Budget Speech This Afternoon

The Budget will be brought down in the Legislature today, it was announced yesterday in the House by Premier Jones in reply to a question by Hon. Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, leader of the opposition.

The House met yesterday at 3 p. m. and at 6 o'clock adjourned until 3 p. m. today. The members were invited by the Premier to visit government institutions this morning.

Milk For Newfoundland

Mr. Philip Matheson drew attention to an item in the press about a visit of U. S. Army representatives in Newfoundland seeking a large quantity of pasteurized milk from Charlottetown producers. Apparently they could not obtain what they wanted here, and are being supplied from Summerside. He asked what information the Government had on this subject. This should be a very profitable trade, Mr. Matheson said; more so than supplying wheat to the latter country. Everything should be done to have the order filled here if possible.

Premier Jones said Newfoundlanders come to Charlottetown frequently and buy various products, such as oysters, apples, peaches and chickens. The last day they came over and wanted milk. "They did not come to us but went out to investigate who produced milk that was sufficiently high in standard. After investigation at the laboratory they found there was only one pasteurizing plant that was making the milk they wanted. They approached this man and he could not give them the supply. After we talk to him it was suggested there was a young man in Summerside, Mr. Oiler, who makes that quality. I understand that he has the amount of milk and if it grades high enough they will come for 3,000 or 4,000 pounds. I can produce milk that is of this quality, and I hope they will remember that we sent them there on this occasion and did them a good turn."

Mr. Cullen's Statement

Later, on a question of privilege Mr. Eugene Cullen said: "At question time it was stated in this House that only one milk plant had a bacteria count of less than 40,000; and that that plant could not supply the milk required. In this connection I want to make the following statement: I operate a pasteurized milk plant in Charlottetown. It opened for business on February 1st. To date the Health Department has taken one sample of our milk. The bacteria count was 20,000. Twenty-two others started out with him, but five dropped out before they passed the Toronto City limits and others dropped out along the way. Priestman was going strong at the finish, and he smiled as he said: "any man who can walk 24 miles at an average speed of four miles an hour is really stepping, and I'm 70."

He had made the walk on St. Patrick's Day over since 1930 but this year he made it a day earlier in order to avoid doing his annual stunt on a Sunday.

Export of Potatoes

Mr. Seville said he understood that the ban on exporting Island table stock potatoes to Newfoundland was still in effect. He said that the difficulty was with regard to Food Board regulations. "Everything is being done to open up the market," he said. "We have taken it up with the War-time Prices and Trade Board and we expect an answer in a few days."

Third Readings

The following bills were read a third time and passed: An Act to amend the Cemeteries Act (Hon. Mr. Stewart); the Venereal Disease Prevention Act (Hon. Mr. Hughes); the Falconwood Hospital and Infirmary Act (Hon. Mr. Hughes); an Act to amend the Children's Act (Hon. Mr. Hughes); the Credit Union Societies Act (Hon. Mr. Hughes); an Act to provide for the administration of the Attorney General's office of notaries (Mr. Morley Bell).

On motion of Mr. Morley Bell the House went into committee with Mr. Francis in the chair on second reading of an Act to amend the Joint Stock Companies Act.

The promoter explained that the bill is intended to bring the existing statute up to date and in line with legislation in other provinces.

Mr. R. R. Bell directed attention to an omission in the bill which the promoter agreed should be incorporated in its provisions.

Progress was reported, the committee asking leave to sit again.

Health Department Eastern

On motion of Hon. Mr. Hughes the House resumed committee with Mr. Francis in the chair and respecting Births, deaths and marriages. The bill brings the present Act into line with the new Department of Health and Welfare. Dr. MacMillan asked why the change in the name of the Department.

Mr. Hughes: "Because it seems advisable to do so."

Dr. MacMillan: "If you didn't make this change you would be losing a grant?"

Mr. Hughes: "Not necessarily."

Dr. MacMillan: "What is the amount of this grant?"

Mr. Hughes: "What grant are you referring to?"

Dr. MacMillan: "The Rockefeller Institute grant. I understand it is $15,000."

Mr. Hughes: "We would not necessarily lose that grant if we didn't make the change."

Dr. MacMillan: "I know my own friend is changing his name. He has to be the same as Dr. Ota, didn't he?"

Mr. Hughes: "My own friend seems well posted. There was an agreement between the Department of Public Welfare under the name of the Department of Health when there was no Department of Health in this Province, as such. Last winter in Ottawa Dr. McIntosh pointed this out. The Department of Health would not work except with the Department of Health in this Province, but the Department of Welfare would function with our Department, but it would take some time. They would have to prepare a new agreement."

Dr. MacMillan: "That was your mistake. There was a Provincial Department of Health when it came in."

Mr. Hughes: "No, it was banished in the year 1939."

Dr. MacMillan: "It was a mistake. If you didn't change the Act now you would lose the grant."

Dr. MacMillan inquired who was the Deputy Minister of Health and Welfare. The promoter replied Mr. Fielding.

Dr. MacMillan: "Why was a doctor removed as Deputy Minister and a layman put in his place? Was not Dr. Keeping Deputy Minister?"

Mr. Hughes: "There was a Deputy Minister of Health up till 1939 and there was no Department of Health then on."

Dr. MacMillan: "Any way you had a doctor a Deputy Minister of Health and now you haven't?"

Mr. Hughes: "If you wish to call it that is all right."

Dr. MacMillan: "It is just in keeping with the record of this Government."

Mr. Hughes: "I suppose increasing the accommodation at the Sanatorium was a retrograde step."

Dr. MacMillan: "What is the good of that when you can't take in the patients? How many nurses do you have?"

Mr. Hughes: "There are only two nurses short."

Dr. MacMillan: "There should not be any shortage if the Minister was on the job."

Mr. Hughes: "I suppose I am never on the job."

Dr. MacMillan: "If you spent more time on the job and less in dreaming the Sanatorium would be open."

After some further discussion the bill was reported agreed to.

Public Health Act

On motion of Hon. Mr. Hughes the House went into committee with Mr. Francis in the chair on second reading of the Public Health Act.

The bill effects various minor changes in the Act.

Mr. Seville called attention to the unsanitary condition of the toilet in the Market Building.

Dr. MacMillan said it was a standing disgrace that there was not a proper public lavatory in Charlottetown.

Hon. Mr. Stewart: "It is no use having a public lavatory without an attendant to clean it up."

Dr. MacMillan: "I suppose you wouldn't take it on as a Government responsibility?"

Hon. Mr. Stewart: "The other municipalities would be after us too."

Dr. MacMillan: "It is very important from the standpoint of the tourist trade."

IN THE STANDARD this week "The BLACK ROSE"

Thomas Costain's sensational best seller...

Why did Walter Gurney, the English nobleman, risk death and torture at the hands of the blood-thirsty Mongolian guards to rescue the native girl who had been doomed to spend the rest of her life in a harem? Why did he marry this pitiless stranger when he had solemnly vowed to marry the aristocratic, desirable Engaine? Here's the book which almost 600,000 readers acclaim as the most exciting, most sensational story they've ever read. It appears as The Standard's complete novel this week.

ANITA COLBY - "THE FACE"

In Hollywood she is known as "The Face"—the gal who advises starlets on make-up, clothes and posture! Anita pops up in The Standard's rotogravure picture section this week to give a little free advice to a couple of would-be Montreal beauties. An exclusive photo story, taken by Standard staff photographer Louis Jaques in Montreal.

I SAW MY SHIPMATES DIE!

Last month, a frail, ice-burdened lifeboat lumbered onto the beach of the Bay of Fundy. Of its 13 occupants, eleven were dead. A twelfth died later. The sole survivor, Capt. Arthur Ellis, tells the moving story of the tragic struggle with the elements that claimed twelve lives, in an exclusive article this week in The Standard's magazine. It's a story of human courage and faith seldom equaled! Read it this week in The Standard.

Egg Head the Jap was Nazis' Master Spy; Offered Ring his Own Espionage Network

(World copyright by NEA Service, Inc. All rights of reproduction without express permission prohibited.)

By NEA Foreign Service STOCKHOLM (NEA)—Of all the intelligence agents at the "Radio Bureau" on Karlavagnen 50, there was none more versatile, more highly rated or more daring than the Hon. General Makato Onodera, Japanese Military Attaché in Stockholm, otherwise known as "Elerkopf" — or Egg Head the Jap.

Discovery of the Jap diplomat's identity as the master spy on the Nazi payroll is one of Herr X's real scoops. The information came to him quite by surprise and due to the general's own carelessness.

For some time X has noticed that there is a strange affinity in the reports filed by two agents known as "Elerkopf" and "Emonot".

Who are these fellows and why do they so often appear in the same connection? Herr X has been very much like to know, but for a long time his cautious inquiries failed to elicit any clues from his colleagues or superiors at the "Radio Bureau."

Then one day the mystery easily solved itself. X's boss, Pandur—supposedly a German—was the man who, at the time at least, is identical with the assistant air attaché Major Heinrich Wenzlau in Berlin.

The letter, written in a strange hand, was in German and German and spy can't, not only confirms X's earlier suspicion that "Elerkopf" and "Emonot" were one and the same person; it further reveals, by one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence service, that Onodera, the Jap military attaché.

Indeed, Wenzlau, who has told X that the message is from "Elerkopf", forgets to delete the signature at the bottom of the letter, which begins with "Major Onodera" and ends with "Yours very truly—Onodera."

In this letter, Onodera, alias "Elerkopf", reports upon his third visit to the German intelligence service in Berlin, and offers himself as "very honest" and inspired only by "patriotic motives."

Onodera reveals he previously worked in Ankara, but was forced to leave because of "anti-British propaganda" without any other explanation. He describes himself as "very honest" and inspired only by "patriotic motives."
