numbers of transports, moved eastward toward the American positions from Rabaul and Buin, which the enemy had been assembling its expeditionary forces.

BOMBERS HELPED

The Navy credited the Army bombers of Gen. MacArthur's Command with supplying "great assistance" in the early phase of the successful attack on the Japanese fleet at Rabaul and Buin, as reported in communications from Australia.

The Japanese expedition moved toward Guadalcanal behind a warship spearhead of two battleships, two heavy cruisers, four light cruisers and about 12 destroyers, which reached the American island shortly after midnight Nov. 12.

The punishment dealt out to the Japanese fleet in this battle the enemy's losses in the Solomons to date, as reported by Navy communications, to 35 ships sunk, five probably sunk and 71 damaged, or 111 vessels of all types sunk and damaged.

Against this, the United States has reported the loss of 24 ships sunk, including two aircraft carriers, three cruisers, and at least five damaged. In addition, the Australian cruiser Canberra was sunk while operating as part of the naval force covering the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area in August.

No Carriers?

In detailing the composition of the enemy armada smashed in the recent action, the communique significantly mentioned no aircraft carriers. This is the first time since the Pacific war started that their presence has not been noted in a major engagement. The Japs had lost six of the eight which they entered the war before the latest fighting opened and may be having serious difficulty in replacing them.

householders went away and left lights burning at their premises. The chief repeated previous warnings that unoccupied premises must have all lights extinguished in case of an emergency which might occur at any time.

The Fighting French statement, issued after Gen. De Gaulle's communique, brought to a head a complex, undercover situation in the British and other Allied governments which had been developing since the war began.

Eisenhower himself has made no comment except that the present arrangement was working well. In the midst of the furor, the Vichy radio announced that Marshal Petain had stripped Darlan of all his public functions and military commands, the powers under which Darlan insists he still acts with the Marshal's mandate.

and receded to drive the 8th Army back to the Mediterranean coast. Rommel's survivors, however, have lost so much equipment that they are virtually impotent, it is believed. But a determined rear guard stand at the defile might slow the 8th Army into a frontal attack. This would be costly to both armies, but Rommel, however, is expected to land reinforcements and material or see his remaining force utterly destroyed or surrendered.

Seven witnesses testified yesterday in the preliminary hearing of Frank Gallant and Harry Gallant charged with conspiracy. At 5:00 p.m. court adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

Truman D. Trenouth, sworn, an R.C.M.P. Constable stationed at Summerside, witness told of making a search of Harry Woods in Prince County on May 30, 1942. He found a tarpaper shack covered with boughs and near it was a stand and on it 17 molasses barrels, under the stand were 12 lanterns, some alight. Witness testified to finding in vicinity of shack an amount of equipment among which were, wash tub and boiler, soldering equipment, rain coat, bag of coals, steel cot, cooking utensils, groceries and a three-barrel Coleman gas stove, copper tube, galvanized metal drip pan, two sacks of empty gallon bottles, one carton of soap, and a box of matches with naphtha. Eleven of the barrels were filled with mash, a sample of which was produced and tendered in evidence. There are three other molasses barrels in the shack, approximately 500 gallons of mash. All the equipment found was tendered in evidence.

Sherman C. Parlee, sworn, resides in Moncton, formerly general clerk at the C.N.R. Express Office, Summerside. Knows Frank and Harry Gallant and Andrew Perry. Witness testified to delivering to Andrew Perry two c.o.d. express shipments from Bruce Stewart and Co. of Moncton.

J. Earl Schurman, sworn, garage owner and operator, Summerside. Knows Harry and Frank Gallant. Witness described a number of jobs he did for Harry Gallant. An angle iron framework with burners was produced and witness said he had made a start similar to that for Harry Gallant. The welding work on this frame, witness testified, was the same as on the one he made for Harry Gallant. He also testified that he had worked on for Harry Gallant a number of copper tubing. Witness said these were the same size and type as one he had ordered for Harry Gallant. He said that he had not seen Frank or Harry Gallant since they had left Summerside.

At Borden the practice blackout was one hundred per cent successful. The lights here out on pier, the houses were completely blacked out, the cars were all parked and boats were stopped.

Reports from Summerside indicate the A.R.P. organization (functioned) however, the warning sirens were still said to be inadequate with some citizens remarking they did not hear the alarm. It is understood that additional sirens are to be installed shortly and it was thought conditions might improve.

Authorities reported two cases of lights left unattended. The Commission repeated the warning that "lights must not be left burning in unoccupied buildings."

FRANCE SHALL RISE AGAIN

And where are France's allies now? So pure, so white upon her brow? They have become a bloody hue From her heart's blood the tyrant drew.

Fair France lies still and white today. As once Jaurès' daughter lay. But one came by, with power to save Jaurès' daughter from the grave.

He hid the mourners dry their tears. He hid the crowd forget its fears. He hid the gentle maiden rise. She was not dead but sleeping there.

Doubt not that France shall rise again. Her soul can never, never die. Say not grave blood was shed in vain. The Great Physician standeth by. —A. F. M.

DEATH BUT A SLEEP

"Oh what is death but sleep at last. A breath, a sigh and life is past."

The youth of life is oft times sweet. The old age often is more true. But after life if we do meet I don't think could be bad.

What use are tears when one is dead. Thoughts add the years to his hair's head.

Their hair turns grey. Their eyes grow dim. And their days fall when they think of him.

So through this world you roam. Making friends or maybe foes. While wishing inside that you were home. Where you might find peace—who knows?

But when you're dead you'll always stay. No, in their heart you'll never stay. —Pat. R. A. F.

No Discrimination To Be Tolerated

discrimination against Canadian workers for reasons of race, color or creed will not be tolerated. National Selective Service said today, warning employers that practice of discrimination might mean a shutting off of all labor supplies for their plants.

The action by Selective Service followed protests, particularly from the Canadian Jewish Congress, that some employers were discriminating against Jewish workers. The Congress sent a delegation to confer with Elliot M. Little, Director of National Selective Service and told him there had been reports that in some cases Selective Service officers
