GERMANY SAID

pointed out officially, any Western fact could not be discussed.

Control of foreign activity by the European Non-Intervention Committee, will be bound to help suggest General Francisco Franco make his victory certain, it is felt here.

That, it is declared here, is all Germany is interested in, it is up to the Spaniards after that to determine their future; Germany, therefore, can turn to other problems.

Rearmament View

Britain's vast rearmament program is not regarded as a threat to Germany's peace, but as an indication that Britain, like Germany, now realizes one cannot have a voice in international politics unless one is well armed.

Another reason for optimism is apparent in a conviction that, slowly and by determined effort by both sides, a more favorable atmosphere can be created between Germany and Czechoslovakia.

As a first step, efforts are under way by mutual agreement, official sources said, to put a stop to mutual recriminations in the press.

German statesmen appear inclined to the belief that if a federated state of Czechs, Slovaks and Germans were formed in what is now Czechoslovakia, a peaceful arrangement between Praha and Berlin would be possible.

The federated state would be similar to that of the confederation of states comprising Switzerland.

MORE WORK DONE EASIER

Consider the economic value of correcting errors of vision. Work done with less energy. More done in a day, with less effort. Better work in cases where close application is required. Even those who have no errors of vision can prevent strained eyes if they aid them while doing close work.

Lloyds Of London Thrills Large Crowds

The emotional glory of a woman's love! The flaming courage of a hero's life! The vengeful fury of a husband's hate!

Intrigue, romance, adventure—with the fate of an empire at stake!

This is "Lloyds of London," the brilliant new Twentieth Century-Fox hit which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Abaze with action, vivid with pageantry and vital with drama, this story of a love that changed the destiny of an empire unites in swiftly-moving kaleidoscope the thrilling account of the founding of England's sea power, and the establishment of the world's most exciting and extraordinary institution.

Freddie Bartholomew and Madeleine Carroll are starred in the exceptional cast, which features Sir Guy Standing and the new romantic sensation Tyrone Power, G. Aubrey Smith and Virginia Field.

A boyhood pact between Freddie Bartholomew, playing Jonathan Blake as a boy, and Douglas Scott, as the youthful Horatio Nelson, leads the boys to the discovery of a plot to scuttle a ship and claim the insurance from Lloyds of London.

Freddie and Douglas determine to warn "Mr. Lloyd" but at the last moment Douglas's uncle takes him off to sea. Freddie, alone, sets out to walk to London.

Arriving at Lloyds, Freddie's story impresses Sir Guy Standing, head of the syndicate, who rewards the boy by teaching him the business.

During the years that follow, the Bell of Lloyds tells out news of the French Revolution, the heroic struggle between England and France for sea supremacy, and the rise of Napoleon.

Jonathan Blake, now played by Tyrone Power, has grown with Lloyds. On a secret mission in France, he meets Madeleine Carroll and aids her to escape back to England. During the stormy, sea-swept voyage, they fall in love.

Jonathan, however, receives a crushing blow when he discovers Madeleine is already married to Lord Stancy—his avowed enemy.

The tension and suspense steadily increase as Jonathan's power surges upward to ever greater heights in Lloyds. Madeleine, by offering to give up her entire fortune to her husband, has persuaded him to agree to a divorce.

Then comes the crushing news—the French fleet is sweeping the seas of British merchantmen. Lloyds refuses further insurance, all but Jonathan Blake, who, like a bulwark, stands against the other underwriters in an effort to prevent the destruction of England. With Madeleine at his side, and the destiny of the nation in his hand, he decides on a desperate ruse that brings the film to a thrilling, crescendo climax.

Work Of Rotary Appreciated

Returning personal thanks to their friends in Rotary to children, Ferdie and Edith, had lunch yesterday with the assembled Rotarians at the Canadian National Hotel.

Ferdie, who had been suffering from a serious case of wry neck and Edith from malformation of the feet were cured after being under the skillful hands of Dr. Acker and regular treatment at the Red Cross by Miss MacDonnell, masseuse. The latter, who was present yesterday, introduced her young charges, each of whom made a brief address, thanking the Rotary Club for what they had done toward their recovery.

Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, who presided, briefly reviewed what the Red Cross was doing, and stressed the need of some vocational work for the children. He also spoke of the summer camp at Ludlow Jenkins' at Marshfield, where crippled children by the aid of fresh air and sunlight were building up a resistance to the disease with which they were afflicted. He hoped that eventually a permanent camp would be established there.

The guests yesterday were Mr. Gordon Spencer, W. F. A. Stewart, M.P.P., Mr. C. T. Aharan and Mr. James MacLure.

Ferdie said that before he was cured, his neck was very stiff and drawn to one side. He went up to the Red Cross every day after school to receive treatment. Later he went to the hospital, was operated upon, and had a plaster cast set around his head. After wearing it for three months he again went to the Red Cross daily, and now he can run around and play with the other boys and his neck is as good as nothing had happened to it.

Edith, who said that she had received about 200 treatments and who now can play hopscotch and do lots of other things that a few years ago she could not do, read the following poem which she had composed herself:

FAIRIES
Fairies! Fairies! Fairies! Coming one and all
With their fairy Queen, named (Mab),
To a fairy ball.
Fairies! Fairies! Fairies! Nothing less nor more,
(Were they stop to greet their queen)

At the Palace door,
Fairies! Fairies! Fairies!
Skipping now away
"Let's come back," they whispered
Some other summer's day.

already been provided with maps and charts which proved conclusively, speakers claimed, that the road from Charlottetown to Souris via the 49 Road would serve at least twice as many people and car owners as would the North Shore road. A paved 49 Road would also serve the people of the Dundas district in place of a railway which had been promised for the past forty years while the road via the north shore would be of little or no use to them, other speakers declared.

The play this year is an especially good one, (Comedy-Mystery) an interesting story of every day life in a large city with plenty of comedy throughout. The entertainment includes an outstanding orchestra and four specialties. The title role is taken by Miss Isabel Storey, the leading female role by Miss Eileen Halloran and the leading male part by Mr. J. B. Richards.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARY A. McDONALD

A large number of friends and acquaintances learned with regret of the passing Sunday of Mary Ann McDonald, widow of Alexander McDonald, for many years chief clerk of the C. N. R. offices here, who predeceased her about ten years ago. The late Mrs. McDonald, who was a lady of charming personality, will be remembered by many of the older citizens for her kindness and charity to those in need. While her health permitted she was an active member of the congregation of St. Dunstan's Basilica, always taking a prominent part in every movement to advance the interests of the parish and the societies of which she was a member. She is survived by one son, George Roman Catholic Cemetery specification requirements, and necessary repairs were kept 'tab on' by the temporary connection slips. Over 65 of your 105 have been called in and hopes are strong that we soon again will be neck and neck with necessity. In the meantime every citizen who got one thereby received a courtesy, and nobody suffered.

"In examining these, see how nicely they are distributed from centre to centre to the furthest outskirts of the city and each has to be done in its own home.

"The electric working staff is almost identical with last year. Several of the younger men have gone abroad, making room for new ones. Messrs. A. W. Palmer and Peterson of Summerside did not renew their licenses, but were replaced by Pope and Williams, also of Summerside. But each of these firms only took one job in our city. Our P. C. Palmer also did not renew his license as he has gone more into furnace stokers, etc., the electrical part of which he passes along to Chappell and Co.

"There are now 21 workmen against 23 last year, the fees being practically the same.

"In the building end of the work there have been 63 licenses issued for amounts aggregating $160,630, but that does not really tell the story. Ottawa asks each year that the inspector shall add to the amount of the face of these permits. What he thinks should be considered fair for heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, etc., which I have not done as part of my duties, and it being a big and responsible thing to do alone and without orders. I would consider there should easily be another $50,000 added to our year's building operations.

"There are a number of things which could and should be said about the year's building operations to advantage, but not of necessity. Now that there is an advisory committee, you will no doubt hear more of these again.

HALTED BY COAST GUARD

Once she was halted by the Coast Guard, as she ploughed for the open sea, on a libel action that turned out to have been not against the ship itself but against her cargo. Clear again, Coast Guardsmen were compelled to bid her farewell.

Robert Cuse, a New Jersey arms broker, was the owner of her cargo, which was so hurriedly loaded that not one of the eight planes she carried had been lashed down as she pushed out to sea.

Case had been given reluctant permission by the State Department to ship the stuff. The Department explained it had no other alternative at that time.

The Mar Cantabrico's manifest indicated she was bound for Vera Cruz, Mexico, from which she was reported to have sailed Feb. 19, carrying war materials for the Spanish Government.

Commends Year's Philosophy Work At St. Dunstons

The 31 philosophy students of St. Dunstan's College yesterday celebrated the anniversary of St. Thomas Aquinas at a dinner in Charlottetown.

Guests of the students were Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy, Rector of the College; Rev. J. A. Sullivan, Professor of Philosophy, and George Gillespie, Professor of English.

Correct thought based on right principles was the only way out of the confusion in which the world finds itself today, asserted Dr. Murphy in a short address.

Father Sullivan termed the year's progress in philosophy "encouraging," and predicted that as a subject of study philosophy was destined to become even more important at the College.

William Simpson, president of Senior Year, presided. Toasts were responded to by Eric Smith, J. A. MacDonald, Jerome C. O'Brien, J. J. Bedard, and A. P. Campbell.
