YOUNG STAR HAS BEAUTY ROUTINE

NEW YORK—Margaret O'Brien, the little film star, has a well-developed and rigid grooming routine designed to keep her skin clear and her hair glossy—and she has broken down to tell other youngsters about it.

The contents of Margaret's bathroom shelf start with sensible things like tooth brush and paste and go on to such adult things as toilet water and bubble bath. In between, there are a miniature manicure kit, soap, hand lotion and sachet, put up in heart-shaped, silky bags.

There's no real make-up, of course, but there is a colorless pomade, lipstick to keep her lips from chapping.

A supply of bath powder completes Margaret's beauty needs on a glamorous note.

Georgetown And Vicinity

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert George, who have both been patients in the Prince Edward Island Hospital, will be glad to learn that they have now improved in health sufficiently to return to their home in Georgetown.

Mrs. Cora Morrison has returned to Charlottetown after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P.L. Boudreau.

Mr. John Dan MacCormack of Green Hill was a visitor to Georgetown on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Livingston formerly of St. John, N.B., and who have been spending the winter in Murray Harbour, are spending some time with Mrs. Livingstone's mother, Mrs. John Dicks.

Mrs. Joseph Haggerty of Cardigan was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. P.L. Boudreau.

On Wednesday night Murray Harbour defeated Georgetown Eagles by the score of 3-1 in the Georgetown rink. The game was played on heavy ice but was fast and rugged. The win gave the Murray Harbour team first place in the Southern Kings County League. The playoffs between Murray Harbour and Georgetown will now get underway to decide a winner for the League cup.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER SERVICE AT MONTAGUE

The World Day of Prayer service was held in the Presbyterian Church at Montague on February 21. Mrs. Elmer MacNeil, president of the W. M. S. of that church presided. The service programme for this year was one of great beauty and inspiration, the theme being "Make straight in the Desert a Highway for Our God." The following "word of the programme" is of special interest.

It may seem like a long journey from the hearth of India to earth's remotest bounds, yet you can trace the footprints of the Son of God along every inch of that highway, as pointed out to us in this unusual World Day of Prayer service written by a talented Indian woman—Mrs. Isabel Caley, on the staff of Ewing Christian College, Allahabad. Burdened with her cargo of concern for all men everywhere, Mrs. Caley shows us how to make level in the Desert the highway of our God; it will be stimulating to discover that all through her Oriental symbolism there sparkles the refreshing Water of Life an oasis of blessing, without which none of us could make our journey's end without stumbling and falling; No programme could prove more convincingly that the whole family of the whole church in the whole world is indeed one in Him for whom our prayers are sent. For the letter accompanying her manuscript the author wrote: "I thank you for the confidence you have placed in me by giving me the privilege of writing the service for 1947. I have enjoyed writing it upon each of us rests a responsibility so big, so sacred and so beautiful that we dare not refuse it."

The different parts of the programme were represented as follows:

"Meditation: Deserts" Mrs. Elmer MacNeil.

"Confession: Mirages" Mrs. George Gordon.

"Thanksgiving: Oases and Caravans" Miss Nellie Rankin.

"Intercession: To Jesus the Head of the Caravan" Mrs. A. S. Adams, Mrs. R. MacLean, Mrs. B. MacLure, Mrs. A. MacNeil and Mrs. J. Currie.

A solo by Mrs. (Rev.) Bryant and an address by Mrs. (Rev.) Crawford was much appreciated.

The offering was to aid in the printing and distribution of Christian Literature for women and children of other lands.

NANTES - MAHER WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Kathleen Catherine daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Maher, Montreal to Mr. John Patrick Nantes, also of Montreal, youngest son of Mr. John H. Nantes and the late Mrs. Nantes of Kelly's Cross, P.E. Island, took place at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, February 1st, 1947, at the Holy Family Church, Montreal. The Rev. Fr. Royden Thoms performed the double ring ceremony which was celebrated in Nuptial Mass, Spring flowers and potted plants decorated the altar. Mr. Leo Roy played the organ and the soloist was Miss Gene Maher, sister of the bride.

The bride given in marriage by her god-father, Mr. E. LeBlanc, was gowned in white floral satin, having a fitted bodice, with scalloped neckline, and long sleeves ending in points over the hands; the full skirt falling in a short train. Her floor-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Edna Maher, the bride's sister, as maid of honor, wore matching headpiece with tulle illusion veil and long mittens, her cascade bouquet being of yellow, mauve tipped carnations.

Mr. Vincent MacIntyre, was best man for his brother-in-law, and the ushers were Mr. Phillip LeBlanc and Mr. Timothy Deegan.

Mrs. Maher, mother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Following a reception at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Nantes left by plane on their honeymoon for New York. For travelling the bride wore a powder blue wool crepe dress with matching hat and muskrat coat.

On their return the couple will reside in Montreal.

Out of town guests included the groom's father, Mr. John H. Nantes of Kelly's Cross, P.E. Island. (Patriot Please Copy)

YOUNGSTERS ARE NOT BORN WITH SOCIAL CONSCIENCE

Children are not born with a social conscience. They are not police. They cannot draw fine lines between right and wrong, between generosity and selfishness. We have to teach them and train them first by our good example and then through their experiences. It is well to begin by asking and teaching them to ask themselves, "Would I want this done to me?"

Caroline was invited to a friend's birthday party. She was delighted with the idea of the party, her new dress, the fun of selecting and buying the gift. She put off buying this until the day of the party arrived and then she became ill. All hope of going to the party was ended. She wiped her eyes and said, "Well, good thing I didn't buy her a gift as long as I couldn't go and have fun."

The only thing her mother could do about this attitude was to ask the girl and send it for you with our love? "No, as long as I can't go I'll just save the money and buy something for myself."

That is a childish attitude and it should not be wiped out by authority if it cannot be changed by advice and persuasion. Best to make a note of the attitude and keep pushing educative experiences toward the child. In time she will learn that she needs love, needs to feel it and express it. She will learn sooner if the home atmosphere it set that way.

Manners cannot be forced. If they are to be the real thing, that is the expression of goodwill and friendliness, they must spring from the child's self and not from authority. It is right to keep teaching a child to say, "Thank you," to help when possible, to think toward other people and away from himself. The teaching must be done, but the behavior cannot and should not be forced if it is to become second nature as it should become.

It is a mistake says Anglo Pathé, to compel a shy child to greet an adult politely, to tell his name out loud to strangers. Help him out by saying the right thing, shield him and let him go. That treatment will result in greater confidence and ultimate self-control, but forcing the issue will make him fearful and certainly less confident. Give him help and allow him time to grow.

Older children need to be taught to keep engagements they make. Sometimes they like to call off the dog in preference for another and they should be taught that such behavior will rob them of the faith of their friends and rob themselves
