

Guard Them — Those things that money can't buy

"It is an unpardonable crime," writes Mrs. Eche! Baillie, of Montreal, "to use any other suds than Lux, for the exquisite hand-made woolies, belonging to the 'Teenie Weenies': the soft, dainty shirts, panties, jackets, booties, etc.

"They represent, besides the expense, many hours of skilful, patient work, done by the loving hands of adoring Grannies, Mothers and Aunties. To risk spoiling these lovely, delicate little garments, by using anything but 'Lux' would be an unpardonable crime, for they cannot be replaced. Money cannot buy what love gives."

There is a lot of good common sense in this letter.

Mrs. Baillie is but one of the millions who has found by experience that when it comes to doing difficult as well as simple work — there is no substitute for Lux.

Sold only in the familiar LUX blue package.

Emphatic

Archbishop Williams, Metropolitan of the Church of England in Canada is emphatic and says: "It (Prohibition) has done more to encourage deceit and subterfuge, more to demoralize the youth of the country and to create a general disrespect for law than all the other causes combined during the ten years of its existence in Ontario. Government Control, with individual permits, is the only sane system."

While you are enjoying Wrigley's, you are getting benefit as well.

Used after meals it removes particles of food left between the teeth which otherwise would cause tooth decay.

Wrigley's gives you that final touch of refinement—a clean mouth.

It aids digestion, too.

church's high and lofty mission is to witness against every form of righteousness. "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it."

But listen! When I use the church for my own particular advantage and glory, then I play the role of the bootlegger. The church is a means of grace, but when I use the Church as a robe to hide some dark and sinister motive, then the whiskey bum, and the rum-runner, and the bootlegger are worlds above me in honor and in common decency.

There are men and women who use the Church for mere social preferment and advancement. Yes, and these same people register a vehement protest against the bootlegger. The only difference between these two classes of bootleggers is this—one is wet and the other dry.

Why do some people belong to the Church? It pays them. It is good business to be a church member. Who wants to be registered as a non-church member? Such a designation would spell financial ruin to hundreds. Yet the man who joins a church for the sake of the almighty dollar is, in the letter, and in the spirit, a bootlegger. So far as intoxicants are concerned, he may be as dry as the desert, but as far as the religion of Jesus Christ is concerned, he is drier than the Sahara and less beautiful than an African jungle.

The Church a Political Football

Play Ball! That sounds like football. But when I hear Play Ball, ringing out from certain throats, I know I am in the midst of the wrong crowd. Men and women, we have no right to make a political football of the church. I want to avoid that thing so far as I know, and so far as I can. Let the church speak out. Let the Church thunder out. Let the church reach out. Ring out every bell of warning and tender entreaty, but in the name of the Great Head of the Church, let us refuse to play ball with an institution, bought and redeemed and sanctified by the shed blood and risen life of Jesus Christ.

Outside the Gate.

There are certain things that belong outside the gate. Dogs and sorcerers and whoremongers and murderers and idolaters and who-soever loveth and maketh a lie. They belong outside. Leave them there, and keep them there. In our differences of opinion, in our struggle for what we think to be right, let us not play the role of the fellow who are all trying to put out of commission. In spirit, in tongue, in method, let us follow in the train of the Master. Whose kingdom alone of all the kingdoms, is the everlasting kingdom. He is the King of kings and Lord of lords.

To Wash Lace

Fill a Mason jar with hot soap suds and 1 teaspoonful of ammonia. Put the lace in the jar, screw on lid and shake it from time to time. Let it remain overnight. Mix a new solution if necessary. Then rinse in the jar in same manner. Now spread a Turkish towel on ironboard, place lace on it, cover with another towel and absorb the moisture. Do not iron.

Removing old Varnish

When refinishing the furniture, put 3 tablespoonfuls of cooking soda in 1 quart of water and apply with a rough cloth. Then use sandpaper and the varnish will come off easily.

Beating Eggs

When beating eggs, if a pinch of salt is added, the work will be accomplished in far less time than ordinarily.

—A WOULD-BE FUNNY SCRIBE —Sir,—The O'Leary scribe of the esteemed Pioneer seems to have developed a funny streak. I notice he chronicles the fact that certain gentlemen went to Charlottetown one day last week to hear Premier Stewart on his "wet" plank and to get fortified for the coming election, etc. Let us hope those they were, as anyone who approaches Premier Stewart with a reasonable request generally comes away satisfied, and not disappointed as the said O'Leary scribe was at the last Grit Convention in Alberta, I am, Sir, etc., UNITAS.

YOUNG WOMEN SUFFER MOST

These Two Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ayer's Cliff, Quebec. — "I have been teaching for three years, and at the end of the year I always feel tired and have no appetite. I was awful sick each month, too, having pains in my back until sometimes I was obliged to stop working. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I heard many women telling how good it was so I thought it would help me. And it did. Now I take six bottles every year and recommend it to others." — DONALDA FANTEUX, Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.

"Unable to Work" — Canning, Nova Scotia. — "I had irregular periods and great suffering at those times, the pains causing vomiting and fainting. I was teaching school and often for some hours I would be unable to attend to my work. Through an advertisement in the papers I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has been of great benefit to me, the troubles being completely relieved." — LAURA J. EATON, Canning, King's County, Nova Scotia.
