NEWSY NOTES ON OLD HOME WEEK PROGRAM

Commences Tomorrow, Tuesday, Afternoon At 1:30 Standard, 2:30 D.S.T.

Tomorrow afternoon the big-est program known as OLD HOME WEEK will be on its way. All the heroes with the exception of about half a dozen that are general are nice, stabled animals and down in the 112 horse stalls and 15 stalls of the Riding Club stables. Already the number on the grounds is the greatest ever brought together at one time.

There is for instance, Bob Ryan of Westport who handles thousands of craft horses annually, a great part of his business being done in the state of Maine. Bob is the owner of the free-for-all trotter, the 112 horse stall, the 15 stalls of the Riding Club stables, the 112 horse stalls and 15 stalls of the Riding Club stables. Already the number on the grounds is the greatest ever brought together at one time.

The drawing for positions for tomorrow, Tuesday's races, which are the Three Year Old Futurity, 212 Trot and Pace, 222 Trot, will take place at 11:00 o'clock (D. S. T.) in the Judges Stand. An important change of ownership has taken place in connection with the trotter 212, that is expected to be a big factor in the race. It is owned by Mr. C. C. Collette of Buctouche and several parties have been bidding for him recently. It is understood that a merchant residing in the vicinity of Charlottetown is the new owner. He seems to have gotten there first. No bid from four offers poured in on Mr. Collette's side. The 222 Pace has drawn such a large entry that it very likely will have to be raced in two divisions.

The track which has been thoroughly cleaned in the past week, will get its final touch today. Any should be as fast as ever in its history on Tuesday. The grounds and premises are looking beautifully green and well kept. The grass is being mowed over, particles of rubbish picked up, the grass cut and Grand Stands scrubbed—in fact everything spic and span.

MANY BEETLES, LITTLE POISON

—farmers in this province are somewhat worried over a threatened shortage of all things—poison. The knock-out powder is arsenate of lime, used to control Colorado beetles. The "bugs" as they are commonly termed, have been particularly numerous this year, due, it is believed, to a winter without a great deal of severe frost. The ground, too, was protected with a heavy blanket of snow, and apparently many of last season's beetles wintered to raise families this year. Whatever the cause, farmers claim there are more of the red-bellied bugs on their potato vines than for many years.

ST. JAMES CHURCH

The preacher at the Kirk yesterday morning was the Rev. Harold K. Wright, B.A. B.D. The subject of the sermon, "Prayer" was presented and eloquently presented. He pleaded for a return to a realization of these vital truths. The service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. Dr. R. Moorhead, Legate, who also led the congregation's evening prayers of intercession. The soloist at the morning devotion was Mr. Roy Smallman, who presented the song petition, "Hold Thou My Hand, Dear Lord"—Briggs.

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 11

Five persons were drowned while bathing in the St. Lawrence River. They were Mary Laurin, 16; Frances Laurin, 10; Leonard Laurin, 20; and Charles W. Baker, operator of a restaurant at the island who tried to save the other three. The drowning brought to a tragic end a picnic reunion of the Laurin families. The three Laurins drowned were brother and sisters and from Morrisburg, Baker was from Cornwall. The group were bathing just below the Longue Sault Rapids when they were caught in an eddy. Prompt action on the part of the Thomas Lacey of the St. Lawrence, Dundas and Glenary Highlanders resulted in saving the lives of several others, particularly Isabel McMillan of Alexandria, Rachel Rogers of Cornwall, and Sanford Wercley, Cornwall. Paul Laurin, of Morrisburg, had a narrow escape from the fate which befell his brothers and sisters when the current carried him several hundred yards down the river and enabled him to get ashore on Barnhart's Island. Witnesses said they believed that the driver of the car must have placed his foot on the accelerator instead of the brake. The bodies were recovered from the overturned car within 20 minutes of the accident, but attempts at resuscitation failed. Jean was surface foreman for Malartic Gold Fields Mine. A resident of East Bathurst, N. B., he moved here two years ago and was for a time foreman at East Malartic Gold Mine. The Jensens had relatives in Amqui, Que., as well as in East Bathurst.

140 Missing After Transport Is Torpedoed

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(CP)—Sinking of the 7260-ton transport hulled Ali El-Kebir, with 140 persons missing, was announced tonight by the admiralty. The ship was torpedoed while in transport service, but did not say where or when. Seven hundred and forty survivors were landed out of the total number of 860 who were aboard, the announcement said. Lloyd's naval register lists the ship as owned by the Pharoic Mail Line, operating out of Alexandria, Egypt. The survivors were taken aboard a ship that reached the liner in the two hours she remained afloat. They were landed at a Scottish port. Most of the 120 listed as missing were soldiers sleeping below deck at the time of the explosion. On Saturday the admiralty announced the loss of the Odin, 12th British submarine lost since the start of the war, when Britain had a fleet of 37 and numerous others under construction. The Odin, an ocean-going submarine with a displacement of 1475 tons, was launched in 1928 and normally carried a crew of 50. William Olley, the liner's captain, was rescued, helped to get away the wounded aboard the ship. "Owing to heavy seas we had a hard and anxious time getting the stretcher cases on to the lifeboats but somehow this was accomplished," Olley said that before he left with the injured in the last boat. Capt. Thomson handed him the ship's papers. The Captain was a mong those missing, as well as the ship's doctor and a military doctor. King Farouk of Egypt spent part of his honeymoon aboard this liner, Olley said. A number of soldiers jumped overboard when the transport began to list and were drowned in the turbulent sea. Many of the rescued were almost naked.

Epidemics Threaten In Flood Area

LAFAYETTE, La., Aug. 11.—(CP)—Relief officials today sent out emergency calls for medicines to check threatened epidemics of dysentery and typhoid in the vast inundated flatlands southwest of here where a flood disaster of major proportions has developed, following last week's tropical storm. The call to Governor Sam H. Jones, the American Red Cross and other agencies followed first reports that the current carried into the flooded zone which has marooned, isolated, forced the evacuation of or rendered homeless an estimated 30,000 persons. The task of exhausted relief workers in Crowley, a city of 10,000 whose population has been swollen to 13,000 by refugees, was rendered very more difficult overnight. Most of the white residents there, despite their plight and virtual exhaustion of food supplies, refused to leave in a caravan of box cars sent to evacuate them. A drop of a couple of inches in the water over the area would have been sufficient to sweep away the whole area drained, freighting the water of Louisiana, Lake Arthur, and Estlinwood. Sixteen flat-bottomed boats were sent today to these villages and to other havens for refugees, which had been spotted from airplanes scouting the area. Other boats arrived hourly for rescue and relief work. Crop damage, particularly to rice, was estimated at "at least several millions," by Orville E. Priestly, secretary of the Crowley Signal, which suspended publication Thursday. The regulations, dated Aug. 8, were made under powers given the oil controller by a federal order-in-council of last June 28.

A plot of one destroyed plane drifted by parachute into the water two miles off shore. Little flocks of towfowl on their way to church looked back toward the coast for glimpses of the air fight and heard the Messerschmitt cannon fire directed at barrage balloons. Heavy anti-aircraft fire beat the raiders back from the balloons at most places. Before church services were over new flights of raiders dived out of the sun, with machine-guns and bomb sights aimed at streets and buildings. Explosions shook the town and motors screamed as planes tangled overhead in a blaze of anti-aircraft and along the whole southeast.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(CP)—With the deadline for voluntary enlistment in the non-permanent active militia of Canada only four days away, the press conference on the week-end. At a cost of over $9,000,000 the department is setting up 39 training centres across the country to accommodate the new militia-men for 30-day training periods. This is an increase of nine training centres from the last announcement when 30 centres were announced. The latter will not interfere with the accommodation of the C.A.S.F. Oil Controller Clamps Down On New Retailers

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(CP)—G. R. Cottrell, oil controller, announced today regulations prohibiting the establishment in Canada of any other service stations or other retail sale outlets for gasoline and petroleum products. In Ottawa Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, said the prohibition is designed to ensure the "orderly conduct of the business in Canada." He said he did not believe the order was a forerunner of general curtailment of the use of gasoline for private purposes in Canada. The regulations, dated Aug. 8, were made under powers given the oil controller by a federal order-in-council of last June 28.

Detachment Of Canadians Joins Comrades

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 11.—(CP Cable)—Weary after their long journey from their port of disembarkation, a small detachment of Canadian troops arrived in camp tonight long after "lights out" had sounded for the other units of the 2nd division. There were no welcoming bands and no cheering crowds for the newcomers, mainly from Eastern Canada. The hour was too late. Several former headquarters of officers, however, were at the station to greet the party and hurry them to their new billets. A few minutes after the detachment left the train and their baggage and equipment had been loaded on waiting lorries, the men were rushed off in troop carriers to their respective destinations. There their respective commanding officers were even more welcome—comfortable beds with plenty of blankets. "This is just what mother needed," said a Montreal volunteer shouted. "Now, if only we could get a pair of handcuffs on the busker. We could do very well without reveille in the morning." All were glad the long journey was over and they were looking forward to seeing their friends again tomorrow. The voyage across, they said, was uneventful with the sea like a mill pond practically all the way.
