listen To Me" a Musical Hit

Theatre-goers who are alert to appreciate merit in a musical score will quickly realize why LeComte and Flesher's new extravaganza, "Listen To Me," coming to the Prince Edward Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, October 24th and 25th was successful from the opening performance. Independent of the fact that "Listen To Me" carries an excellent cast supported by a youthful chorus that can dance and sing, an exquisite display of scenic splendor, marvelous novelities, gorgeous costumes and an absorbing fantastic story beautifully untried, is the reality that its score of musical gems is a theme of critical admiration. "Listen To Me" has been lauded broadcast by all. Some have adored its spectacular wonders, others have admired the lavish array of scenery and costumes, others highly praising the cast and chorus, while many have been thrown into ecstasy over the beautiful fantastic story, but all have worshipped the score of ethereal musical gems.

Those who enjoy artistic grandeur in all its rapture can drink to their fill when "Listen To Me" with all its gorgeousness will be presented in this city. Seat sale opens tomorrow Friday morning at 9.30 a. m.

Do not split the shell fully open. Take some short pieces of matchsticks and place these across the opening of the bean so that they look like little seats. And now, with some tiny cardboard oars, you will have such a novel little boat.
