

Domestic Science Favors Bovril

Advance in knowledge compels attention to the value of food rather than quantity.

For 26 years experts in matters of diet have been occupied in ensuring the regular high quality of Bovril, and the results of recent scientific experiments at Trinity College, Dublin, have testified to the success of this work. (See The British Medical Journal Sept 16th, 1912.)

DAILY SELECTIONS FOR GUARDIAN READERS

Furnished by W. S. Louson

Marvellous talents are rare, great leaders are few, but the rank and file are an innumerable multitude—if they were not, the great leaders would amount to little. Unusual gifts and endowments may be powerful factors for good. They catch the eye and call forth the wonder and praise of the world; but nearly always behind these brilliant ones are the quiet, faithful, obscure workers who are making the great deeds possible. It was Abraham Lincoln who remarked that "the Lord must love the common people. He has made so many of them." When we come to think of it they are the people the world has needed all through the ages.

Every noble movement, every struggle against wrong and oppression since the world began has owed its successes to the uncounted host who have given to it their labor and sacrifice, but have had no place on the page of history. The splendid achievement of the few has been backed and made possible by the unselfish loyalty of the many all down the course of time, from the days of the pioneers and martyrs to the latest story of the conduct of a steamship's crew in time of wreck.

We cannot all be leaders in any notable way, and comparatively few of us have any rare or remarkable gifts with which to bless the world. Oftentimes we chafe and fret because of our limitations; we grow discouraged, belittle ourselves and our work, and are tempted to feel that since we cannot do more it is scarcely worth while to attempt to do anything. But one point in the fanciful story of the little woman and the angel is certainly true—values change in the higher altitudes, and however slighting here, there is no doubt that common goodness ranks high in heaven. It is the common saints—those who amid limitations and handicaps are doing their best in homely, commonplace ways, being patient and kind making sweet the homes fulfilling the tireless round of daily duties—who more than any other are redeeming the waste places of earth and peopling the celestial city.

A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

There passed away at Roseath on April 6th, after a short illness of pneumonia, Mary A. Kelly, daughter of Walter Kelly, at the early age of thirty-nine years. She was of a kindly disposition a devout Catholic and her kind and charitable manner endeared her to all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Her duty to her aged and helpless parents was her one thought, and her untiring efforts for their comfort and welfare, will merit their reward in Heaven and are as a living monument of her character in the memory of the dear ones she left behind. She leaves to mourn besides her father and mother, two brothers—Patrick at home and Peter in San Francisco, who have the deep sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM.

The Guardian regrets to chronicle the death of James N. McInnis, a highly respected resident of French Village, on the 29th ult. in the 64th year of his age.

The deceased had been for some time in somewhat impaired health, but his death so sudden was not expected and caused widespread regret. He will be greatly missed in the community as he was highly esteemed for his hospitality, kind disposition and Christian character. His funeral to was largely attended. His funeral to-morrow will be held at 11 o'clock at St. Andrew's, and will be officiated by Rev. Dr. Curran, who administered to her the last Sacraments of the Catholic Church. Her funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, March 24th, at St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, when the last rites being performed, all that was mortal of little Amy was laid in the grave—there to await the resurrection morn. The pall-bearers were: Michael and Stephen Duffy, Aeneas Kiggins, Patrick McGee, Albert Smith and Daniel Cusack. For the bereaved father, sisters and brothers, we extend our sincere sympathy.

NECROLOGY.

On Friday evening, March 22nd, the gentle soul of Ambrose McGuigan departed this life and wended its way to its God. The deceased, who was only in her 14th year, was the daughter of Bernard McGuigan of Brookvale. Always of a kind and gentle disposition she will be greatly missed in the home and at school where she was a general favorite and endeared herself to all. She was attended in her illness by her pastor Rev. Dr. Curran who administered to her the last Sacraments of the Catholic Church. Her funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, March 24th, at St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, when the last rites being performed, all that was mortal of little Amy was laid in the grave—there to await the resurrection morn. The pall-bearers were: Michael and Stephen Duffy, Aeneas Kiggins, Patrick McGee, Albert Smith and Daniel Cusack. For the bereaved father, sisters and brothers, we extend our sincere sympathy.

THE AUTOMOBILE FROM A WOMAN'S STANDPOINT.

pundents consider tourist travel is greatly hindered by not permitting the auto to run. This certainly does not apply to tourists of the better class a number of whom I had the pleasure of meeting last season who expressed themselves as pleased with the absence of the autos from our beautiful drives, while on their fishing excursions, and who considered their absence encouraged the best class of tourists remarking that this sentiment is increasing in the large

Our delightful Province is small indeed, cut off from the rest of the world by water, settled by brainy people with minds of their own and who will not be dictated to by foreign auto manufacturers and a handful of city men who do not represent our best citizens, and I admire the stand our people are taking on this question. The inhabitants of the Island of Bermuda take the same stand so we are not quite alone.

And now, Mr. Editor, I have always liked to drive to Charlottetown and do my "shopping" where I can see what I am buying and paying for, but if your merchants turn their backs on us and sign petitions for the repeal of the Auto Act, as I am informed many of them have done then I for one will join the ranks of the mail order women. Womanlike I would much prefer "shopping" and meet my friends in the good old way in preference to buying from foreign mail houses.

I must confess that my woman's curiosity is aroused to know the names of our city merchants who wish to introduce the auto on this question. The inhabitants of the Island of Bermuda take the same stand so we are not quite alone.

I remain,
MARY MURRAY.

DANGERS OF FAT

How Fat Affects The Kidneys

The Kidneys often become affected by fat deposits before any other organ. If there is no more important function of the entire body than that performed by the kidneys. Any interruption or impairment of this function, must necessarily soon result in serious trouble. And not the least of these dangers is the gradual change in substance of the organs themselves. You will hardly care to risk Bright's Disease, or the tortures of Rheumatism, to say nothing of the unwelcome burden of obesity, which fat may be checked; that is the famous Marmola Prescription of a Detroit Physician, rendered more convenient and effective in Marmola Prescription Tablets. All druggists sell them. Their price is 75c for a large case, or they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Marmola Co., 121 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. By their use, exercise and dieting, fat is discarded; a smooth, clear complexion and even a factory reduction accomplished at a rate of 10 to 16 ounces a day.

COFFEE PRICES HIGH BUT OUTLOOK IS THEY WILL GO HIGHER.

MONTREAL, April 16—"Although coffee now commands the highest prices in years, a further advance is imminent, according to local roasters, who declare that matters have come to such a pass that they are not getting back a new dollar for an old one at the present selling prices says the Boston Globe. It is claimed that green coffee costs 10c a pound more than it did three years ago, while in that period the cost to the retailer has been increased only 5c. The roasters have been slow to raise the price to the distributors, because they had reason to suppose that the sharp advance in wholesale prices would be only temporary, and they feared a serious curtailment of consumption if the price to the consumer went up too rapidly.

"The advance in wholesale prices, however, has proved far more permanent than expected, and there is so little in sight to suggest any relief that the roasters have only one of two courses to pursue, either to go out of business, as indeed several have in the past year, or get prices for their goods that will net them to pay more for coffee, it is only natural that higher prices will be demanded from the consumer. Coffee, which used to retail for 35c a pound, should now bring 45c, and goods that a few years ago sold at 22c, should bring 30 to 32c to cover the wholesale prices.

"It should not be understood that coffee is at all scarce; indeed, there is plenty of coffee in the world, but almost two-thirds of the total supply is held under the valorization scheme and interests friendly to those behind that plan, which has for its principal end the maintenance of coffee at a high price. The present world's supply of coffee is about 12,000,000 bags; of that total about 500,000 bags are held by the valorization interests, while in Brazil there are about 2,500,000 bags more, which are practically kept out of the channels of trade because the owners ask more money than the coffee is actually worth. Thus something like 7,000,000 bags of coffee are kept off the market, and there is only a floating supply of approximately 5,000,000 bags.

"The owners of the larger part of the available supply are in a position to do what they will with the market, and as present indications are that the next Brazil crop will be a small one, they are inclined to take every advantage of their position. The Brazilian planter is waxing wealthy on the present high prices of coffee, and interest on the bonds floated under the valorization scheme is easily met while the Brazilian Government gets its share in what the local roasters are pleased to call a "holdup" by a surtax, or an export duty on all coffee exported in excess of 10,000,000 bags in one year. In fact, the roasters and consumers of the country seem to be the only ones in the industry who do not benefit by the present high prices.
