HAUPTMANN TRIAL ENTERS SECOND WEEK

Dr. Condon, and Betty Gow Among Important Witnesses To Testify For State.

(By John Ferris, Associated Press Staff Writer)
(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—The sparring over the state will take off its gloves this week and pound hard at Bruno Hauptmann's defence to charges of baby murder. Dr. John F. Condon, the 73-year-old Bronx schoolmaster who found himself a principal in the negotiations between the Charles A. Lindbergh's stolen baby, is depended upon to strike the first solid blow. Early this week, perhaps by Tuesday, Dr. Condon is to take the stand in the little courtroom, and say—as did Col. Lindbergh last week: "The man to whom the $50,000 ransom money was paid was Hauptmann."

Strategic Defence Move.

The defence, hoping to counteract the effect of this testimony, will strike back with the charge that four persons actually kidnaped the baby that Hauptmann was not one of them. Edward J. Reilly, chief defence counsel, said he would name the four, probably Thursday. When court reconvenes Monday morning in Hauptmann's trial for the baby's murder, the state is expected to call as one of its first witnesses Betty Gow, the Scottish nurse who put the Lindbergh baby to sleep in his crib at Hopewell on the night of March 1, 1932. Her testimony, it is believed, will be substantially the same as that of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's mother. Dr. Condon came to Flemington about Wednesday night and visited the carpenter in the county jail. He talked to him in his cell using as far as he was able the same language he used when he sat with the mysterious "John" for more than an hour in Woodlawn Cemetery, the Bronx. It was at this meeting in the cemetery that Dr. Condon, first using the name of "Jafise", received from "John" a promise to send him the sleeping garment of the Lindbergh baby as definite proof that he really had the child.

Condon Identifies Hauptmann

The fact that Dr. Condon had identified Hauptmann in the jail became publicly known a short time ago.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

Tiny Village Of Port Greville Swept By Fire.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
PORT GREVILLE, N. S., Jan. 6.—Handicapped by a 30-mile gale, 300 volunteers early today battled a fire that threatened to raze their tiny village on the shores of peaceful Minas Basin. Starting at midnight the leaping flames spread through a whole block, destroying two stores, two houses, four barns, one warehouse, one garage and an ice-house. In the midst of the havoc that caused damage of about $20,000 three women barely escaped from their blazing home. With scarcely anything saved, the following buildings were destroyed: The store of Corbett Webster and adjoining icehouse. The store of Lloyd Ayer and warehouse. The dwelling house and shed of Ainslie Manning. The home and post office of Mrs. Elizabeth Steavey besides her woodshed and barn. The garage and barn of Harry Allen. When the fire was discovered at midnight by Edgar Parker and Edgar Ayer, the Webster store was practically demolished and the roof was caving in, while three adjoining buildings—the Steavey and Canning homes and the Ayer store—were already in flames.

Residence Gutted

ANDOVER, N. B., Jan. 6.—Fire here early this morning gutted the finest residence in this section of New Brunswick. Claude H. J. Knapp, the owner-occupant, and his family escaped safely when he awakened by cracking flames. The residence was once owned by the late Senator G. T. Baird.

STANDS FOR POLICY OF REFORM

Interest Centres On Manner In Which Premier Will Deal With Constitutional Question.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—An announcement by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett that he would seek support for his Government in the 1935 Dominion general election on a platform of reform of the economic system and advanced social legislation started the political bill rolling throughout Canada last week. Abandoning the reticence that has marked his attitude since becoming Prime Minister, and for which he offered an explanation in his initial address, Mr. Bennett opened a series of six broadcast speeches last Wednesday night delivered the second Friday night and will discuss his programme further in the third address tomorrow night.

The First Problem

He had been too busy guiding the ship of state through the storms of depression to devote any time to plans for permanent recovery or to discuss these plans with the people, Mr. Bennett said. But the time had now come to launch out with new policies designed to remodel the economic system and set up barriers against future distress from unemployment, sickness and old age. He now proposed to discuss with the people in a frank manner, his proposals to achieve these ends. Of particular note in the Prime Minister's announced intention of establishing unemployment insurance.

TREMENDOUS VOTE EXPECTED IN THE SAAR

Precautions Taken As Nazis And Anti-Nazis Stage Fervent Demonstration.

(By Wade Werner, Associated Press Foreign Staff)
SAARBRUECKEN, Saar, Dec. 31 in Territory, Jan. 6.—Nearly 500,000 Saarlanders got wet feet today in an orgy of demonstrations, the most comprehensive yet staged, for and against return of the Saar to Germany. No disorders were reported. (The fact the demonstrations were orderly was taken as minimizing the possibility of a postponement of the plebiscite. The governing commission yesterday seriously discussed this possibility, fearing disorders today would prove a trouble next Sunday.) What looked like a snow-covered umbrella stormed a hill-top in one demonstration by Nazi adherents.

Tremendous Vote Anticipated

A day of damp marching, passionate singing and bitter oratory convinced both sides they will register a tremendous vote, but left neutral observers considerably in the dark as to just how the ballot will be divided in the plebiscite one week from today. The Nazis announced more than 250,000 had attended their mass meetings, and a spokesman for elements favoring a status quo vote said 120,000 participated in an anti-Nazi gathering but neither figure entirely satisfied neutrals. Tens were expressed that dark night in case of serious rioting. No clashes were reported in the daytime, but early tonight the streets of Saarbruecken still resounded to the strains of the Internationale sung by departing status quo marchers, many of them carrying Communist flags with the hammer and sickle insignia.

Weather Hampers Demonstration

Weather greatly hampered the Nazi meeting by drenching it with glazing, wet snow, while a few hours later Nazi municipal officials of Saarbruecken temporarily crippled a status quo rally by depriving it of electric current and loud speakers. One company of the East Lancashire regiment from England moved into police barracks squarely between the two camps along the Saar River. All absent permits and the customary religious services were cancelled. Officials were admittedly apprehensive and taking elaborate precautions to prevent

Premier Predicts Prosperous Year

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
LONDON, Jan. 6.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in a speech here said everything pointed to a year of improving employment. His speech last night took the form of a new year's message. The time was close at hand said Mr. MacDonald, when rationalization of the coal industry must be taken in hand including rationalization of the steel industry, which so often has led the world, would not fail to seize every opportunity of promoting peace and goodwill throughout the nations. The new year, he went on, had possibilities for good or evil of incalculable importance to the world. It is anticipated that a well-thought-out and adequately supported scheme of land settlement would be launched, aimed ultimately at placing thousands of families back on the land. The year 1935 would be significant in the history of the British commonwealth of nations, the Prime Minister said, as the year during which India received new status and new responsibility which she heartily welcomed.
