CLEANINGS FROM TRYON AND VICINITY

A wedding of much interest to Tryon and vicinity took place on Wednesday evening May 15th, when Miss Amy Hardy of Crapaud was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth MacDonald of Tryon by the Rev. George Somers of Tryon. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present at the wedding. The many friends of this popular young couple join in wishing them years of wedded bliss. A jolly bunch of charivariers gathered to serenade Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald and when every one present had been treated with good things they left for their homes with usual blowing of horns etc.

Rev. and Mrs. M. O. Brinton and Mrs. Wilfred Inman of Tryon were recent visitors to Summerside.

Mrs. Arthur Howatt and two children of West Tryon have returned after spending a week in Borden and Summerside.

Miss Flossie Burke of Charlottetown is spending a pleasant vacation with her sister Mrs. Elmer Gamble of North Tryon.

To Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Thomas of Albany on Monday a bonnie wee daughter. Congratulations.

Mr. Fred Large returned a few weeks ago after spending the winter in the lumber woods. We are very sorry to know that Frank is not in the best of health, having been in the hospital before coming home and also having been confined to his bed since returning.

Miss Ella Rogerson has returned to town after spending a couple of days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Rogerson of Tryon. Her many friends regret to learn that she intends leaving for the land of Uncle Sam this summer, where she will join her sister.

The sale of the effects of Mr. Gordon Dawson of Cape Traverse which took place on Tuesday, May 14th, was largely attended. Mr. Hugh Morrison of Kensington was the auctioneer and he out did even his usual convincing self in disposing of all articles to be sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Thomas and two little daughters were visitors to Tryon on Saturday.

Mr. Harry MacPhee, our local blacksmith has been successful in securing a Danish immigrant, Mr. Peter Anderson, who doubtless will be a great help to him in his work.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Amy Harvey of Crapaud on Monday evening May 13th, previous to her marriage to Mr. Kenneth MacDonald of Tryon. The gifts included China, glass, silver, aluminum etc. The verses accompanying were both witty and entertaining. Miss Harvey although taken by surprise thanked the donors in a few appropriate words. The remainder of the evening was spent in music and games, everyone declaring they had had a jolly time. Appetizing refreshments were served by the ladies present.

Mr. Lloyd P. Howatt of Borden, P. E. I. spent the week-end at his home in Tryon.

There has been little or no improvement in the condition of Mrs. Grahnam Crossman of North Tryon. We are very sorry to know that very little hopes are entertained for her recovery.

days in Tryon the guest of Mrs. Mary Dawson.

Everyone was more or less surprised in waking on Monday morning to find fully three inches of snow all over the ground instead of one of our glorious May Days of other years. Guess summer is a long way off yet.

On rising Sunday morning, May 12 Mr. Wendell Lea was surprised to find that during the night his brooder house containing 190 baby chicks had been burned to the ground. The brooder house was situated some distance away from other buildings or more disastrous results might have ensued.

To Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carr of Tryon, a bouncing new baby. Congratulations.

His many friends in this vicinity are very sorry to learn that Mr. Artemus Carr, who had been away fishing returned home last week with a broken shoulder and was taken immediately to the Prince County Hospital where he is undergoing treatment. It is hoped that he may soon recover again.

One of the road trailers is at work on the roads in Tryon and vicinity and are making a first rate job of widening them about 6 inches more. Tourists will have no more for complaint this summer I am sure.

Miss Winifred Best, teacher at Westmoreland school spent the week end at her home in North Tryon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald of Tryon were Sunday visitors to Summerside.

Edin & NEW HAVEN NOTES

Construction work on the new wharf at Dunedin is going on apace. The monotonous throb of the engine, accompanied by the intermittent reverberations, caused by the heavy ram as it regularly hammers the huge black piles into position. Messrs. Faynard and Noy are the contractors while Mr. Judson MacEachern is the foreman. Some time ago, Mr. Diamond one of the workmen took a plunge "in the briny deep" by accident rather than choice. The "rescue" was effected without any trouble.

Miss Jean MacLeod, New Dominion and Miss Helen Dennis, Charlottetown were visiting Mrs. M. MacLeod at West River Bridge recently.

Messrs Ivan and Eldon Darrach were recent visitors to New Dominion.

Mr. W. K. Shaw, St. Catharines is among those enjoying the comforts of a new car. A product of Ford's is his choice.

Mrs. A. H. MacFadyen, St. Catharines was in Charlottetown last week.

Mr. Mac Lamont, St. Catharines had the misfortune to fracture two ribs last week while ploughing. Although incapacitated to a certain extent "Mac" is able to be moving about at odd and easy jobs.

Mr. Pat Osborne, Riversdale, was visiting in Clyde River recently.

Messrs Jack Gillis and Dan MacKinnon of New Argyle and Canoe Cove were in Dunedin lately.

Mr. Fred Beaton, New Haven is employed with Mr. Chas. Moore as deckhand on the Mary J. Arthur.

The boys of New Haven are assiduously practicing baseball these evenings possibly with the intention of carrying off a rural championship in this branch of outdoor activity. Baseball is a good game for the summer months, but it lacks the class and attraction characteristic of our winter game—hockey. In Dunedin some attempts were made to revive football, but at present all activity has ceased.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shaw entertained the members of the St. Catharines Dramatic Club at their home on Thursday evening of last week. In the course of the evening a dainty and appetizing lunch was served while the remainder of the time was pleasantly spent in dancing, parlor games and a sing-song.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are to be commended for the generosity and hospitality shown to the members of the club and also for the innovation of using the season's activity with a gathering of this sort.—D.

FERTILIZER IN CANADA

Notes by the way recently contained a statement that Canadian wheat is not upholding its reputation; it does not contain the percentage of gluten that it formerly did, and this is attributed to the "soil-mining" which has been carried on for so many years. This can, of course, be remedied if care is taken to replace some portion of the elements taken from the soil year after year. Should all the farmers in Canada decide to adopt this method, the fertilizer bill would amount to $385,000,000 annually! This estimate which is made in a report entitled "The Commercial Fertilizer Industry in Canada" (Department of the Interior, Ottawa) is, however, theoretical. There is still a division of opinion as to whether the prairie provinces need the application of fertilizer, but leaving them out there are still 16,307,164 acres which could absorb $141,000,000 worth of fertilizer annually; that is, at the rate of $7.72 per acre. Holland actually spends $13 per acre; Belgium $10.50; Germany $4.17; and Italy $1.05. But actually there was used in 1927 only $6,000,000 of commercial fertilizer in Canada, which works out at about 34 cents per acre. We are relying too much on the natural fertility of the soil and not helping it out to the extent that farmers do in the older countries. The effect is readily seen when we compare the returns per acre. In Canada the five-year average of wheat is only 16.8 bushels, as compared with 41.9 bushels in Holland; 33.3 in England; 30.1 in Sweden, and 27.3 in Germany.

An increase of 10 bushels an acre on 22,000,000 acres of wheat would give Canada $233,400,000 extra, taking $1.07 as the average three-year price. Similarly potatoes—which are far below the average European crop—would, if increased only 50 bushels to the acre, create an additional profit of nearly $28,000,000.

There is in fact no end in sight to the amount of commercial fertilizer that could be used and the depletion of the soil, as well as the spread of agricultural science, will force Canadians to employ it as never before.

whereas the native farmer was occupied with general or wheat farming. The foreigners usually chose fewer crops and crops that were harder to handle and required more hand labor, and they invariably used their entire families in the cultivation of crops.

The Turkey Flock

Seldom in the history of turkey lore has there sounded such wails and gnashing of teeth as during this spring. Frequently we have read in the correspondence columns of those in distress asking the question, "What shall I do for my sick turkey?" This past winter and the latter part of last year were extremely antagonistic to turkey flocks. Here, there has been a prodigious loss. The pens kept for breeding have been in many cases wiped out. Thus the percentage of this year's shippers will be much lower, and the price higher. Of course, the wet, soggy weather that seems the ill fate for farmers is fundamentally the cause, but we have found out a big mistake that is making matters worse. About American Thanksgiving time when prices are high, the choice, heavy, well-developed birds are eagerly seized by the shippers. That is the very time to get our new birds for breeding stock for the coming year. However, about 95 per cent. of us hold back and say we will wait until later when the price will be lower and look for later and smaller birds that we hope will mature and enlarge beautifully after we have paid the reasonable price. But, to our sorrow, they fail to respond. The dull days of snow and wind tend more to shrivel the smaller birds, also finding easy victims for colds, fevers, dysentery and tuberculosis. Therefore, by all means get good, early, large-limbed birds for your pen and don't wait until later than Christmas. That is the first important essential for success.

Now as to those sick birds that so many are vainly trying to tide over past the laying season. Already dozens of birds have died since the New Year. Indeed, often a replenished second flock have dwindled and have no birds left at all. We have noticed

IMMIGRANTS IN U. S. A.

The Institute of Social and Religious Research of America has been studying the foreign-born and their children in the rural areas, and has found that they are more successful than the native stock. There are three main tests of success, the Institute says; ownership, value of farms, and farm management. In the first two the immigrant farmers are ahead of the native farmers, and make about an equal showing in the third.

The agricultural census had already shown that a much larger proportion of the immigrants than of the farmers of native stock owned the farms they operate; and that the average value of their farms considerably exceeded the average value of those owned and operated by farmers of native stock.

In the course of its study, the Institute obtained from country agricultural agents in all parts of the United States, answers to a questionnaire showing that in farm management the immigrants are in the main as efficient as those of native stock. The native-born sons of immigrants appear to score better than either, as a result of combining up-to-date farming methods with the untiring industry characteristic of the foreign-born.

"Roughly, in two cases out of three," says the report, "the type of farming for both the foreign and the native-born farmer was the same. Where there were differences, the immigrant farmer was found almost entirely engaged in a more specialized type of agriculture. He devoted himself to truck or dairy farming,

Window Boxes

Even the apartment dweller, without a square inch of ground to his name, can have a window-box or hanging pots. Moreover, just as brilliant a showing can be obtained with these when properly handled as with the regular garden. One must remember, however, that a window-box is a very intensive sort of garden, producing about six times the amount of growth for the same area as is normally the case. To make it a success, there must be daily watering, rich soil, and plenty of fertilizing. Window-boxes should be as long as the sill, about eight inches wide at the top, six at the bottom and at least seven inches deep, all inside measurements. The corners should be strongly re-inforced with iron
