REV. DR. FULLERTON ON CLOSING YEAR

Last evening in St. James's Church the Rev. Dr. T. F. Fullerton, in his typically forceful and eloquent style, delivered a sermon of absorbing interest on the twelfth verse of psalm 115, "The Lord hath been mindful of us..." They sometimes forgot, he said, that celebrations were ancient. Nearly the children of Israel celebrated their deliverance from Egypt. At a later stage in their national life they preserved it, but added to it the anniversary of their deliverance from Babylon, and in this psalm there was a combination of those two celebrations. There was a note of joy, strong, clear, ringing, because of the older deliverance; but there was also a note of sorrow, of pain, and yet of confidence, because now, in the home for which they had longed so much and so deeply they were surrounded by antagonistic forces. There was, the speaker said, a similar mingling of the shadow and sunshine in life's experiences. They could not approach their meditation on the past with a clearer note of pain than that which was found in the text. The Israelites were bewailing their condition. They felt that their surroundings were antagonistic to the expansion of their religion, and yet, in the midst of all, they cried out "Our God is in the heavens." Could they that night gather up the lessons of the past year and sum them up in any better way than in the experience of those Israelites? Charles Lamb, meditating just as midnight approached at the close of the year, said that there were two anniversaries for every man on which he counted the lapse of time, on which he thought of years that lay behind him, on which he contemplated the years ahead of him. One was peculiarly his own, his very own, and that was his birthday. The other was the nativity of the common son of Adam, and they could not come, any more than Lamb could come, to the close of the year without glancing back without trying to discover what advances they had made in the things that were moral and the things that were spiritual. They all knew that the end of the year was the common time for man to take account of material things, and if they were rightly to recognize their responsibilities as spiritual beings, if they were rightly to consider the claims of God and man upon them, it was fitting, more than fitting, that they should also take stock of the months that lay behind them and discover just where they stood in relation to the Eternal God. They were like men who had come from a valley below with the unknown future before them, and behind, the past that they could never recall to undo. "Is not this the very time that brings these things home to us?" the speaker asked. "The trees are bare, the ermine mantle of winter clothes our streets, and in a few hours this Old Year will have breathed his last and will be lying dead in the middle of a winter night. We stand where two points of time, so to speak, come into contact just as two crystal spheres touch each other in point of space. The one, darkening into decay, will be followed by the other, which is bright with prospect and hope. And yet we cannot leave the old without remembering some of the things that have occurred." The preacher referred to the painting of "The Roll Call" by Lady Butler. It was one of the most thrilling pictures ever painted of a stern battle. In that splendid picture one could almost read in the faces of the survivors. "Another comrade gone who will never again cheer me in the fight." A few had gone from their own ranks and had passed into the presence of an eternal God, and in the consolation of religion have found a power and inspiration as when they bore the remains of those who were broken-hearted by their loss. The preacher urged the necessity of patience in tribulation; there should be no resentment. In the home of death as well as birth, in gain as well as loss, in sorrow as much as in joy there were things that they could not understand; but they could not measure life by taking one year as a chapter; they must wait until they got to the end. "All was well; the look back and say 'all was well; the sorrow and sadness as well as the happiness was all well.' They were not in the wine press of sorrow alone; for God was sorrowing with them; He was afflicted in their affliction."

ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Chauffeur Either one of a Gang of Abductors or their Dupe.

(Canadian Press.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—As a sequence to the receipt of letters in which money was demanded from the family of Miss Jessie McCann, a young settlement worker, who disappeared from her home in Brooklyn on December 4, and is still missing, the police to-day arrested Claude Simmons, a chauffeur. The letters had offered to give $2,000 for information as to her whereabouts and purported to be from a disaffected member of a gang which was holding her prisoner. The last letter fixed the place in the hotel district of Manhattan where the money was to be turned over by a messenger boy. Robert G. McCann, brother of the girl, decided to see to the appointment himself with the police at hand in case of need. Simmons appeared and accosted one of the detectives. He had a note saying "give the bearer the package," and was signed "Ford." When Simmons was arrested he declared he had been given the note by a man who hired his taxicab over the telephone from the garage and told him to go to the place of Canada at Havana, and who wrote the letters but will try and find out with the aid of handwriting experts by the time Simmons is arraigned to-morrow.

THREE FIRES ON SATURDAY

(Special to The Guardian.)
ST. JOHN, Dec. 28.—Early yesterday morning fire was discovered in Mr. Arthur's woodshed, off Sydney Street. The flames penetrated to a barn nearby and a horse owned by James McIntyre was burned. The loss is heavy. The West End firemen were called out yesterday morning to fight a fire in an oil heater car near No. 6 berth, Sand Point. The damage is slight. This afternoon fire was discovered in a box car in the Mill Street Yard. The car was loaded with hay and badly damaged.

59 BODIES WERE LAID TO REST

(Canadian Press.)
CALUMET, Dec. 28.—The Western Federation of Miners buried its dead to-day fifty-nine bodies including forty-four children were carried through the streets to-day down the winding country highway and laid in graves in the snow-enshrined cemetery in sight of Lake Superior. Thousands of saddened miners formed the escort of the funeral party as it wended its way and passed between other thousands who lined the road. Four hours of the Sabbath calm were broken by the tolling of bells and the sounds of many voices in saddened hearts. In half a dozen churches burial services were held earlier in the day and mourners went about the streets passing from their homes and back to their homes after a brief respite.

LEADER OF MINE STRIKERS

Was Shot, Clubbed and Escorted from City. Case Now Being Investigated.

(Canadian Press.)
CALUMET, Dec. 28.—The deportation of Charles H. Moyer, President of the Western Federation of Miners and Leader of the Copper Mine strikers who was escorted from Hancock last night after being shot and clubbed, will be investigated by a special grand jury when court resumes its session next Tuesday. Sheriff Cruise began an inquiry into the facts of Moyer's departure and in response to a telegram from Governor Ferris, warrants were served tonight on the Business Manager and a dozen or more employees of a Socialist paper in Hancock, the charge being conspiracy to publish misstatements calculated to incite to riot. Moyer has the letter to all mine managers urging them to assist him to settle the controversy. The recent terrible disaster is deplored.

SILVER JUBILEE OF REV. FATHER MCDONALD

On Monday, Dec. 22nd, Rev. J. J. MacDonald, P.P., of Kinkora celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood by holding a silver jubilee at St. Malachi's Rectory. Rev. Mr. MacDonald is a graduate of the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He served the first two years of his ordination at the Cathedral, Charlottetown, and then succeeded to the parish of Kinkora, where he has worked zealously and happily for the past 23 years. His ministry has been one of kindness and affection to his people. The day was marked by happiness and good-will, gratitude on one side and the acceptance of it on the other. In the morning Solemn High Mass was celebrated, the celebrant being Rev. Mr. MacDonald, Father Duffy of the Cathedral Staff was deacon; Father Hughes of St. Dunstan's College Sub-Deacon and Father Murphy of St. C. Master of Cerecormies. During Mass Rev. Dr. Monahan preached the sermon. Then Rev. Father was presented with the following addresses by the parishioners of Kinkora and Seven Mile Bay:

and esteem of your flock, while your gentlemanly, unassuming and genial disposition has gained for you the respect of all denominations. Your ability as an administrator has been clearly shown in your management of the financial affairs of the parish. The beautiful new church built under your direction and paid for when completed, together with all the other improvements in church property of a modern and up to date class, show executive ability of a high order. The great labor you have expended in teaching the little children of the parish and grounding them thoroughly in the Christian doctrine, in order that they may grow up good and pious Christians and good citizens of our country and the great interest you have taken in our schools and in your desire of education show that you desire the spiritual and temporal advancement of the youth of the parish. While you have had our religious interests at heart you have not been unmindful of our material success. It was chiefly through your efforts that the cheese factory and farmer's institute were established in Kinkora and your advocacy of improved methods of agriculture has been of great benefit to the farming community. We are pleased therefore Dear Father to bear this testimony and pay tribute to your splendid qualities of mind and heart. We wish to give some tangible proof of our sincere regard and affection and as a small token of the same we offer you Rev. Father to accept this purse, not for its intrinsic value, but as an evidence of the esteem in which you are held by us. We wish also to take this occasion to offer you all the compliments of the season that in a truly Christian manner you may enjoy a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year. In conclusion Rev. Dear Father we pray Almighty God to pour his choicest blessings on you. That you may live to celebrate the Golden Jubilee of your ordination is the earnest prayer of your devoted and truly grateful people. Signed on behalf of the congregation, John T. Murphy, James M. Duffy, John McKenna, Ambrose Monaghan, Owen G. McCarroll, John M. Murphy, P. J. Smith.

Rev. Dear Father,—On this occasion of the Silver Jubilee of your ordination to the Holy Priesthood, we your parishioners of Kinkora hasten to offer you our sincere congratulations, that Almighty God has spared your life and gave you health and strength to labor for the space of twenty-five years in the Lord's Vineyard. No doubt Dear Father on this occasion recollection carries you back over the intervening years, to the morning when as a young Levite you knelt at the Altar and were raised to the high dignity of the Holy Priesthood. What sublime holy thoughts must have flooded your soul on that occasion when your ordaining Bishop raised his consecrating hands over you and called upon the God of high Heaven to bless and consecrate you forever in His holy service. On that day the church received a true and worthy priest, one who by his piety and devotion has been an honor and an ornament to the priesthood of the church. We rejoice therefore with you Dear Father on this occasion and we thank Almighty God for the blessings and favors bestowed on you in calling you to the priest's office and enabling you to perform the sacred duties pertaining to that holy office in a worthy manner. Twenty-three years ago his Lordship the late lamented Bishop McIntyre appointed you to the pastoral charge of the parish of Kinkora. During all those years you have labored with all your ability and energy for the spiritual and temporal welfare of your people. During the years of your ministry amongst us we have admired your great charity to the poor and distressed and your zeal for the cause of religion and temperance. Your firm but kindly admonitions, your good and timely advice to us on all occasions show that you were always on the watch tower of true shepherd, who by your eloquence and earnestness in preaching the word of God has made a deep impression on us. Your willingness to attend the sick, to bring to them the consolation of religion at all hours of the day or night, regard less of the inclemency of the weather, show an utter disregard of self, and a love for the souls entrusted to your spiritual care. Your ready sympathy with us in our troubles and your untiring devotion has earned for you the love

NEW PRESIDENT FOR MEXICO

(Canadian Press.)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27.—That Enrique Gerosteta, Minister of Justice, will become President of Mexico in the new year and that Huerta will take the field against the Rebels who refuse to conform to this arrangement is the report received with some credence by diplomatic representatives here. Gerosteta is to be named Minister of Foreign Affairs and Huerta will retire from the Presidency in which case the Foreign Minister succeeds him is the report and is apparently well verified.

BANK EMPLOYEES STEAL $6,500

(Canadian Press.)
PENSACOLA, Fla., Dec. 27.—Two former employees of the Royal Bank of Canada at Havana, accused of absconding with about $6,500 of the bank's funds, are believed by the authorities to be aboard the American schooner, Doris, due here this week. Government agents will board the Doris when she arrives and arrest the absconders.

WATER FAMINE IN MONTREAL

(Canadian Press.)
MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The water situation remains unchanged though it is stated the city service will probably be resumed by Tuesday if not sooner. Already the necessary excavation work has been done to get to the broken main and only one more section of steel piping remains to be received before the whole can be bolted together and pumping again resumed. The absence of water seriously interfered with the church services today. The congregation of St. James Methodist Church found it impossible to keep the church warm and worshiped in Princess Theatre. In most churches it was impossible to get power to work the organs and pianos were substituted. In the First Baptist Church baptism had to be postponed it being impossible to fill the tank for total immersion. Hospitals have been fairly well served and the crisis there is past. The Western Hospital on Friday drew its first fire as a precaution but heating has since been resumed. The Fire Department of City of Westmount has been supplying the institution with means of a hose laid across the boundary of the two cities. The Montreal Maternity Hospital is a sufferer. At first a bucket brigade managed to get a fair supply but as the pressure fell it had to rely on water carts. The hotel Diapas has a spring and well in the grounds and a sprayer which is used by the same means manages to get along running its own boilers for the production of fire and light. Not since the break in the city main received a velocity of ninety miles an hour. The Children's Memorial Hospital has a direct line from one of the reservoirs and a tank on the premises. The General and Alexandria have some supply although pressure is poor. Since morning water carts have delivered to uptown citizens one million gallons of water. The advent of carts being heralded by a bell. A statement of City Controller Godfrey was that there will be water by Tuesday if not before. He pointed out the necessity of having an alternative supply in cases such as this.

BRIDGES' FIRST POEM AS POET LAUREATE

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The first poem written by Robert Bridges since he was made poet laureate was sent to King George today. It is printed in the Times this morning at the desire of the King. The Times points out that Dr. Bridges has assumed the functions of "Versificator regis," an office at least as old as the Plantagenets and several centuries older than that of poet laureate. Like the original versificator, the poet laureate has awaited himself the privilege of addressing the monarch not on a state occasion but for a Christian festival. The poem is cast in the form adopted by the first recorded predecessor of the Laureate in 1340, namely, Germanic rhythm, based upon alliteration and a central pause, the most familiar illustration of which is in "The Vision of Piers Plowman." Dr. Bridges has the inspiration and office of the poet laureate. The poem is as follows:

CHRISTMAS EVE
("Pax Hominibus Bonae Voluntatis")
A frost, Christmas eve, when the stars were shining,
Fared I forth alone where westward falls the bill,
And from many a village in the watered valley
Distant music reached me, peals of bells arising;
The constellated sounds ran sprinkling on the earth's floor
As the dark vault above with stars was spangled o'er.
Then sped my thought to keep that first Christmas of all,
When shepherds watching by their folds ere the dawn
Heard music in the fields and marveling, could not tell
Whether it were angels or the bright stars singing.
Now blessed to the towers that crown England so fair
That stand up strong in prayer unto God for our souls;
Blessed to their founders, said I, and our country folk
Who are ringing for Christ in the bell-fries tonight
With arms lifted to clutch the rattling ropes that race
Into the dark above and the mad romping dim.
But to me, heard after, it was heavenly music,
Angels' song, comforting as the comfort of Christ
When he spake to his sorrowful flock. The old words came to me, by the riches of time
Mellowed and transfigured, as I stood on the hill
Hark'ning in the aspect of the eternal silence.

TOLL OF LIFE IN SWEEPING STORM

(Special to The Guardian.)
ST. JOHN, Dec. 28.—The Virginian of the Allan Line landed here today 2200 packages of mails from Britain. The work of unloading the mails commenced at 11.23 and was on the cars at 12.58, or one hour and 35 minutes. Officials of postal service as well as the steamer men say this constitutes a record which has never been approached in any other part of Canada. NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Two men drowned in the East River and ten men—the crews of two barges wrecked on the New Jersey coast—given up as lost, is the toll in human lives of the storm which swept over this city and vicinity early yesterday morning. At Seabright, N. J., a fashionable summer resort twenty miles south of here, most of the houses have either been wrecked or surrounded by water. Several hotels and many fine residences were among those undermined and badly damaged. Seventy families are homeless. The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000, most of it borne by Seabright and other points along the northern section of the New Jersey coast. Most of the property losses are due to bulkheads giving way, under the onslaught of waves lashed into a fury by a gale which at one time reached a velocity of ninety miles an hour. Two three-masted barges whose crews have been given up as lost, were in tow of the sea-going tug Edward F., while the storm was at its worst; the barges broke away and then drifted inshore midway between life-saving stations 15 and 16, six miles south of Seaside Park, N. J. At 9.30 yesterday morning only one of the barges was visible, and on it the form of a man. It disappeared later. Heroic efforts on the part of life-saving crews have so far failed to reveal a single survivor of the wreck. This tug was reported safe in this port late last night. The two men drowned here were longshoremen, whose boat was caught in the storm and swamped. All doubt as to the fate of the crews of the wrecked barges was removed last night when the revenue cutters Seneca and Onondago, which rushed to the scene early in the day, reported that no trace of the men had been found. Life savers on shore had not been able to reach the wrecks, and they declared it was out of the question that any of those on board could have lived in such a sea as prevailed all day. Much damage has been done the pound fishing industry along the New Jersey coast for some distance south of Sandy Hook. The estimated loss to the various plants is $100,000. They supply a considerable proportion of the fish consumed in New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, and surrounding territory.

NO MORE FUNDS IN TREASURY OF THE STRIKERS.

PHILADELPHIA, December 26.—The Garment Workers who have been on strike in this city since July, 15, were notified today at a mass-meeting that the treasury of their union was empty, and no further strike benefits could be paid. It was decided to take a vote to-morrow to determine whether or not to capitulate and return to work on Monday. More than $300,000 has been expended by the strikers, it was stated, since the beginning of the strike. The only money remaining in the treasury last week was applied to furnish $7,500 bail for five men held in connection with the shooting of a non-union worker. No drafts were paid this week. In spite of the aid by the federal and state departments of labor council, the Manufacturers' association has refused to treat with the strikers as an organization, declaring the workers will have to deal with their former employers individually.

TELEGRAPHERS GO ON STRIKE

(Canadian Press.)
SPRINGFIELD, Dec. 27.—The Strike Committee in the Order of Railway Telegraphers to-night issued orders for the telegraphers on St. Louis and San Francisco Railway to strike Monday if the conference with the receivers of the road on Monday is fruitless. The telegraphers, it is announced, will make no concessions and a strike is regarded as inevitable. The orders to telegraphers is as follows: "When your board and strike is called turn your board and set your semaphore at danger whether you have train orders on hand or not, so if trains proceed they do it at their own risk. Decline to handle Western Union business after the strike is called." PUBLISHER DEAD.
BLACKVILLE, Dec. 27.—Dr. Henry J. Morgan, publisher of the "Men of the Times," died today, aged 71.

MUST RETURN NOBILITY PATENT

SALEM, Mass., December 26.—Under a supreme court decree issued today, Mrs. Mary E. McDonald, of Rockport, must deliver to Charles J. Wendell, of Skowhegan, Maine, a parchment patent of nobility bestowed in 1890 by King Carolus of Sweden, upon Adolph Wendell. Mrs. McDonald purchased the patent for $10 several years ago, and Charles J. Wendell sought the aid of the courts to recover it on the contention that under Swedish law this visible nobility should remain in custody of the eldest male descendant, which he claims to be. Wendell is ordered to reimburse Mrs. McDonald for the price she paid for the parchment.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH MURDERER

(Canadian Press.)
CHESTER TOWN, Md., Dec. 27.—A mob of men last night battled with Sheriff William Brown and his deputies at Kent County Jail in order to lynch Norman Mabel, colored, the self-confessed murderer of John L. Cotnam. The mob was dispersed early to-day after making an ineffectual attempt to rush the jail. The determined stand of the officers who thrice turned back the attack of the infuriated men finally broke the spirit of the would-be lynchers.

HARRY K. THAW PRACTICALLY FREE, SENDS GREETINGS

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—Harry K. Thaw, who is under guard in the Throne Room at the Eagle Hotel Concord, N. H., is apparently little concerned over the efforts of William T. Jerome to have him returned to New York State. Harry, when he crossed the line into Canada almost six months ago, said that he would fight in New York State to the bitter end, and that he could not possibly be landed back inside the walls of Matteawan within two years. It now looks as if he might escape entirely. While Thaw is under guard, he is practically free to go and come as he chooses, and as he is paying the expenses of the two guards who watch over him, it is easy to understand how his confinement is not a close one. To celebrate his first Christmas at large in eight years, Harry is remembering his friends with neat Christmas cards, one of which was received this morning by the Star representative who was with him on the memorable morning when he was hustled so unceremoniously across the international line at Norton Mills.

WATER FAMINE IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The crisis due to the water pipe break is acute. There was not a drop of water in three large hospitals last night and only a little trickle of others. In the matter grows serious for patients in Notre Dame snow was being melted. There are extra police on duty down town for a quick alarm to prevent any fires making headway. A large increase in the sale of ale, beer, and light wines, is reported.
