UNITED MARKS ANGLO-FRENCH DISCUSSIONS
Hore-Belisha Ends Series Of Military And Political Conferences.

PARIS, July 24 (AP)—Leslie Hore-Belisha, British secretary of state for war, today ended a series of military and political conferences with a meeting with Premier Daladier, and declared before his departure for London: "It looks as though the two general staffs are at one. The French Tricolor and the British Union Jack seem as one flag."

Mr. Hore-Belisha declined to disclose the nature of the conversations he had had with Daladier, Justice Minister Paul Reynaud and Major-General Marie Gu-tave Gamelin, chief of general staff, both in London and Paris, except to say they were "general discussions with our colleagues."

Informal sources said they followed the lines of conversations by Georges Bonnet, foreign minister and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, during last week's state visit to France of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. During that visit the unity of Anglo-French relations was affirmed by both sides.

Emphasizes Unity
Bonnet at a political meeting in Sarlat emphasized close collaboration between the two democracies as essential for "maintenance of peace" and as an "important contribution to reduce" war risks throughout the world.

The four powers involved are Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy. Under the reported proposal they would meet, discuss the Czechoslovak problem and then invite the Czechoslovak Government to discuss their proposals.

Official spokesmen maintained there is no normal right for outsiders to get together to discuss the internal affairs of another country, such as Czechoslovakia's problem with the Sudeten German minority.

There is strong reason to believe, they said, that Czechoslovakia would oppose the conference idea.

Thus, 129 years after his death, a hero took his place in the history of Canada. Speakers eulogized his deeds of courage, and told how he had braved the Bay of Fundy in an open boat to obtain reinforcements for the beleaguered Fort Beauséjour.

Dr. J. C. Webster, C.M.G., of Shediac, N.B., noted the historical significance of the site and the role of the monument as a reminder of the sacrifices made by the men of the British Empire.

GROWERS

the co-operation of Mr. Peppin, Chief Inspector of Certification, who was able to secure a great deal of information regarding virus diseases in our cobbler or rather from the freedom from virus to his growers and to our farmers. Our percentage of clean reading cobbler is the highest of any country in America. To say the least, the history of our cobbler seed is something to be proud of and Dr. Fitch is pressing on his people the importance of securing their seed from us. He has even gone to the point of having a bill introduced in the House of Representatives at Washington asking them to permit the free entry of our seed and to the different institutes representing five years free from virus. This bill was introduced June 7, 1938, and was referred to the committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed. What will happen to it we do not know, but as Dr. Fitch points out to his people, why tuber unit, cobbler and worry over the matter, if you can secure it elsewhere entirely free of diseases? (Mr. Boulter had a copy of the printed bill and was distributing it to the members of the Association we have worked and we are working closely with Dr. Fitch. We are very glad such a wholesome sentiment exists among growers in the United States towards our seed. This is one of the many ways in which this Association is yearly making new contacts and developing some line of material benefit to the farmers of our province, yes and to Canada as a whole.

Potato Brief
I might be permitted in connection with the above, to tell you that the Provincial Government to represent this province at a meeting of the representatives of the five eastern provinces in the preparation of a potato brief submitted to the federal government at Ottawa, March 31, 1938, which brief set forth reasons why we should receive a more favorable consideration as regards a substantial tariff reduction on potatoes entering the United States. I may further state that I feel honored to be the representative chosen to make this presentation before the federal ministers. The nature of our suggestions was in Latin, algebra and geometry and whereas it is felt that we should broaden our curriculum to include Latin, algebra and geometry and whereas teachers during the last ten years have not been prepared to teach the sciences (Latin, algebra and geometry) and whereas we assembled in this district convention strongly oppose elimination of Latin, algebra and geometry from our public school curriculum.

It is resolved that we extend to Miss Hazard, Mrs. Campbell and all others taking part in this afternoon's proceedings our sincere thanks.

Whereas children can be given the tuberculin test for the small pox of 25 cents. Be it therefore resolved that we endeavor through our local institutes to have this test made, supporting the resolution passed at the last annual convention.

Resolved that the thanks of this convention be extended to Mrs. Green, Albany, for the use of her beautiful handicraft. A short address followed by Miss Hazard in which she congratulated the institutes for their splendid demonstration. She also spoke briefly on the Tenth Biennial Convention of the Federated Women's Institutes in Canada, the meeting of the Adult Education League, on Aug. 18th, and on the competition at the Provincial Exhibition open to all institutes.

The meeting then adjourned for lunch which was served by the ladies of the Albany Institute.

The evening session opened with the minutes of the afternoon session were read and adopted. After the introduction of the new executive the following program was carried out: Piano duet, Lois MacKay and Elma Large; Reading, Nona Wright; Vocal duet, Vodie MacKay and Jean Bous; Solo, Mrs. Burpee Carr; Reading, Mildred Muttart; Solo, Lois MacVittie; Duet, Lois MacDonald and Claude Bell; Reading, Miss Mary MacVittie; Solo, Lois MacVittie; Playette, (Capt.) Harry Brown. The special speaker of the evening was Mrs. Allison MacMillan, Fairview, who spoke on Rural Sanitation. She asked that the institute make a study of the leaflets at their disposal on various subjects such as water supply, fly control, disposal of garbage, sanitary toilets, ventilation and storage and protection of food. Her talk on the apex of the very instructive and educational and was enjoyed by all. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. MacMillan, moved by Mrs. George MacKay and seconded by Mrs. Urville Large.

Mrs. Harry Leard extended a vote of thanks to the retiring executive which was seconded by Mrs. John Simons. Collection was then taken in aid of the T. B. League, amounting to $13.94, and the convention was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

SAVED FROM DROWNING
WESTVILLE, N. S., July 24 (CP)—Two-year-old William Palmer was saved from drowning in a rain-swollen stream here Saturday. The child tumbled into the water and was whirled 150 yards down stream before his aunt, running along the bank, could snatch him to safety. Artificial respiration revived him.

duce a good sound crop of potatoes. There is nothing in what I have said that is intended to make our growers think they will receive fabulous prices but we do think the price will be high enough to make the industry profitable. We certainly need a better price than last year.

Favorable Price Prospects
Why do I say this? Well from information we have received we are hopeful that seed potatoes will be quite profitable this fall. The man who will have Green Mountain seed with a low virus reading is very likely to receive a remunerative price for it. We had with us this week a Maine grower who has over 600 acres under certification. He withdrew 340 acres from certification and he is fearful many of the balance will be turned down. This grower has 105 acres of tuber unit planted potatoes. He is in his opinion it is doubtful if 25 per cent of the acres entered for certification in the state of Maine will pass inspection or from more than 1,000 acres they do not expect more than 2,000 acres to pass. So far as I can gather this is a result of the serious outbreak of net necrosis the prevalent last year in sections of the state of Maine and it is showing in this year's crop in the form of Leaf Roll. It is quite common to find fields running from 12 per cent and up with Leaf Roll. Mosaic is not so excessive with the Maine growers but it is a disease that is certainly causing our growers of Green Mountains a great deal of concern, and unless we can keep our readings of mosaic down to less than one-half of one per cent, the Maine grower will not be interested in purchasing it for foundation stock.

There are other reasons why we should use every care with our seed and our farmers for the most part will, weather permitting make every effort to produce a good sound crop of potatoes.

WHEAT PRICE TO BE FIXED THIS WEEK

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, July 24.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his colleagues are faced this week with a decision that will affect all Canada—the fixing of a minimum price at which western farmers may sell their wheat to the Canadian Wheat Board.

Prosperity of the Prairie Provinces may depend upon the Government's action. If demands of grower organizations are met, the Government will fix a price of 87-2 cents (the present rate) or more, and the farmers will be assured a measure of prosperity.

But if that price is fixed and the ultimate disposal of the wheat taken by the board is at a lower price the ratepayers of all Canada will be called upon to pay the loss.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner is hurrying back to Ottawa from a tour of the wheat fields to consult with his colleagues. He told Regina interviewers he expected the minimum price would be fixed at a meeting of the Government Tuesday. He is expected here tomorrow.

The regular weekly meeting of Cabinet Council is Tuesday afternoon. There has been no other official intimation that the price will be fixed on that day but since it will be the last scheduled cabinet meeting of the month and the new crop year opens Aug. 1 it is dealt with then.

BRITAIN PLANS HUGE RESERVE PILOT FORCE

(C.P. Havas, By Guardian's Special Wire)
LONDON, July 24.—On the heels of an official announcement Saturday that Great Britain will establish a "civil air guard" to provide an important reserve of pilots, the Sunday Times (Independent) reported today that the government's air production may shortly reach 25,000 planes a year.

At the same time it was learned the General Aircraft Company, with factories near the Hanworth Air-drome, has purchased the adjacent factory of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Company. General Aircraft holds important government contracts and is expected to accelerate production. The firm, which has already doubled its personnel in the past year, plans to take on many more workers.

Creation of the "civil air guard" with the Marquess of Londonderry as its chief commissioner, was announced last night by Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood. Lord Londonderry is a former air secretary.

Pilot Surplus
The Sunday Times said the new measures will give the Air Ministry in a short time all the pilots it can handle. In fact the move may be so popular, it added, that the population will neglect other auxiliary air organizations, such as passive anti-aircraft defense.

The newspaper's air correspondent expected the question will be dealt with then.

Atlantic coast, westward along the Gulf of Texas and as far north as Tennessee. The Georgia cotton crop was badly damaged, but farmers said the soaking helped the corn. Nearly all tobacco crops there were stored in barns.

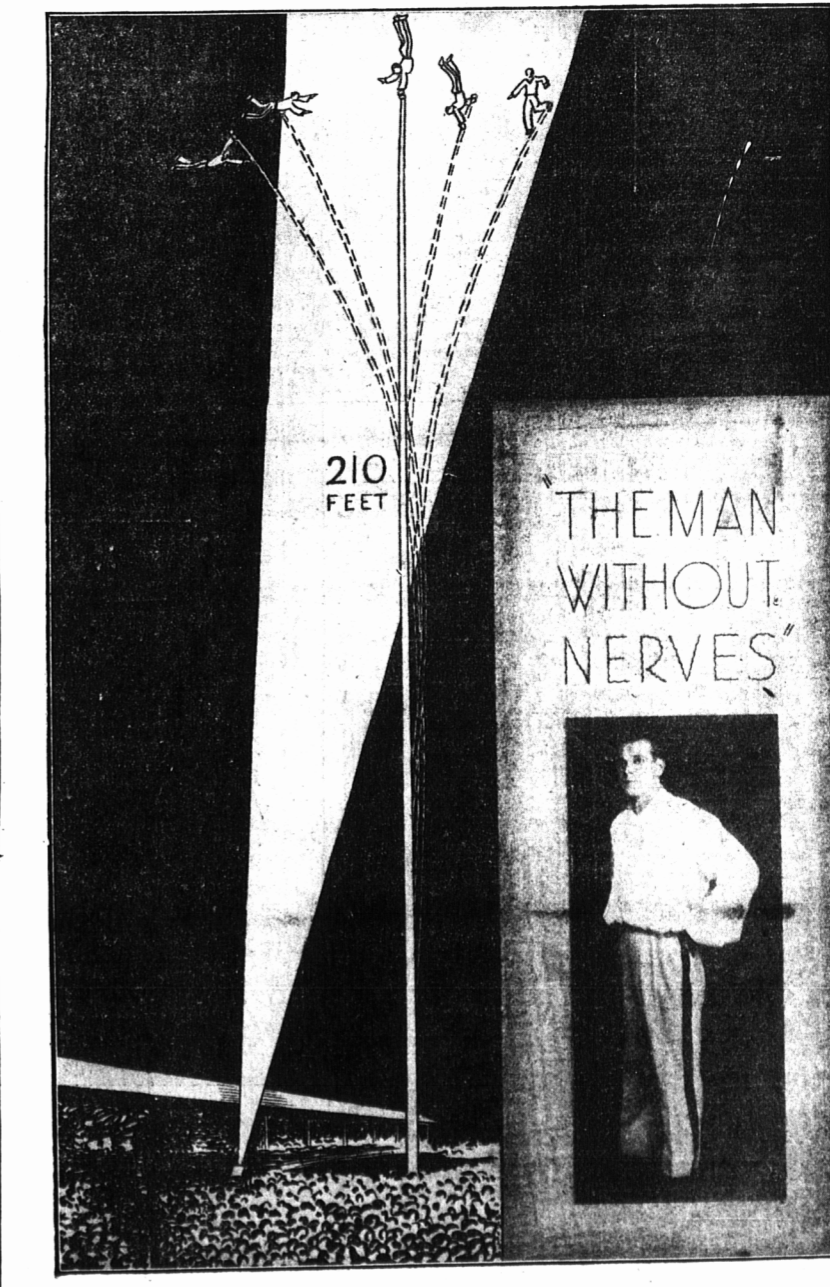

Most mid-western states, some of which had flood experiences several weeks ago, reported "normal" weather.

The weather bureau scoffed at the readiness of some laymen to attribute the continuing cloudiness and rain to the fact that rain fell in part of the east on St. Smith's Day, July 15. Not given to superstition the weather bureau said there was a high pressure area of the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida. This area was an effective barrier against the natural eastward movement of the low pressure area. The result: rain.

aircraft industry within two years will amount approximately to 25,000 machines yearly.

He said the "plan P" of the Air Ministry, providing for 1,750 first line planes by March, 1939, was being rapidly carried out. The general base for the plan whereby there will be 2,750 first line planes by 1940 has been worked out and rapid expansion can be anticipated.

Experts estimate, the correspondents added, that in time of war there would be a 100 per cent loss of planes every five or six weeks and "plan L", calling for an annual capacity production of 25,000 planes, would meet this constant depletion. Once an adequate number of planes are constructed, peacetime construction would be less than half that amount, the air correspondent said. Many of the "plan P" factories planned by the government before air expansion program.

Eric The Great

Labeled "The Man Without Nerves" by fellow performers, Eric ascended that dizzy height and, with unerring instinct, commenced a series of dazzling escapades while stationed on the apex of the pole swaying near the clouds. Eric executed daring gymnastic feats, balancing himself on various parts of his body, on one and two hands and one and two legs while the pole shimmers tantalizingly. Eric's chief stock in trade are steel nerves which refuse to be afflicted by such petty earthly annoyances as wind and rain, working right through every performance regardless of weather conditions.

The daredevil works higher than any other circus stunter in the world. Hollywood has been beckoning to him in recent years, and many of the hairbreadth stunts in the movies are products of the Eric brand of thrill-dispensing.

Eric the Great, better known to a large part of the United States and Canada and millions in Europe as the "Nerveless Sky-Climber," will be seen in a fearless and astounding aerial thunderbolt at Charlottetown, Provincial Exhibition, August 15th to 19th.

Eric is the intrepid phenomenon who does amazing stunts, mocking death at every performance as he indulges in fanciful tricks while perched on a thin pole 210 feet aloft.

Ships Collide In Fog Off Halifax
HALIFAX, July 24 (CP)—A lumber cargo which was aboard the two-masted Nova Scotia schooner, Gilbert B. Walters saved the vessel from sinking when she collided with the pilot boat Hebridean in outer Halifax harbor Saturday.

Her bow wrecked and her holds filled with water, the schooner sank at her pier four hours after she had cast off her lines on a voyage to the West Indies. The pilot boat was not badly damaged. Dense fog was blamed for the collision.
