THEY HAD TO SEE PARIS

By Homer Croy

While Mrs. Peters and Opal were laying their careful plans, something pleasing and exciting happened. One day in the mail Mrs. Peters received a letter from Mrs. Kenon Aspinwall, an eighteenth-century home in Passy. Mrs. Peters had first met this distinguished lady at a tea and later at numerous charity fetes which Mrs. Peters had so eagerly gone in for. Mrs. Aspinwall was a leader in American society in Paris; her name figured constantly in the society news, and when she gave an affair the list of her titled guests was long and imposing. She was the patroness of every new and stylish art-foot; she headed subscriptions and a "drive" could not be started without Mrs. Aspinwall at the front. Mrs. Peters was afraid of her; and now at sight of the formal letter inviting them to dinner she was happy. "To meet some of our friends," she noted.

"We would never have received this she said, 'if we hadn't taken Mont d'Or'."

The round of life in the chateau began for Pike also, and during the first few days he was interested. He wandered from room to room in the great establishment, looking in amazement at the unbelievably thick walls and at the windows still guarded by their ancient iron bars. The wonder of it struck him.

"Why, this was an old, old place when the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock!" he said to himself. He came upon a tomb set in the wall. Faintly outlined he could read the name and the hoary date.

"Think of them burying people in houses," he said.

He liked to sit in the little chapel. In a curving recessed window was a figure of Christ on the Cross sculptured in wood and before the figure was a praying-chair with its low seat and high back. He liked to think of all the people who must have knelt there and poured out their sufferings and hopes and fears. He himself knelt on the squeaking seat, but it was uncomfortable and soon he took one of the plain chairs farther back. He liked to look at the calm figure of Christ bathed in the warm rich light from the colored windows, and his lips, which were rare for him, murmured a prayer.

"Oh, Jesus, make me a better man," he whispered. "Protect my family and friends."

Pike did not know what he believed in religion. Once he had believed everything that had been said to him, and then his questioning nature had begun to doubt. But he no longer believed Christ to be the Son of God, nor in the Virgin birth; Heaven and hell had departed long ago.

"Treat people right and do the square thing here, take a chance on heaven, and let hell look after itself," he sometimes said.

But in spite of his doubts, he crept into the little chapel nearly every day.

"It's restful," he said. He was disappointed in the oubliette.

"Is that it?" he said. One day he found a ladder and, pulling off the heavy iron cover, lowered himself into that dusty hole. He picked up a rusted lock, some tattered shreds of garments and a bone, which he could not tell whether human or animal. Putting the bone down quickly, he scrambled up again, his interest gone.

He looked at the complicated system of weights and counter-weights which manipulated the old draw-bridge. His mind, interested in mechanics, liked to figure out how it was managed. He

Insidious Eye Strain

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from Eye Strain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any evil defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eye Strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

Buckley's Mixture Being Featured

During the week of January 30th to February 6th the druggists from coast to coast in Canada are observing "Buckley's Mixture Sales Promotion Week." This sales event, which is carried on by the manufacturers in co-operation with various druggists divisions of the Retail Merchants' Association throughout Canada, is held at this time in order to further impress upon the public the high quality of this product which is available everywhere. Each year cold sufferers have shown their appreciation for this remedy by buying it in ever-increasing quantities.

was constantly amazed at how little the early inhabitants of Mont d'Or knew—and how much.

"They sure worked this draw-bridge business out mighty slick," he said. "One man could handle the whole contraption."

He went kicking about the grounds hoping to pick up some cannon balls or relics of former reigns, but found nothing—every foot of the gardens had been cultivated too long and too industriously for that. He found horse-shoes in the old stables and put up pegs in the court and tossed the shoes back and fourth a few times, alone; he soon grew tired of it. When the hired automobile arrived he was happy. He gave orders for the shifting of the ponderous carriage to make space for the sleek new-comer. Here was something to do something for him to employ himself at. When the chauffeur propped up the gigantic hood of the car and tinkered with its vitals, Pike stood near, eagerly watching. He wanted to examine it and to study it. How did it differ from American cars? Going down to the village one day, he bought a pair of trousers and a long blue overshirt, such as all French workmen wear, and started to explore the car's fascinating depths.

But as he was putting on the clothes, Mrs. Peters came out.

"Don't do that. What will people think if they see you working on the car? You are now a gentleman; that's a chauffeur's job. Men in Europe don't do it. I want you to promise me that you won't tinker with this car like a common workman." She extracted the promise.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND PRESBYTERIAL OF THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

The Prince Edward Island Presbytery of the United Church of Canada met in annual session in Kensington United Church, Tuesday and Wednesday January 28th and 29, 1930. Despite the inconvenience and uncertainty of mid-winter travelling an exceptionally large representation of delegates and members from many sections of the province was present, and most hospitably received and entertained by the Kensington friends.

On Tuesday at eleven o'clock the executive met and dealt with several items of routine business. All the meetings were graciously presided over by Mrs. John Sterling, Montague Acting President.

On Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock the first session was opened with a service of worship led by Mrs. Major Townsend, Sherbrooke.

Miss Myra A. Veazey, recently returned after 37 years missionary service in Japan and Miss Dulcie Cooke, missionary-elect to Japan in September of this year were introduced.

Roll call of societies was conducted by Mrs. P. E. Boothroyd, York, Corr. Sec. and the various committees named, as follows:—

Resolutions—Mrs. A. J. Matheson, O'Leary, Convenor; Mrs. William Adams, Central; Mrs. E. M. Aitken, Cornwall.

Credential and Courtesy—Miss Elma Inman, Carleton. Convenor; Mrs. D. M. Sinclair, Valleyfield; Mrs. H. S. Bisop, Cavendish. Press—Mrs. E. T. Schurman, Pictou; Mrs. D. M. MacLeod, Hunter River.

Com. on nominations for Branch officers: Mrs. S. M. Martin, Heatherdale, convenor; Mrs. C. N. Brown, Charlottetown; Mr. J. L. Lockhart, Charlottetown.

Com. on nomination for Presbytery delegation to Branch—Miss Doris Muncie for Prince County; Mrs. E. E. Mutch, Charlottetown for Queens; Mrs. E. M. Quigley, St. Peters for Kings County.

Mrs. J. R. Saint very warmly welcomed the delegates and visitors to Kensington and Mrs. Lockhart, on their behalf, graciously replied.

Greetings were extended from the P. E. Island Presbytery by Rev. Dr. Saint.

Greetings also were brought by Mrs. Howard from St. Marks Church of the New London parish of the church of England, and by Mrs. Jardine on behalf of the Kensington W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church. These Mrs. Sterling very graciously acknowledged. The Round Table Question Box was introduced by Mrs. C. N. Brown.

The Acting President's Address was at once an appeal and inspiration. Mrs. Sterling based her very beautiful remarks on the words "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, thy God reigneth." "The Lord giveth the word. The woman that publish the tidings are a great host."

In the regrettable absence of Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, Bedeque her report on the department of Christian Stewardship and Finance was presented by Mrs. G. A. Grant, Winsloe as follows:—

- No. of societies reporting 30.
- No. having a Sec. of Ch. Stewardship and Finance 13.
- No. having a Finance Com. 11.
- No. having question of Ch. Stewardship presented regularly 14.
- No. giving by envelope 6.
- No. adopting a missionary in prayer 5.

- No. reaching their allocation 27.
- No. adopting the Budget plan 9.
- No. making quarterly financial surveys 28 all figures, based only on the thirty societies reported.

Mrs. E. H. Ramsay, Associated Helpers' Sec. reported as follows:—

- Membership in the dept. 110;
 - Contributions $186.44.
- Mrs. S. M. Martin, Strangers' Sec. reported as follows:—
- No. of Strangers visited 377.
 - No. of removals reported 18.
 - No. patients visited in Hospitals 95.
 - No. patients visited on return from Hospitals 76.
 - No. Assisted in other ways 63.
 - Total number of strangers helped 629.

Mrs. W. E. Aitken, Central reported on Literature and Study Books as follows:—

- No. of auxiliaries using Study Book in monthly meetings 18.
- No. auxiliaries using Study Book in groups 8.
- No. auxiliaries using suggested program leaflets 27.
- No. Study Books sold 45.
- No. Annual reports sold 74.
- No. reporting organized Study Group 1.
- No. auxiliaries forwarding mission boxes 29.

The Supply Sec. urged that auxiliary ship mission boxes direct, addressed to Messrs Pickford & Black Halifax, at the same time notifying Miss Minnie Bell, Maritime Supply Sec. Halifax and the local Supply Sec. Mrs. J. B. Andrew reported for the W. M. S. paper the "Missionary monthly," as follows:—

- Total number subscribers 826 in the 66 societies reporting.
- All money orders should be made payable to the missionary monthly, Toronto and enclosed when mailing the subscriptions, to the local missionary monthly Sec.

Letter of Condolence

Mrs D. D. MacDonald Rose Valley. Dear Sister:— We the members of the W. M. S. at Rose Valley, wish to say a few words of sympathy to you on the loss of your father, who was called so suddenly away. You remember when our first parents were in Eden, there was all manner of fruit there was also the tree of life; they could eat any of the fruit, except the one they were told would surely cause death, but they chose to eat that fruit, and so all their descendants became heirs to death. Had not the second Adam come, and opened out the way to the tree of life, which God guarded by a flaming sword, none of the human race would have ever known the meaning of life; but because our Mag- the fruit thereof, Not only is the fruit good, but its very leaves doth fillet upon us the Tree of Life is heal the nations, so we leave you

She has learned how to keep clothes new looking twice as long

(the same way the movies do)

"I DO have more pretty clothes now, though I don't spend any more than I used to. The reason is, I've discovered how to keep everything I wear like new so much longer. Instead of spending all my money just to replace things that look old and shabby too quickly, now I can buy extra clothes.

"I learned the secret by reading about the movies—how they keep screen clothes just like new twice as long by always washing them in Lux. Since then, I've used Lux for all my things—stockings, undies, gloves, sweaters, dresses."

"It's perfectly marvelous what a difference this makes. All my clothes look like new so much longer. Now, I don't have to spend every cent just replacing worn-outs. I can afford luxuries."

You, too, can have the same wonderful results with Lux... keep all your clothes new looking far, far longer... Then your clothes money won't all go into replacing worn-outs—you can afford so many extra nice things.

JANET GAYNOR, Fox Star. Her studio, like all the big studios, uses Lux "to keep clothes like new twice as long."

"Why do you carry a lantern in your quest of that rare specimen, an honest man?" "Merely to be original," replied Diogenes. "Ordinarily a man engaged in such a search thinks all he needs is a looking glass."

"I had something very important to say to you and I've quite forgotten what it was." "Well, never mind. I couldn't consider it anyway as I'm already engaged."

"In winter I want wealth and its luxurious comforts—just the time you need them most." "I feel the same way in the winter and also in the spring, the summer and the fall."
