they break one another's heads, then burn the pillage, and then the battle is on in earnest. The excitability of the national temperament plays a big part in it all.

Sir Henry was asked whether complete autonomy would not reflect on the economic position of the Empire as a whole. He denied this.

India Pays No Tribute "The phrase 'The brightest jewel in the imperial diadem' has no reference to revenue. India pays nothing by way of tribute each year to England. There seems to be some misapprehension on this point. Let me give you an example. A Canadian and an American were talking recently. The Canadian asked whether the American was going to establish a branch factory in the Dominion. The United States man, thought it would be a good thing for trade, 'but I'm not going to pay tribute to King George.' The Canadian said he was sure no such impost existed. He, at any rate, had never heard of it.

The position in India is the same. England gets interest on loans made to India, but that is all. The development schemes from these loans are used for the advantage of India. Say one million pounds are lent. The interest on that at five per cent. comes to fifty thousand annually. Say a railway is built and the revenue is one hundred and fifty thousand. That leaves two thirds for use in relieving the taxpayers.

"You ask about Gandhi? Well, I think he is very well off where he is. He has his own room in prison with his goat and his spinning wheel and his books. He is representative of a certain section of opinion among the middle classes and has sanctity. His influence is definitely on the wane."

WHOLE HOUSE

Referring to the financial assistance given the western provinces by the Dominion in meeting their New York obligations, Mr. Bennett said this was no indication of their "internal insolvency." "They are not bankrupt," he assured the House. They had contracted loans payable in New York in gold and because there existed no free gold market in Canada, they were unable to secure it. The Dominion came to the rescue to avert imperilling our whole financial structure.

Canadian municipal, provincial, federal and industrial interest and sinking fund payments in the New York money market aggregated $1,000,000 a day, said the Prime Minister. This, in his opinion, was the most potent reason why Canada could not abandon gold backed currency.

Opposition Applause

For almost 45 minutes the Prime Minister held the undivided attention of a full House. When he resumed his seat, he drew as much applause from the Opposition as from his own followers. It was a subject dear to his heart—finances, credit and banking.

"I'm not an economist," Mr. Bennett said, "but since September last I have been dealing with a real problem—maintaining the credit and financial integrity of Canada—and I know exactly what at least the men we owe say. And after all, the man you owe is very often the man who has something to say about the situation."

Reference was made to the famous Sunday night when announcement was made Great Britain had abandoned gold. The Canadian Government had to make a decision—whether to follow Great Britain or retain gold. "The statement I made," proceeded Mr. Bennett, "was that the people of Great Britain could determine what they were to do but we would continue to meet our obligations in gold where we had promised to pay in gold. We had to do that or our credit was gone. Upon what we said that night, depended the credit of this country."

Investigation of the credit system, Mr. Bennett said, would be conducted by a commission, the nature of which would be determined by Parliament. But he opposed a resolution sponsored by G. G. Coote, U. F. A. (MacLeod), which would empower the parliamentary banking and commerce committee to undertake the probe at the present time. The Prime Minister agreed with Ian MacKenzie, Lib. Vancouver Centre, there was insufficient time before the end of the session to undertake the work and he doubted if the committee possessed the technical ability to assume a task of such vast proportions. Mr. Coote's resolution was talked out.

Mr. N. W. Lowther pointed out that the representatives of the plan were confined to the city and suggested that the support of the Women's Institutes be obtained.

Mrs. MacIntyre suggested that a reasonable rental be charged for the use of the hall.

Mrs. Fred Chandler, representing the Ladies Aid of the Prince Edward Island Hospital, remarked that the hospitals and orphanages which were represented, included territory outside of the city.

Mr. Donald Fraser, representing the Sons of England, reported both lodges in line with the proposal. He moved that a brief be drawn up and presented to the Government by one delegate from each interested society.

The motion was seconded by Mrs. MacMillan and unanimously carried.

It was agreed that the delegates meet to discuss the brief at 8 p.m. next Monday and the brief be presented on Tuesday next.

European Trip On Instalment Plan

NEW YORK, N. Y., Mar. 1.—(By The Canadian Press)—Trips to Europe may be paid for after they are taken under a deferred payment plan announced today by the Cunard Steamship Company. The Cunard Line's plan, which is the first of its kind to be adopted by a steamship company, calls for a 25 per cent down payment before sailing and monthly instalments after the trip is taken.

In its announcement, the company points out that the Cunard and Anchor Lines have felt the depression and that the new plan is hailed as the "panacea for the ills from which the shipping industry has been suffering for the past two years."

The plan becomes effective immediately, and the 8,000 agents of the company have been supplied with complete information. In most cases, according to the company, no co-makers or indorsers will be required. The interest charge will be 6 per cent a year. The arrangement calls for a minimum loan of $1044, and the maximum $636. Payments may be made over periods from four to twelve months.

CROCHET IS WITH US AGAIN

One of the latest developments harkens back to the good old days of Queen Victoria!—the revival of the crochet needle. A well known couturier in the Rue de la Paix is largely responsible for this. She it was who revived this almost forgotten art, introducing a bright little crocheted scarf with a suit. And to the idea spread, and then berets appeared to match the scarf.

These crocheted garments are lighter and therefore more comfortable for certain occasions than night, has made it practically impossible to come through with anything more than a meager balance and in some instances, there has been a loss, to be made up out of the funds of the institution involved.

The Strand Theatre is considered by many to be unsanitary and from a fire menace possibility, unsafe. The acoustics are considered bad, and performers have strong objections to appearing on that stage.

Considering the periodical need of many worthy citizens, and the gratuitous services of devoted workers, it seems to be a deplorable situation, that so many willing workers for charity, and the patrons of worthy entertainments, who think their contributions are going to help the poor, should find their work and financial support result in practically nothing over expenses.

"We think the Government would have the wholehearted support of the public if, when rebuilding the College, the convocation hall was made a little larger than required for College purposes.

"If the delegates present concur with our presentation of a situation that we claim exists, we suggest that a delegation, consisting of one member from each society interested, wait upon the Premier, and urge his consideration of the serious need of a hall suitable for concerts, lectures and amateur theatricals."

System Discussed A short discussion of the question took place and it was shown that the delegates present were unanimously in favour of the project.

Mrs. T. F. White pointed out that new schools in Fredericton and St. John are provided with such accommodation.

Mrs. H. S. Henderson, representing the Charlottetown Music Club remarked that at present that society was having great difficulty in finding a hall in which to hold a recital by the Hart House String Quartet which they are bringing to Charlottetown, and it was learned that in many other places these musicians had been accommodated in High Schools and Colleges.

Dr. C. C. Archibald, representing the Y. M. C. A., added that many concerts were held in the Halifax "School for the Blind."

Mrs. W. J. MacIntyre, representing the Ladies Auxiliary of the Charlottetown Hospital and the Catholic Women's League stated that these societies would be very pleased if some place were provided in which their entertainments could be held.

Mrs. R. J. Ledwell, representing the Ladies Aid of Charlottetown Hospital, supported the movement.

Mrs. N. W. Lowther pointed out that the representatives of the plan were confined to the city and suggested that the support of the Women's Institutes be obtained.

Mrs. MacIntyre suggested that a reasonable rental be charged for the use of the hall.

Mrs. Fred Chandler, representing the Ladies Aid of the Prince Edward Island Hospital, remarked that the hospitals and orphanages which were represented, included territory outside of the city.

SHANGHAI, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The staff of General Yoshinori Shirakawa, who has been expected to become Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese forces here, landed today at Woosung from a cruiser. Japanese officers said General Shirakawa had come ashore at an undivulged spot.

PHONE SYSTEM REPAIRED

The sleet storm of Monday night has caused considerable damage to the Telephone system throughout the Island. By 11 a. m. yesterday all the toll circuits were temporarily re-established though it will take a week to put them back into normal condition again. Throughout the country there was a good deal of wire damage here and there, but no poles were broken down. The worst damage was at the Hillsborough Bridge, all the wires being down. On this bridge the wires were exposed to the full force of the storm. There were about 60 lines out of commission in Charlottetown. This is the third sleet storm that the company has had to contend with this winter.

On December 15th there was considerable damage in the Kensington and Bedeque areas, and on January 30th, the lines were practically all down between Souris and South Lake.

TAUGHT SCHOOL HERE—The following news item is from the Liverpool (N. S.) Advance, of which paper, Mr. G. Cecil Day, son of Coun. We were met by her brother, George E. Snaddon, a man whose genial hospitality at home and abroad is a by word throughout the Province and who today is active and bright at the advanced age of 89. We found Miss Snaddon in a bright and cheerful mood, and realized from her charm and graciousness who she so endeared the people she was surrounded with during her long and useful life in the promotion of education. Miss Snaddon was born in the Dock Yard at Halifax in 1833. She came to Liverpool in her early life and taught school here for a number of years. Some of her pupils were the visitors at her birthday party. After leaving Liverpool she went to Charlottetown, P. E. I. and taught there for thirty years. Miss Snaddon, with one slight exception, was never sick in her entire life and today enjoys her three meals as a pension of old age. She never drinks water but must have her strong tea at each meal. Monthly Meeting Of Catholic Women's League

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the K. of C. rooms last evening, with the President, Mrs. F. J. Casey in the chair.

The Treasurer's report showed that a substantial sum was realized from the Chicken Supper. All bills, including Diocesan, and National obligations were ordered to be paid.

The President, in the absence of the Social Service Convener, reported that another small shipment of clothing had been sent to the west and a box of clothing to new settlers in this Province.

She spoke of the need for more workers to attend the Wednesday afternoon sewing in the Charlottetown Hospital, for there was much to do. Members were urged to gather bedding, sheets, blankets, quilts and pillow slips, as just at present there was very little on hand, and the need is great. It was decided to hold a Bridge Party in April.

A Committee on Nominations was appointed, with Miss E. M. Grath as Convener, and nominations received from those present.

Members of the Committee receive nominations for the next two weeks from those unable to attend. Meeting adjourned.

Word "Manitoba" Is Of Indian Origin

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 1.—(By The Canadian Press)—During the course of his discussion in the House of Commons in the debate on the speech from the throne recently, J. H. Stitt, (Cons., Selkirk) painted a glowing picture of the past, present and future of the province and, perhaps, most interesting of all was his story of the origin of the word "Manitoba."

The first inhabitants, the Indians, called their conception of God, the Great Spirit, "Manitou." The so-called "Narrows" on the Manitoba Lakes, the Indians call "Woban." When the wind swelled through these narrows it set up a curious, crooning sound which the superstitious Indians believe was the voice of their God sending his voice across the waters of the lake. They would murmur to each other, when the wind blew, "Manitou Woban."

It was a simple matter, Mr. Stitt said, for the white settlers to shorten this saying to "Manitoba" and so the great central province of Canada got its name.
