Imports From Canada to U.K. January to June

Although the official import statistics of the United Kingdom for the first six months of 1933 showed a falling-off in a number of commodities which enter into Canadian export trade, the results, according to the Commercial Intelligence Journal, are satisfactory in the majority of cases, and indeed gratifying in so far that they indicate progress, writes Mr. Harrison Watson, Canadian Trade Commissioner in London, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Total importations of wheat were 56,825,303 cwts. as compared with 51,501,469 cwts. in the 1932 period. The quantity of Canadian wheat imported—24,983,149 cwts. as compared with the 1932 figures of 16,864,183 cwts—marks an increase of 50 per cent. Canada regained the lead in flour; whereas there was a decline in the total of nearly 300,000 cwt. from 4,851,609 cwts. receipts from Canada increased from 1,696,444 cwts. to 1,916,315 cwts. Upon the other hand there is a notable decline in the quantity and proportion of Canada's barley shipments—506,227 cwts. as against 830,568 cwts.—and arrivals of oats were nearly cut in two—695,201 cwts. as compared with 1,257,016 cwts. Some small recovery was again recorded in bacon, which it is hoped marks another step towards the recapture of an outlet which must be of immense importance to Canada, and which had been temporarily lost owing to a variety of unfavorable circumstances. Importations from Canada amounted to 159,491 cwts. as against 105,764 cwts. in the 1932 period. The figures for ham are also encouraging, 86,002 cwts. as compared with 58,447 cwts. While the early part of the year is a lean period for the Canadian export of cheese, there was a heavy decline in the quantities sent to the United Kingdom, although total imports were up. The same feature applies to canned salmon, Canadian supplies dropping from 80,294 cwts. to 27,447 cwts. The cattle trade, which is of great potential value, marked a most satisfactory increase, which ought to be reflected by increased shipments during the greater period of St. Lawrence navigation which is still to come. Imports for the 1933 period numbered 20,202 as compared with 8,221 in the first six months of 1932. Another of the most promising recent developments in Canadian export trade, tobacco, again recorded an advance from 8,683,314 lbs. in the six months' period of 1932 to 10,642,119 lbs. in the corresponding period of this year. Business in another specialty, patent leather, exhibited substantial improvement, imports for the respective periods of 1933 and 1932 being 5,804 and 3,580 cwts. A further noteworthy feature is the impressive advance in the quantity of printing paper imported from Canada during the six months—623,715 cwts. as against 434,400 cwts. It has been generally understood that Canada had taken advantage of the temporary Russian embargo to supply increased quantities of softwoods which are required by the United Kingdom, a position which is confirmed by an increase in the quantity of Canadian sawn softwoods confirmed by an increase in the quantity of Canadian sawn softwoods from 23,651 loads to 143,820 loads during the period under review. Taking into consideration that the figures dealt with relate mainly to the winter months when the port of Montreal is closed, the results can be regarded as satisfactory and encouraging.

FLOUR AND WHEAT IMPORTATIONS INTO SCOTLAND

Canada's share of the import flour market in Scotland is increasing, writes Mr. G. B. Johnston, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Glasgow, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. In the six months ending June, 1929, Canada shipped 50 per cent of the imported flour consumed in Scotland; in the 1932 period the percentage was 40, and in the first six months of the present year, when the depression was in full tide, the Dominion's share rose to 57 1/2 per cent. Australia's percentage rose from 15 in the 1929 period to 47 per cent in 1932, falling to 34 per cent in 1933. Importations from the United States over the period under review have shown very heavy de-
