BRADDOCK LOSES TITLE TO LOUIS IN EIGHTH

Lee Hurls Cubs To Shutout Victory Over Giants In Opening Crucial Series

IN THIS CORNER

Joe Louis showed his critics last night as he became the second colored battler and also the youngest in history to win the world's heavyweight championship with his eight-round knockout over defending champion James J. Braddock.

There can be no alibi offered for Braddock's defeat; Louis, hard-gassed at times had the fight well in hand from the fifth on and displayed clearly his superiority over his 31-year-old foe, one of the greatest and finest figures the ring has ever known.

The handiwork was on the wall for Braddock long before the actual finish occurred. One could guess it from the announcer's cues from the fifth round on, when the Brown Bomber once again, the fighter that blazed his way by the power of his fists from $5 a week factory hand in Detroit to the pinnacle of boxing, the only thing that kept Braddock on his feet was that super punching heart and never-say-die courage he possesses.

Jersey Jim made good his boast that he would retain his title but he more proved his statement that if beaten he would go out fighting.

None can doubt that as he took the terrific beating from the 23-year-old Louis, Braddock has always proven to be at his best on the odds were stacked against him but last night the odds, in matter of age and a two-year gap were too great to overcome.

After his gallant achievement Max Baer an admiring crowd proclaimed him as the Cinderella Man, a story of a champion, but last night the chapter was probably written what has turned out to be the end of a real-life hero.

Long Louis will reign is a foregone conclusion. He proved his greatness last night without a doubt hanging over him is the shadow of Max Schmeling. That defeat is the only one on Louis' sensational career.

It is one that will last until it comes when the German has deserved the title shot.

Anticipating a bout with Leo Kelley who has more or less faded into the background, the Binns is all earnestness these days as he goes through a grueling training grind getting back into the condition the once boasted of. Miles of work, fast boxing sessions are a routine to Binns now and the best feature of it all is that one is the work is more fun than it is the work itself.

Binns' sole aim is to meet Kelly he has a fight up before that bout takes place against Pat Metallic of Rimouski, a boy whom Kelly re-defeated. The Quebec boy is being a hard-hitting type of battler who knows when he is beaten, will provide a stiff test for who by his showing in this event determine if he is ready to meet Kelly.

The funny coincidence but the fact that Binns will be facing Kelly himself, in the person of Orr of Joggins Mines, perhaps the outstanding fighter in the Maritimes to date is considered as the middle champion in parts of the New Brunswick and then the result of both bouts watched with interest. Kelly will be the Forum Monday while Binns journeys either Shelburne or Rimouski.

Efforts meet with success promoters of the Maritime Boxing Championships take place at the Forum and 21 are to provide local flowers with two red letter sports. Holding of the championships in itself will provide with plenty fighting interest but in addition likely be a 40-mile race and a 10 mile road race out of the program.

The race held would draw entries from all over the Maritimes and would certainly provide a test of stamina and courage for those taking part. The route would be Summerside to Charlottetown and many of the local riders are ready to start training for the gruelling grind. Several trophies it is reported are already donated and although the event is still in the doubtful stage many are of the opinion that such a race would be a sad lacking at the present time.

Round By Round As Louis Dethroned Braddock

ROUND ONE
Braddock came out fast from his corner and swung a right that missed. They came on fast punching, exchanging light body blows. Louis glanced a right off Braddock's head. The champ stuck his left to the face as they sparred in midring. Joe shifted to the body and they exchanged light lefts. The negro pounded away at the champion's mid-section after landing a choppy right to the head. Louis landed both hands to the head and they clinched along the ropes. Louis smashed Braddock with both hands along the ropes. Braddock was wild and took a terrific smash to the head. Louis went down after a short right to the head but got up without a pang. They were fighting furiously at the bell with Braddock taking several hard rights to the jaw.

ROUND TWO
They came out fast and Braddock missed a high left hook. Joe shot a short right to the nose and they sparred. Braddock showed a small cut over his left eye. They punched their heads together and the ropes Braddock landed a smashing right to the head and picked off the negro's corners. Braddock sparred cautiously for an opening and then delivered two sharp left uppercuts to the chin. Louis was wild with his right and was speared by the champion's left twice without a return. Braddock moved in fast and hooked his left accurately to the chin. Louis appeared puzzled and covered his head. Joe spurted and pounded Braddock hard with both hands to the chin just before the bell.

ROUND THREE
Louis ran out of his corner and blocked the champion's left lead. They pawed at each other in the middle of the ring, jabbing lightly. Louis landed a right that connected with the champion's damaged left eye. Braddock shot both hands to the head but took a terrific left to the head in return. Louis moved in quickly with both hands cuffing the champion. Both were boxing cautiously with Braddock doing most of the leading. Louis dug a left hook to the ribs and quickly followed with a lightning left to the champion's ear. Braddock connected with a looping right to the side of the head and forced Joe to give ground after landing a hard uppercut. Louis scored with a straight left to the head at the bell.

ROUND FOUR

The challenger worked both hands to the face but the champion kept crowding forward. Jim kept his chin well guarded but took a hard right to the head. Louis tried hard to force an opening but the champion was boxing beautifully. They circled in mid-ring without much action until Braddock found the range with both hands to the face. Jim tied up Joe in a brief clinch and took a snappy left jab to the nose. Louis landed three light lefts just before the bell.

ROUND FIVE
Joe bounced back to the ropes as he took a left hook with his upraised arm. The champion connected with a hard right to the head but was wild with his left. Blood trickled down the negro's nose after they exchanged punches at close range. Braddock's head bounced back from the impact of the champion's left hand and the champ again. Louis worked both hands to the body but Braddock scored with a right-smash to the jaw. The pace was faster as they kept firing both hands. Both the champion and challenger were well smeared with blood as they exchanged hard lefts just before the gong.

ROUND SIX
They circled for several seconds before Braddock let fly with a right that Joe took on the shoulder. Louis worked a left jab to the face but Braddock closed and clinched before the negro could swing his right. Braddock forced Louis to the ropes and let fly with both hands while the crowd was in an uproar. They punched furiously for a few seconds. Louis landed with a right and started blood coming over the champion's right eye. Louis rocked Braddock with a jaw. The champion's mouth was badly cut and he hung on. Braddock was reeling under heavy punishment but still fighting gamely. Blood poured from Braddock's mouth but he was swinging with both fists at the bell. The champion's upper lip was badly split.

ROUND SEVEN
Braddock came out fighting and drove Louis around the ring swinging his right hand from a crouch. The champion's face was in bad shape and his legs were getting wobbly. Louis landed both hands hard to the head but Braddock refused to give ground. Joe crossed a hard right to the face and Braddock clinched. The negro punched systematically but Braddock kept countering and forcing the fight. Jim struck a light left to the chin and forced Louis to the ropes. But the champion was tiring fast and the left side of his face was a bloody and bruised spectacle. Louis gave ground under Braddock's gallant attempts to rally. The challenger took two hard punches to the head just before the bell.

ROUND EIGHT
Braddock's handlers worked furiously during the intermission. Louis landed the first punch, a straight left and backed the champion away as he scored with both hands to the face. They exchanged lefts in a sharp left hook as he attempted to sidestep. Braddock went down in a heap as Louis rammed home a terrific right to the side of the head. The champion was counted out as he collapsed in the middle of the ring.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22—Wimbledon, granddaddy of tennis tournaments which usually can be counted upon for at least one daily sensation, failed to unearth anything resembling an upset in six hours of play today.

With competition confined to women's singles and men's doubles the favorites won without exception.

Alice Marble United States titleholder, alone among the world's stars came close to defeat. She needed all of her resources to outgame Mary Hardwick, one of England's most promising young stars, after a thrilling first set. She finally won 9-11, 6-4, 6-3.

Tournament officials announced that every seat had been sold for the remainder of the two-week tournament and that they had been forced to return $75,000 to applicants.

Right Hand Smash To Jaw Halts Courageous Stand Of Defending Champion

Louis Youngest Champion Ever To Assume Crown. Wears Down Braddock With Terrific Punching Power After Being Knocked Down In Thrilling First Round.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
COMISKEY PARK, Chicago, June 22—(AP)—Battered and bleeding, James J. Braddock went down for the first hand smash to the side of the head, and lost the heavyweight boxing championship of the world to Joe Louis, a 23-year-old boy from the cotton fields of Alabama.

In a stunning climax to the first mixed match for the title in 22 years, Louis came back from a first round knockdown to batter the defending champion into a bloody pulp and become the second member of his race ever to capture the most prized crown in pugilism.

Braddock, game to the core and a gallant fighter right down to the last blow, collapsed and was counted out by Referee Tommy Thomas just one minute and 10 seconds after the eighth round started.

Braddock Out "Cold"
Out "cold" and so badly beaten that his handlers had to carry him to his corner and administer restoratives, while a frenzied crowd milled in the ring, Braddock lost the championship in his first attempted defence and proved again the truth of the adage that they rarely can come back, successfully after a long lay-off. Two years out of the ring, Braddock lacked the stamina or the staying powers to stand up under the crushing power of the punches tossed by his younger, stronger, and much harder-hitting rival.

A crowd estimated by co-promoter Mike Jacobs at 65,000, with estimated receipts of $650,000, saw Louis, after a little more than three years of professional fighting, become the first negro king of the heavyweights since Jack Johnson ruled the main division in 1910-1915.

Willard Looks On
The giant of a white man who ended Johnson's reign, Jess Willard, was among the spectators who witnessed the young negro's spectacular victory, achieved just one year after Louis himself was knocked out by the German, Max Schmeling, in the Yankee Stadium that was the only defeat Louis encountered in his professional career and the man who turned the trick must have smiled a bit wryly at his home outside of Berlin tonight as he heard the outcome, climaxing a sequence of events which sidetracked Schmeling's previously arranged plans to fight Braddock.

Braddock, for five rounds, put up a brilliant defence. After a few bad moments in the opening round, the champion countered with a choppy right that clipped Louis on the chin and dropped the negro to his haunches. Joe bounced up and away, without a count but he was hard pressed to hold his own for the next four rounds as he frequently was out-punched at close range, tied up by the champion's stout defence, and forced to give ground under Jim's gallant charges.

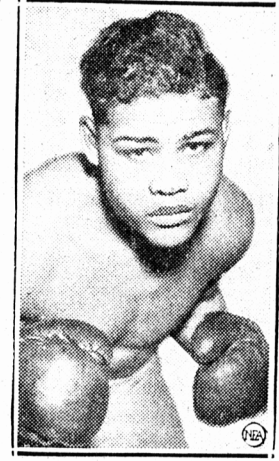

Tide Turns Swiftly
The tide turned swiftly and conclusively in the sixth round. It was given and taken up to that point, with Braddock matching a cut over his left eye with a shot that brought blood trickling from the challenger's nose, but a sudden barrage to the head started Jim's downfall in the sixth. One of the Negro's hard shots to the head ripped a bigger gash near the Champion's left eye. Another right to the mouth cut Braddock's upper lip so badly that blood spurted from it in a stream. Reeling under punishment, Braddock's knees sagged, his eyes blinked, and he barely kept his feet as Louis ripped both hands home. The Champion's counter punches were wild, his control gone, yet he continued to charge forward, swinging with both hands and connecting with such force that Louis was himself baffled by his opponent's courageous stand as the bell ended the sixth round.

Furious repair work sent Braddock charging out gamely in the seventh, with such aggressiveness that Louis had few chances to set himself for a shot that might bring down the sturdy white man.

The challenger, now in command but still taking no chances, speared the Champion repeatedly but could not halt Jim's forward lunge or keep entirely out of range of the battered title holder's desperate swings.

Braddock's legs barely kept him up for the first minute of the eighth and final round. Once, along the ropes, after a hard clip to the chin, the Champion started to go down but braced himself and charged forward once more. Then as he started he side-stepped, and ran smack into a left hook that jarred him to his heels. He had hardly recovered from that before Louis saw the last opening, let fire, and brought his man down with a right that carried all the force the powerful young negro could muster.

Is Semi-Conscious
Going down in a bruised and bleeding heap, Braddock's eyes were closed. By instinct he attempted to raise himself as he rallied to one side. He shook his head weakly, fell back and was counted out as he lay semi-conscious and completely oblivious of the tumult that rocked the big White Sox ball park.

On the Associated Press score card Louis was credited with four of the first seven rounds. These were the first, third, sixth and seventh. Braddock was given the edge in the second, fourth and fifth.

Braddock's knockdown shot, in the opening, failed to offset the beating he took in the first half of the round but he rallied to out-punch Louis in the second and gave his best exhibition of ring-work in the fifth, just before his defence collapsed.

Louis, weighing 197 1-4 to Braddock's 197, wasn't impressive until he finally broke down the Champion's early resistance, but the young Negro was a more effective and faster punching boxer than he was the night he lost to Schmeling.

Youngest Champion
In addition to the distinct of being the first negro to capture the world title since Jack Johnson knocked out Jim Jeffries in 15 rounds at Reno, in 1910, Louis became the youngest man to scale the heavyweight heights. At 23 he is one year younger than Max Dempsey was on the day that Max Baer mauled Jess Willard at Toledo in 1919.

Dempsey, Willard and Gene Tunney, who retired undefeated in 1928, were in the host of historic notables who witnessed the young negro's triumph with the who's who of society, stage, screen and the business and political worlds in the first heavyweight title bout in Chicago since 1927.

Braddock, despite the decisiveness of his defeat, joined his manager Joe Gould in declaring he would not quit the ring.

"My long lay-off beat me," the Champion admitted, "but I'm not going to quit. I hope to get at least two more fights and I'd like to tackle Schmeling again. I missed my big chance in the first round and began to tire too quickly afterward."

The defeated Champion took the biggest share of the fight profits, 50 per cent of the net proceeds, for an estimated $250,000 to $300,000, Louis, achieving his main ambition, was satisfied to collect 17 1-2 per cent.
