The Way to a Man's Heart

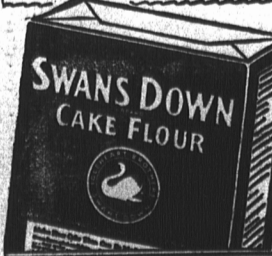

It's not very difficult to alter your Miss to Mrs. When you invite him up for dinner—remember that in the matter of interior decoration, there's nothing he'll admire more than a delicious, velvety-crumbs Swans Down-made cake!

While many a honeymoon has ended in the kitchen, many a one has lasted a lifetime right there; the man doesn't live who won't boast about his wife's baking if it's really worth it. And it's a wise wife or a wiser bride who knows the secret of Swans Down baking—she knows that Swans Down practically guarantees baking triumphs if she follows the directions. For Swans Down is especially made for cake-baking. It's carefully milled from only the finest of selected soft Canadian winter wheat, ground and re-ground, sifted and resifted through silk until it's 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. No wonder it makes novices' cakes seem like experts'! Ask your grocer for Swans Down Cake Flour.

Large Audience At Study Club Closing

The French Study Club "Evangeline", held its closing exercises on May 30th in the Holy Redeemer Hall.

A large and appreciative audience closely followed the different numbers which proved to be instructive as well as entertaining. The following is the programme: 1. A regular study period, showing what and how the club studies. The members made a pleasing appearance dressed in the traditional blue and white costume of "Evangeline".

2. A short address by Prof. J. H. Blanchard. 3. The dramatization of the song, "Marie-Moi". 4. A short three-act play: "La Femme Muette".

5. An old-time carding, spinning, and knitting "Frolic", in which all the members of the club took part. Two men who represented "bearded elders" found essential to the carrying out of this number, greatly assisted the members of the club. Considering that this was a more or less impromptu number, with little or no practice, each member of the cast did very well indeed. An old-time dance with violin accompaniment completed this number.

Rev. Father O'Sullivan spoke a few words of appreciation and encouragement in French to the members, after which the singing of "Bon Soir, Mes Amis," and "Dieu Sauve le Roi", closed a very pleasing performance.

Nancy Miller's Marriage To Hindu Is 10-Year Success

By NEA Service.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7—A great many words ought to be eaten about this time. They are words that were written a little more than 10 years ago when, on March 17, 1928, Nancy Ann Miller married Tukoj Rai, former Maharajah of Indore. This wedding of a well-educated, cultivated young American woman to an Indian potentate of Hindu faith—who has been involved in two former marriages and several political scrapes which made necessary his retirement as rajah—caused much public discussion.

There was a great deal of free-hand predicting. It couldn't last. The differences in religion, in cultural background, in traditional manner of life were too great. "East was east and west was west," and all that. The words flowed on.

Miss Miller was mercenary because the rajah had fabulous treasures. Though he belonged to a culture that was ancient before America was discovered, he was painted as a barbarian. And when they were married at Barwah, India, in the solemn Hindu ceremony which necessitated the American girl's giving up her own religion, the words flowed even more freely. Ten years have passed, and the eating of the words might as well begin now as any time. Pictures, arriving in Seattle, of the American-born wife left India soon after their marriage, the territory of Indore going in charge of a son of the rajah by a former marriage. They went to live in a fine house in St. Germain near Paris. A year later their first daughter was born. Eagerly waiting for discord, trouble, and scandal, the curious found only a devoted married pair, obviously still honeymooning. The ex-rajah's English, his European clothes, his manners, were perfect.

The caste-mark, imprinted on his Maharajah's forehead at the time of their marriage, was as inconspicuous as the devotion of the two was obvious.

Their present stay in India is only their third in 10 years. Most of that time they have lived quietly at St. Germain. In 1932, the Maharajah visited the United States, testifying verbally to the happy and tranquil life she had achieved.

Today the picture of the three lovely little girls in European dress—Sumitra, Sharda, and Sita—and that of the Maharajah in Indian dress, dignified and at peace, testify that behind all the East-West stuff there stood simply a man and a woman in love.

was lifted eight points to 110. The Common stock, however, eased 1-4 in light pressure. Minor losses were noted by Steel of Canada and United Steel in the construction section.

Buying strength in Utilities lifted Bell Telephone, Galtineau, Montreal Power and Power Corporation from 1-8 to 1-2. Metal and papers mainly were unchanged but fractional improvements showed for Osgilvie, Imperial Oil and Electrolum. Total sales: 62,500 shares; Industrials, 17,800; Mines, 4,700; Bonds, 8,000.

Tariff Board Will Begin Review Today

OTTAWA, June 7—(OP)—Sugar refiners, confectioners, distillers and beet growers will be represented before the Tariff Board tomorrow when that body begins its review of the sugar industry of Canada. The hearings are expected to last until Saturday, with possibly a resumption on Monday.

Negotiation of a new trade agreement between Canada and the West Indies is seen as an outcome of the Tariff Board's enquiry. In his budget speech Finance Minister Dunning indicated that the convention of 1922 would be overhauled some time this year, and news despatches from London last week told of the various colonies being anxious to negotiate each one separately and without intervention of the Colonial Office in London.

Since a large proportion of Canada's imports from the West Indies Islands comprise sugar and molasses, the Minister is understood to be desirous of having the whole situation in Canada placed before him as soon as possible.

Says Canada Not Lacking In Loyalty

(By The Canadian Press) MONTREAL, June 7—Agriculture Minister Gardiner today told the 18th meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada that the royal tour "has demonstrated there is no lack of loyalty among the Canadian people."

"The Empire today stands more than anything else for homes headed by men and women like the King and Queen and with children like the Princesses," he said. "Particularly in western Canada, where there are people who have come from nearly every country in Europe, a great loyalty has been shown during the trip."

"They are loyal because they enjoy greater freedom, liberty and peace of mind under the present form of government than any in the modern world."

As the child reaches the toddler stage his field of play is greatly widened. Crawling gains the first steps, as it were. Most children will crawl actively enough of their own accord, and they should be given toys which they can push or wheel along the floor to encourage them.

Further to develop the leg muscles mother should hold the legs, as in the case of the baby, and some real progress can be made with fitness exercises. Music is one of the best aids to developing muscular control. It has been found that ball games to the beat and rhythm of music and the toddler in, particular will rapidly adapt his movement to it.
