Fisheries Research Board Vice-Chairman Is Being Considered

OTTAWA, May 14 (Special)—Subsequent to Parliament's approval on Tuesday of a resolution providing for the appointment of a vice-chairman and full-time executive director of the Fisheries Research Board, Fisheries Minister H.P.G. Bridges is reviewing qualified appointees and is expected to fill the new post within a few weeks.

In the resolution and the bill which follows it, Mr. Bridges is implementing pledges he made at Charlottetown at the meeting of the Prince Edward Island Fisheries Board and at the meeting of the Fisheries Council of Canada held recently in Ottawa, to strengthen and extend the work of the Research Board.

Today a ranking official of the Fisheries Department told The Guardian that the board had between $750,000 and $1,000,000 to spend this year. Duties of the new executive director and secretary of the Board include the task of seeing that this amount is apportioned fairly among the various research stations from Halifax to the Pacific Coast, and also in accordance with most pressing needs.

The Fisheries Minister, it is stated here today is 'sold' on the policy of having a strong and efficient research branch for his department.

"Increases in the staff of the Fisheries Research Board will be made as and when deemed advisable," a departmental spokesman said today. "We now have fisheries research stations from Prince Edward Island to Vancouver Island. As the minister said at the meeting of the board a few days ago in Ottawa, the department is in process of expansion and reorganization. Mr. Bridges is taking a close personal interest in the new consolidation of the department and feels that research is one of the most important factors in wider development of the Canadian fishing industry."

Another example of progress in the Fisheries Department is the training of inspectors who for the past three months have been taking special courses in their work. These trainees, many of them with considerable experience are being shortly called to Ottawa for final instructions.

Discount Was Boosting Latin American Trade

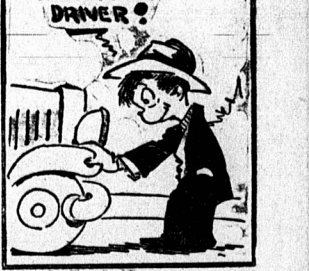

Debate On Budget Is Continued In House Of Commons.

By D'Arcy O'Donnell
OTTAWA, May 14 (CP)—Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) said today in the Commons he had been "reliably informed" that the Government moved the dollar to parity with the American dollar last July after Washington exerted pressure to have such action taken.

His informant had told him that Washington authorities assured passage of the $3,750,000,000 loan to the United Kingdom, then before Congress, if the Canadian Government would eliminate the 10 per cent discount on the Canadian dollar.

Speaking during continued debate on the subject, Mr. Adamson said that because of the discount on the dollar Canada was making great inroads in the South American markets and was becoming the greatest competitor of the United States. This situation was not appreciated by some Americans and was said to be one of the reasons why the United States wanted the Canadian dollar revalued.

At that time, he said, Congress was in a recalcitrant mood and it had before it the United Kingdom (Continued on Page 5 Col. 1)

Open New Approach To Tuberculosis Cure

(By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor)
PHILADELPHIA, May 14 (AP)—A partly synthetic liquid named Tween, termed a new avenue of approach to tuberculosis and possible immunity, was described to the Society of American Bacteriologists today by Dr. Rene J. Dubose of the Rockefeller Institute, New York.

Tuberculosis bacteria thrive so wonderfully in Tween that it is possible, Dr. Dubose said, to start a germ colony with only one T.B. germ. One result is that all the variations in tuberculosis germs can be found and studied better, more quickly and more cheaply than heretofore.

These differences between germs of the same disease are one of the reasons why some people are sicker than others, and why some recover while others die. To identify the different germ strains and then find out the chemistry that makes them different is one of the main goals of medicine.

Dr. Dubose presented three reports along with Cynthia Pierce and Gardner Middlebrook. These told of several advances in the fight against tuberculosis.

The Rockefeller workers have discovered several species of mice that they said are better than guinea pigs for tuberculosis experiments. The mice are more susceptible than the pigs, which have been the principal animals for T. B. studies.

Some of these mice, Miss Pierce reported, show a hereditary susceptibility to tuberculosis. This, to bacteriologists, is an important discovery because for years there has been a dispute as to whether it is possible for a human being to inherit a tendency for tuberculosis. The mice furnish the first evidence even though it is not human.

Dr. Dubose said that in the mice it has been discovered that nutrition deficiencies can hasten the onset of tuberculosis. A change in diet protects the mice in such a case. He said that the nutritional deficiency responsible for opening the door to tuberculosis has not yet been identified.
