Rev. W. A. Cotton Speaks At Rotary

Making a comparison between the ideology of the Nazi "Master Race" and the thinking of the white race in their dealing with colored folk, Rev. Walter A. Cotton, missionary for forty-four years in South Africa, told Rotarians at their luncheon yesterday, that we must put an end to such distinctions, give up the talk of "nigger" and let there be real tolerance, not just the negative kind that merely permits existence.

The speaker told of his man in South Africa who said that the whites there had been really tolerant as in America the Indians had been almost entirely wiped out, and in Australia only a few of the aborigines remain.

Three new Rotarians were elected yesterday, Rev. J. T. Abbott, Randolph Manning and Frank Storey. Guests present were: Dr. W. L. Bailey, Evansville, Ill.; A. F. Tonney, J. L. C. Dr. Harold Jansley, Dept. of National Health, Ottawa; E. M. Campbell, Charlottetown; A. H. MacKinnon, Montreal; John Roberts, Toronto; Jay Judson, Alexandria, N.S.; Rotarians H. S. Humphries, Wolfville, N.S.; Norman Olsen, Amherst; Rev. E. M. Aitken, Hamilton; Harry Wyatt, St. John's, Nfld.; Rev. K. Windar, Halifax, N.S.; E. M. Ross, Carleton Place, Ont.; L. J. Hall, Wallingford, Conn.

SCHOOL BOARD—At a special meeting of the City School Board yesterday it was decided that the City Schools be re-opened on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. Authority On Polio Explains Chances Of Contracting Disease

With infantile paralysis striking in various parts of the United States and Ontario, Dr. Howard A. Howe of the Poliovirus Research Centre, Johns Hopkins University, Washington has some things to tell the public.

Writing in "Hospitals" magazine, and speaking of the United States where conditions are similar to those in Canada, Dr. Howe says: "If you have a child under 10 years of age, the chances are only three in 1,000 that he will suffer a severe attack of infantile paralysis, even during an epidemic. There is once chance in 1,000 that he will be crippled for life. The risk of a severe attack lessens sharply after a child passes 10. Beyond 20 there is only about one case in every 100,000 population, even during extensive outbreaks."

Dr. Howe acknowledges there is small comfort in these facts. "For that one child in 1,000 (who may be crippled for life)," he said, "poliovirus still is a great tragedy."

Why do adults rarely suffer a severe or recognizable attack? Dr. Howe says science believes the vast majority of people must have had a mild case of infantile paralysis and gained a practical immunity without ever being aware of it. Thus persons apparently immune to severe attack themselves may harbor for some time the organism that causes the disease and possibly convey it to others.

ROBBIE & PRATT WEDDING

The chance of Camrose United church was decorated with roses, peonies and sweet peas for the pretty wedding Saturday, July 6, 1946. Miss Mabel Evelyn Pratt, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pratt, Camrose, Alberta, was united in matrimony with Mr. Robbie Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robbie of Calgary and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. I. The marriage lines were read by Rev. W. Gray Rivers, minister of the church.

The lovely bride was given away by her father. She wore a long-length frock in white sheer, white brocade flowers simulating a yoke and marking the waist line. The gathered skirt fell in soft folds. A dainty embroidered silk net veil fell from a net coronet. The groom wore a tuxedo in dark dress. Deep red roses were carried in an arm bouquet. As an ornament, the bride wore a single strand of pearls gift of the groom.

Miss Edna Pratt, sister of the bride, wore a white dress, white brocade flowers simulating a yoke and marking the waist line. A floor-length net gown, white, fastened with silver clips, harmonized, and her flowers were pink, white and rose. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill Proctor, Edmonton, and ushers were Mr. Jack Pratt and Mr. Bill Pratt.

Mrs. Frank Bailey played the wedding music, and Mr. J. W. E. Markie, soloist, sang "Because" during the signing of the register. For the occasion the mother of the bride wore a mauve crepe two-piece frock with hat to match. Mrs. Robbie, mother of the groom, wore a one-piece frock in Gentian blue, with hat to harmonize. Both wore corsages of carnation and sweet peas.

ain that other we would come first!" I was enjoying the scene before me. The sea of faces—the thousands of people of every "rank and conversation" packed into the stands and on the promenade below; the air of expectancy that appeared to be common to all as the heats progressed and then the excitement when a favorite came under the wire or "into the money".

"Gallus Bankiva", a mischievous jungle fowl who stole her nest away in the jungle and laid a clutch of 12 to 15 eggs, no bigger than a robin's, many centuries ago in India, is the matriarch of our modern backyard fowl. Men around the globe soon took the jungle fowl under his protection and with ingenuity developed hundreds of breeds and varieties. The forerunner of a world-wide food industry has undergone her most drastic economic streamlining in the twentieth century. Today only a few rare specimens of the prolific little jungle fowl are still in existence.

Out in the west things have been really wild for the last few weeks—wild with excitement. It has been the season for the annual calf shows and sales which are held by the myriad calf clubs now flourishing in western provinces.

When the fun is all over the competitors stuff their heavy wallets back into their pockets and get back home to lay plans for next year.

Under the hammer 123 calves were sold; this number including three from the Consort district which, owing to bad road conditions, were unable to reach their destination at the Drumheller Sale and Show. Total receipts of the sale amounted to $12,110.55 for a total weight of 119,970 pounds. Average weight was 820 pounds and average price 16.77 cents, average per head for 1020-pound calf owned by George Edgar of Innisfail. This calf topped the Innisfail Club and the Hereford Special class. Weller & Williams of Edmonton were purchasers. Brian Butterfield of Ponoka Club
