Amatite ROOFING

Ideal for Farm Buildings

AMATITE is the ideal roof for farm buildings. No other approaches it in economy or durability. Here are some of its features:

1. Low Price. Amatite costs, weight for weight, about half as much as ordinary smooth-surfaced roofings.
2. No Painting Required. Amatite costs absolutely nothing to maintain because it has a real mineral surface.
3. Absolutely Waterproof. Amatite is waterproofed with coal tar pitch, the greatest waterproofing compound known.
4. Easy to Lay. No skilled labor is needed for Amatite. It is just a matter of nailing down.
5. Stormproof. Amatite is not a flimsy, paper-like felt. It is one of the heaviest and the most substantial ready roofings made, weighing 90 lbs. to the square, against 40 to 50 of material in the ordinary "Rubber" roofings.

The three important points to be remembered are that Amatite has a real mineral surface, that it needs no painting, and is waterproofed with Coal Tar Pitch. You are only sure of getting them in Amatite.

We send samples free to everybody that asks for them. Drop a postal to our nearest office.

The home of Mrs Charles J. Sullivan at 35 Boston street was the scene of an old-fashioned family reunion last Tuesday evening. Mrs Sullivan's brothers and sisters, met together for the first time in thirty years, and made merry till nearly breakfast time. In all there were fifteen at the table. To the youngfolks present, and to the few who were strangers to the amusements, and language of the old-time Scotchmen, the evening proved instructive as well as enjoyable. For the older folks threw off all guise of age and talked, sang, and danced as they were wont to do at their barn dances and husking bees of long ago. After partaking of several Scottish dishes, interspersed with a goodly number of up-to-date United States food stuffs, Mrs Mary MacLean, the oldest member of the family, showed that the voice which won for her the title of "The Charlottetown nightingale" many years ago was still in condition to outshine younger singers. She gave an original Scottish song. Anxious to prove that their voices had lost none of their youthfulness, all joined in the chorus, making a melody seldom heard around Somerville. Not to be outdone by her older sister, Mrs Julia MacEachern, popularly known as "Sheila," danced a Highland Fling as gracefully as a six-year-old. Miss Gertrude MacLean's recitation, "Pat's Bardsman," was a decided change from the Scottish program, but was eagerly encouraged. A "no decision" was returned in the sword dance contest between Alec and James MacLean, as both contestants were so excellent that it was impossible to choose between them. The duet, sung by "Governor" Sullivan and "Blondy" Leach, though far from Scottish, was heartily applauded, and they were obliged to answer several encores. John MacLean's great "disappearing act" would prove a stumbling block for a Houdini to fathom, and he was recalled many times, but in vain. Each and all did their part towards making the evening one long to be remembered, and it was agreed that a similar event would be held every year. Those present were: Jas and Mrs MacLean, of Amherst; Mrs Julia MacEachern, of Charlottetown, P. E. I.; Alec and Mrs MacLean, John MacLean and Miss Constance MacLean; Maurice M. Leach and Charles J. and Mrs Sullivan and children, all of Somerville.—Somerville Journal.—Mrs MacEachern returned to a lady of about seventy years of age, and was on a visit to her daughter, Miss May, who is a trained nurse, and thoroughly enjoyed herself. She is also the mother of J. A. MacEachern of this City.

The Assyrian peanut stand doing business this week on Queen Square discontinued business last evening about ten o'clock, though it may be only temporarily. A number of the younger element and one or two exuberant spirits joined forces and pulled the stand down over the indignant proprietors head. His money and peanuts were located later in assorted lots on the square and some time afterwards, in pursuit of a party who had one of his large bags of peanuts, he lost some more loose cash which bounced out of his pockets as he ran and scattered over the street. This coin was promptly appropriated by youthful onlookers.
