HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

LEAGUE ANNUAL FOR MONTREAL
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The annual meeting of the Health League of Canada will be held here November 23 and 24 under the auspices of the Quebec Division of the League.

Seasons will consist of public meetings which will be addressed by prominent speakers and round table conferences where various phases of League activities—in physical health, nutrition, venereal diseases, immunization and pasteurization—will be discussed.

HEALTH NEWS BRIEFS AND FILLS
The provision of free, hot, noon lunches to all school children would be a most important measure to know the nutritional standard of the population, it is stated in the recently released report of the Saskatchewan Health Services Survey Commission.

Scientific tests reveal that people never become completely accustomed to excessive noise. It always takes a toll in damaged nerves and decreased efficiency. Industrialists have learned that noise-prevention measures pay dividends in workers' health and in production.

Everyone admires invalids who suffer without complaint and greet adversity with smiles. However, would it not have been better to have taken measures which would have prevented such persons from becoming invalids—much illness is preventable through proper health habits and methods.

5,000 Turkeys Die Of Disease

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, MAN., Nov. 9 (CP)—A poultry disease, unknown in Western Canada, and diagnosed as "leucocytinemia" has killed 5,000 turkeys at the farm of George Hill, near here. Pathologists said today once the disease has been contracted there is no cure.

Home Economics Society Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Home Economics Society was held at the Nurses' Home of the Provincial Sanatorium on Thursday evening, November 9th.

In the absence of the president the vice president, Miss Sterns presided.

Reports of the year's work were read and adopted and the nominating committee brought in the names of the officers for the coming year.

Following is the report of the president, Sister Francis Loya, which gives an outline of the past year's activities.

Madam Chairman and Members: "Times goes on" sings the song of the Kerry dancers and these are the words which come to mind as I think of the swiftly elapsed months since the last annual meeting.

Our undertakings have not been extensive yet we feel that by holding our group together we present an organized unit ready to be called on when necessary; and building for the future and removing from our province the stigma of no Home Economics Association.

Since our members are already taking part in many activities outside regular duties in homes or office it has seemed prudent to confine ourselves to these modest achievements. We do hope that all ladies qualified will attend even if unable to attend every meeting as at the most of our members are limited.

We were privileged to have the gracious National President, Miss Frances McKay, at one of our meetings. She has had wide experience in dealing with just such problems as await solution here and we were glad to hear from her what has been done elsewhere.

The members were unanimous in support of our resolution presented to the Government, urging the introduction of some form of Home Economics training in our public schools and our Honourable Premier gave us hope that before too long something will be done about it.

Calls for lectures or talks to the student leaders, to members of Red Cross Corps and to Public Health Nurses, were responded to. When the problem of help in the home again becomes so acute let us hope more members will offer themselves for such work for their own benefit and the benefit of their Alma Mater and their own satisfaction.

Our protocol representative has faithfully performed her duties giving us all an example in generosity. We think of the responsibilities resting on her as the wife of our busy Premier. May we thank you, Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones's kindness brought us useful information re War Time Prices and Trade Board regulations and recommendations through the channels of the committee acquired. I trust we have in turn helped others to see the why and wherefore of different rulings.

During the ceremony, appropriate hymns were sung by seven girls friends of the bride, The Ave Maria was beautifully rendered by Miss Maurine Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Dougan at the organ.

The bride, who was wearing a two piece dress of brown crepe with accessories and a dark brown coat, the light-colored dress was given in marriage by her father. She wore a corsage of bronze roses.

The bride's only attendant was her friend Mrs. Frank Smith, who was attired in a dress of turquoise crepe with brown coat and accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

L'Abd. Frank Smith attended the groom.

Following the ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives at the Charlottetown Hotel, after which the happy young couple left on a honeymoon trip by motor through the Maritimes. On their return a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents where numerous gifts of cut glass, linen and checks were received. The young couple will reside in Charlottetown, where the groom is connected with the staff of No. 62 C.A.B.T.C. since his return from overseas duty.

On Oct. 20th, Miss Norah Blake entertained at an enjoyable shower for the bride-to-be, when a beautiful array of silver, linen, etc. was received. Again on October 28th, she was entertained at the home of Miss Marjorie Murray where another beautiful assortment of gifts was received.

Tomorrow is Forever

by Gwen Bristow

This business has become writing the histories of the patients whose lives had come under his own and Jacoby's care. Disguising their personal circumstances, he had drama enough for a thousand volumes. His only experience of writing had been in putting out technical pamphlets for the oil industry, but he had learned from this to say what he had to say plainly enough to be understood. Without any literary genius, he had learned to think clearly, and fortunately his present subject required clearness rather than rhetoric.

His books were widely read in Germany before Hitler had the power to order them burnt, and two of them were bought for motion pictures by French studios. With his hospital consultations and his writing through more work than he could do. He was not as happy as he had been. This he did not mention to science equal to the triumphant knowledge that he had built a worthwhile career on the ruins.

In the meantime Jacoby had married a brilliant girl named Ricarda. Much younger than her husband, Ricarda was already showing a devotion to science equal to his, and after their marriage they worked together. She and Jacoby were passionately in love. Though sometimes the sight of their happy marriage made Kessler feel like a pauper standing in the sun to look through a lighted window, he tried not to let them suspect it. They had been his friends before their marriage, and afterwards they remained so.

They knew there was an Austrian fanatic named Hitler, but beyond laughing at his mad German when they heard it on the radio they did not occur to them to believe him. When Jacoby and Ricarda finally realized the persecution directed at them, it was already full-grown and too strong to be escaped.

They had tried to escape. But it was too late. They who had saved so many others could not save themselves. The force of evil closed around them so tight that at last it crushed even their gallant spirits. The Nazis succeeded where Hitler had failed. They had not been able to do: they destroyed his faith and with it his courage. So today the great Dr. Jacoby and his wife were only two more of Germany's uncounted Jewish suicides.

Kessler had not been able to save them, but through the connivance of some of Jacoby's friends who were risking their lives along with his to help him, he had managed to save their little girl. He got Margaret into France, her surname changed from Jacoby to Kessler on the passport, and a French representative of Vertex Studios met him at the frontier with tickets to Paris. Once in

Queen's Canadian Fund News

The Lord Mayor of London has cabled his warm appreciation of the Queen's Canadian Fund's "CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS" appeal, through which parties and presents will be brought to thousands of British children who are victims of enemy air raids.

In Britain a vast scheme of parties is being organized by the Queen's Canadian Fund. There will be no administrative expenses deducted in Canada or the United Kingdom. Children in their own homes will be provided with some sort of Christmas cheer by loving parents.

—but, with a Britain that is fully mobilized families in large numbers have been broken up, countless made homeless by bombings and vast numbers evacuated from danger areas.

Thousands of letters received at the Montreal office of the Fund from children who had attended Christmas parties provided by the Fund in 1943 thanking the people of Canada for the "holly party" with a punch and jolly show, tea, cakes and sweets. In nearly all cases a present was given to each child. The Food Ministry is making concessions for the special food allowances for the parties in badly bombed districts.

In this fourth appeal for the "CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS" you are asked to send gifts, however small, to the Royal Trust Company, Charlottetown.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8 (CP)—Canadian production of mica during 1943 totalled 3,800,000 pounds compared with 6,919,971 pounds in 1942, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The value was $52,859, a record compared with $33,587 in 1942. Of the total output in 1943, Ontario accounted for 4,241,010 pounds, Quebec 2,666,673 pounds and British Columbia 719,900.

3-Purpose Medicine Helps Clear Out Congested Sinus Areas

3-Purpose Medicine... Vapo-nol is so successful because it does three important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes of the nose; (2) helps clear out pain-causing congestion and (3) soothes irritation. Many sinus sufferers say it's best relief they've found. Try it!
