The Maritime Merchant, in a recent issue, has the following:—"In the closing days of December there was held in the city of Washington a convention of the American Breeders' Association, and of the most interesting features of that event was a paper read by an Alberton, Prince Edward Island, man, R. J. Raynor, on 'Recent Progress in Breeding Black and Silver Foxes.' The reason we refer to this here is because we have published occasional articles on this industry of fox breeding, which is new to most people, as it was to the 3,000 people present at the above mentioned convention. If our readers are deeply enough interested in this question they might like to read an article on it a December issue of the Westminister, published in Toronto. Mr. Raynor's estimate is that there are now in Prince Edward Island ranches 200 good black foxes, 300 light silvers and 500 reds and crosses. These vary, of course, in value, but all the blacks and silvers would undoubtedly bring good prices, some as high as $3,000 apiece, so that the total value of foxes in Island ranches must run well up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, which is a big thing when you come to think of the fact that the industry is so new and so little is known about it. Mr. Raynor believes there is money in fox raising for others besides those who are now engaged in it and laughs at the idea of it ever being over done. He bases his theory on the fact that the wild fur bearing animals are becoming extinct and that as people must have furs, they will look to whatever sources of supply may present themselves. Mr. Raynor's confidence in the industry leads one to expect that fox breeding offers an enterprising Maritime people a good opening for profitable enterprise. Perhaps the country will soon be filled with fox magnates."

AN EDITOR'S EXPERIENCE.

From Winnipeg West to Edmonton, I travelled over the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. To my mind the Grand Trunk Pacific is the last word in the railway world. A finer road bed, more luxuriant trains, or more courteous and efficient employees, I have never seen on railways, either in this country or in the country to the south of us.

It seems to me that a few personal experiences on the Grand Trunk Pacific may not be out of place here. These incidents will explain what I mean when I say that I was delighted with the service. I left Winnipeg at 6 p.m. I had my seat reserved in Winnipeg, and boarded the car at 5.45. I removed my coat and hat, and was about to follow my usual custom of hanging them up when the train porter approached and took them from me. I noticed he did the same with all the other passengers. I later made inquiries and learned that the instructions to the porters are that no clothing, parcels, hats or baggage are to be permitted to disfigure the "parlor" car. All that can be removed by the porter he will take charge of. Passengers may retain such as they wish in their seats, but nothing is to be hung up or placed in the aisles.

This may seem a small affair, but you have no idea how handsome a parlor car looks when lighted up if there is nothing to disfigure the beauty of the interior. It was a revelation to me, and I could not but admit that this was a striking example of what attention to small details meant in the operation of a great railway.

The Grand Trunk Pacific has a new system of collecting tickets and fares on the train. The train conductor has nothing at all to do with the handling of tickets or cash. His business is to manage his train and all the officials who operate the train. His authority is absolute on the train.

The tickets and fares are collected by an official known as the "train agent." The whole duty of the "train agent" is to look after tickets and fares, and to keep a close record in this regard. He is an official that was new to me, and I was particularly interested in him because of his extreme politeness, and consideration for his passengers. In the West today the "train agent" steps up to you and makes a pleasant remark about the weather.

or bids you "the time of day," and concludes with "Your ticket, please." "In the present freshman class of He waits patiently till he gets it, about four hundred men, over one hundred and fifty are living on less than $400 a year.

If you are going far on his train he will tell you about the hour you will get to your journey's end. If the trip is short he will tell you two, three or four stations, as the case may be, and hand you a hat check.

I watched the first "train agent" I travelled with, and he treated every passenger in the car in the same courteous manner. It was pleasing to see it, and I tell you it pleased the travellers a mighty sight better than the old time poke in the ribs. Later I travelled on a local train between Watrous and Winnipeg, and I determined to watch if all "train agents" on the G. T. P. were as polite as the first one I saw. I was not doomed to disappointment. He was even more courteous and considerate of every passenger.—Vankle Hill Review.

PRINCETON "GRADS" WORTH $6 A WEEK

AUBURN, N. Y., Jan. 30.—"What is a Princeton man worth today when he is graduated?" asked President Hibben of Princeton today in an address to the Princeton Alumni at Auburn Seminary. "About $6 a week," said Dr. Hibben in reply to his own question. "Why is it," he went on, "that the average graduate of Princeton could not command more than that amount. Why? It is because he has not been trained in business, law, medicine. Is not that a sad confession to make? Sure it is, and we have been criticised for it, but we can justify it. It is our endeavor to create a high potential of mental possibility rather than actual attainment.

Molassine Meal

The Unique and Wonderful Food FOR Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Pigs and Poultry.

SUGAR has long been known to be a valuable food for animals, but it has been impossible to give it in the form of molasses except in minute quantities, in consequence of the existence of a large amount of potash salts, which when absorbed in the stomach are assimilated by the animals, and have the effect of decreasing the circulation, producing purgation, death frequently resulting. In Molassine Meal these potash salts are neutralized so that Molassine Meal may be given to animals in large quantities with advantage all the year round.
