RUSSIA IS MOBILIZING TO REPEL BRITAIN

Visit of Fleet to Baltic Depicted as Menace to Petrograd -- Officials See Humor of Despatch and Laugh Heartily

LONDON, June 29.—Officials could hardly keep from laughing out loud over a special despatch from the Evening News correspondent at Riga saying that the Bolshevik Government had ordered an immediate mobilization of the 1900 and 1905 classes as a result of the visit to Riga of the British second light cruiser squadron and the fifth destroyer division, despite the fact that the officers and sailors are dancing and generally enjoying themselves at functions in their honor. Petrograd, according to Soviet reports, and all Russia is up in arms over the visit of the warships, which in reality is "only a rehearsal for the next European war when England will visit the Baltic in an effort to capture Petrograd."

Three Soviet cavalry divisions under General Budenny, and four divisions of the red army are maneuvering near Petrograd, according to the same despatch, for the purpose of defending the city from an attack by an imaginary fleet, while Bolshevik boy scouts are distributing thousands of proclamations informing the Russians that England is threatening Russia with war.

The Admiralty explained that the fleet is simply making one of its usual friendly calls and will leave Riga on July first.

King and Queen Inspect Canada House

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, June 29.—The Queen evidenced the deepest interest during the inspection of Canada House today and following the opening ceremonies, spent three quarters of an hour in the High Commissioner's room. Showing the greatest interest in discussing the paintings and decorations, the Queen laughed when shown a picture of the Prince of Wales in an Indian Chief's costume. The King and Duke of Connaught were also greatly interested in the paintings and discussed them with much interest.

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, June 29.—The London papers give prominence to today's ceremony in connection with the opening by King George of Canada House, the new quarters of the Canadian Government in Trafalgar Square. The Daily Chronicle in a leading editorial says the Canadian Building henceforth will be one of the landmarks of London, like the offices of the Australian and South African Governments here. It says these fine Dominion offices are more than an embellishment for London, more than a business investment for the Governments which possess them. They are symbols of the Imperial connection which none of the millions of people who pass them can overlook.

The dead included Captain Thomas O. Downey, of Lowell, thirteen members of the crew and a ten-year-old boy. The message from New York thought to be based on a wireless message from the Tuscania, read in part: "In collision during fog with schooner Rex Sunday. Sunk. Survivors picked up and now on board Tuscania. Thomas Downey picked up dead. Tuscania under way and cruising on spot." The Rex sailed from this port on June 21 and was struck by the Tuscania at Liverpool for New York June 22nd and cleared from Moville Ireland, June 23rd. It is believed in political quarters that the dangerous situation in China brooks no further delay in summoning such a parley, and Great Britain's pre-eminent interest in the Far East makes it a part of wisdom for her to take the initiative in convening this parley.
