

Itching, Burning, Stinging. Eczema or Salt Rheum

Eczema or Salt Rheum as it is often called is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases.
The intense burning, itching, smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to heat, or the hands placed in water, are almost unbearable.
Use Burdock Blood Bitters internally, and apply it externally. A few bottles are usually sufficient to afford relief from this torturing blood and skin disease.

Attention to Farmers Near Charlottetown

Apparently some of my customers, as well as some of my competitors, have misinterpreted my circular letter published last December, which reads as follows:

To the Farmers near Charlottetown:

Your splendid patronage this fall, in my judgment, warrants more up to date warehouse facilities.

My aim is to buy practically all my requirements from the farmers near Charlottetown, rather than telephone all over the Province. This means better facilities at Charlottetown to look after my customers, and it gives me great pleasure to announce that I have plans now in the hands of contractors for a new modern potato and turnip warehouse to be equipped with the latest electric grading devices for both potatoes and turnips.

In the spring I plan to put on a couple more trucks, whereupon we will buy your potatoes and turnips for cash in your yard, and sell you fertilizer delivered on your farm.

These improved facilities have only been made possible by your very hearty co-operation of which I am extremely grateful.

We expect to get started on the warehouse the latter part of this month, and have it in readiness for the spring movement. The Modern Electrical Grading Device referred to will be supplied, and will be for the use of my customers, as well as other dealers' customers, providing they wish to pay me a nominal fee for the use of same.

My idea is that there is a sufficient movement of produce near Charlottetown, by the numerous farmers, to warrant an up-to-date Electric Grader.

Regarding fertilizers. My price will be the same at Charlottetown as other dealers, and the Island Fertilizer Co., Ltd., but if you want your fertilizer delivered on the farm I will charge you fifty cents per ton truckage, and deliver it with my own truck. For illustration Superphosphate, 16%, is advertised in to-day's paper at $17.00 that is the carlot price delivered at, say for illustration, Mount Stewart, that Superphosphate, 16%, will cost the farmer $16.50 if he hauls it from Charlottetown, or $17.00 delivered by my truck.

I respectfully solicit a share of your fertilizer business, and should have your orders filed at the office within the next three weeks, to enable me to order my total requirements. My terms will be as near as possible cash.

Remember last fall that neither dealer or farmer was permitted to recondition potatoes or turnips in the Export Shed at Charlottetown, and whether or not you are a customer of mine, I will be in a position to allow you to recondition any lead that might be rejected. Kindly give me a share of your fertilizer business to warrant this considerable expense that I am undertaking.

The Democracy of Print

Whether he is rich or poor, highly placed or humble, everyone seeks news. The desire to know what is happening in the world is strong and instinctive; the need to satisfy this natural curiosity urgent and persistent.

Before newspapers were available, few enjoyed the privilege of regular dependable news of events, ideas or achievements . . . men, manners or markets . . . beyond the restricted boundaries of their own communities. The settlers journeyed weary miles to maintain the necessary contacts with affairs and friends. Roads were few and primitive. Travel was difficult. Mails were infrequent and means of communication slow. In winter the "snowshoe express" took weeks to travel from Montreal to Niagara. Foreign news was scarce. Today all the news from far and near is brought to every Canadian, quickly and completely, by his daily newspaper. No matter what his interests or occupation may be, it serves his needs. Day after day it provides up-to-date information which influences his opinions, plans and purchases. There is no phase of community or national life it does not touch; the aspirations and accomplishments of the world at work, and at play, are recorded in picture and story on its pages. Unfailing performance of this service to the individual has made the daily newspaper indispensable to more than two million Canadian families and a constructive force in every community.

Address and Presentation

The members of the Green Hill Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. MacWilliams on the evening of March 6, to present the gift of a beautiful quilt to Mrs. Clifford Sherren on the event of her recent marriage.

Miss Whelma Ellis read the following address.

Mrs. Clifford Sherren, Crapaud, Dear Dona—Your fellow members of Green Hill Women's Institute have called on you to-night to wish you a perpetual abundance of happiness and prosperity in the state of life into which you have entered.

To say that you will be missed in our circle is putting it mild for we shall find it difficult to get one to fill your place as willingly and cheerfully as you have done.

We, as friends, have spent many happy hours together, and we shall always look forward to a visit from you.

Now, as a tangible token of the esteem in which you are held we ask you to accept this gift as a mark of our appreciation for your untiring efforts as Secretary of our Institute.

Signed on behalf of the Green Hill Women's Institute

The gift was presented by Mrs. Ralph MacLennan and Mrs. Sherren graciously thanked the members for their kindness.

The singing "For she's a Jolly Good Fellow" brought a very pleasant evening to a close.
