Official word has been received here that the argument between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, and the Management of the C. N. R. has been amended to give prior rights to all firemen of this Province who entered the service up to and including 1926. As a result sixteen firemen of this province will go back to the service. These men have been working intermittently since 1926. The agreement will become effective on December 1, 1932. It provides for the restoration of these firemen to their former status, as they will take the place of men who were transferred here from outside the province. Fresh from the task of paving the way for further advancement in charting the north shore of the St. Lawrence, the Canadian Hydrographic Service ship Acadia, under the command of J. U. Beauchemin, arrived in port Monday on her way to her home port, Halifax. From the time the Acadia left Halifax in June till the latter part of last month, the weather was exceptionally bad on the north shore of the Gulf, not only for hydrographic surveys, but also for the coastwise shipping. Nevertheless, more than 80 miles of coast was thoroughly surveyed including five harbours along the stretch. With the commander are associated six trained hydrographic engineers from Ottawa, also Captain F. V. Ryan, as master and pilot, son of Captain Ryan, harbour master of this port, and J. S. Cann, Halifax, as chief engineer. The Acadia has been on extensive hydrographic surveys in Hudson Bay and Straits for three seasons in connection with the development of the new northern route. During her three years stay in Hudson Bay and Straits, all the approaches from Cape Churchill to about 80 miles north of Churchill, were charted. Several good harbours in Hudson Strait were located and also surveyed. Valuable magnetic and oceanographic research were also carried out in the northern waters.

The Acadia is fitted with the most up-to-date oceanographic instruments, mainly a gyro compass, which renders valuable work in connection with the determination of the magnetic variation at sea, especially in Hudson Bay. She is also the pioneer in adopting the echo recorder device (Acadia challenge type), of the British Admiralty. With this new development of recording the soundings at full speed, soundings are recorded with astounding accuracy on a graph every 40 feet, while the craft is steaming at ten knots per hour. The Acadia left last evening for Halifax, where she will be laid up for the winter. She is a 1,200 ton ship, built especially to stand the ice conditions of Hudson Bay, and is equipped with cold storage to take provisions for eight months.
