The Last Word On The Lost Golf Ball

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(By Mail)—Yesterday, in the day of crises, the Royal and Ancient Golf Club met. It met to decide what shall be done about the lost golf ball.

Like the League of Nations, the Peace Committee of Five, and many a Cabinet, the club decided to do nothing more about it than is done at present.

So, the rule which permits a player who fears his ball lost to play a provisional ball remains in force. (He loses stroke and distance if he has to play on with the second ball.)

The Royal and Ancient Club, alone of all the Cabinets and councils grappling with crises, holds indisputable power over its world.

It is a solemn deliberative assembly—sure of its authority.

It issued a communique last night which said: "The club proposed that the club should restore the old rule, which said that if a ball be lost in casual water or out of bounds the player shall lose the hole."

The motion was unanimously opposed by the Rules of Golf Committee and a number of overseas members who were present declared that the new rule was working satisfactorily in their country. Sir Ernie's motion was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. JAMES T. McDONALD

The death occurred at Santa Cruz, California, May 21, 1935, of James T. MacDonald, formerly of Montague, P. E. I. Mr. McDonald was 79 years of age and had lived in Santa Cruz for sixteen years. He was a companion of the late James J. Corbett and Rex Beach, noted author. He spent seven years in the Klondyke during the gold rush and was before retiring from active business, a concrete contractor. For many years he was connected with the United States government in construction work. Before going to Santa Cruz he resided in San Francisco. He was married in that city. In his youth he was a boxer of note and knew Jim Corbett intimately. While in the Klondyke he became acquainted with Rex Beach and was the hero of his book "King of the Klondyke."

Death occurred quite suddenly while he was listening to the radio at his home. Mr. McDonald was held in the highest esteem by his neighbors, in his church and community. He was devoted to his wife, Mrs. Virginia McDonald. He also leaves three sisters who reside in Boston, Mass., Mrs. Margaret Lemon, Mrs. Florence Campbell and Mrs. Effie McLeod and a brother, John McDonald, who lives in Montague, P.E.I.

TO JAMES T. McDONALD, A PIONEER, A GENTLEMAN, A FRIEND

When the few real men are counted An the things they did are queried When the last frontier is conquered And the last seed has been sown, You'll be rated mighty high, Jim, By those angels up above, 'Cause you planted seeds a-plenty Of sincerity and love.

Oh the trails you took were hard, Jim, But the life you led was clean, There was nothing in your makeup That folks could call small or mean.

And there's many that shall miss you As they plod along life's road; Miss that smile, that honest wisdom And your help to bear their load.

So I'll hope to meet you there, Jim, When they lay me 'neath the sod, When the men who really counted Kneel before the throne of God! R. G. Stevenson, Santa Cruz, May, 1935.

Store Manager Fights off Toy Gun Bandit

(Boston Globe) A big bold handit learned today that toy guns are for children and not the serious business of holdups when he attempted the robbery of a chain store at 1153 Commonwealth Ave., Allston, Mass.

The holdup man entered the store and finding himself alone with the manager, John Noonan, 7 B-7th well road, Brighton, ordered the latter to "sit down" and get into the back room. Noonan looked down into the muzzle of a black automatic and started to obey.

Then he took another look and discovered the gun was of the toy variety. He took a swing at the hold-up man, knocked the toy pistol out of his hand and proceeded to hand out a neat boxing lesson.

The hold-up man was desperate and broke the hold of the store manager, and fled for the street. He couldn't fight, but he certainly had it on Noonan in the matter of a 220-yard dash. He disappeared in a nearby alley, and Noonan rushed back to the store to call police.

A short time later police of the Brighton division arrested an Arlington man as a suspicious person in connection with the attempted hold-up. They picked him up in the vicinity of Noonan's store.

It was Mr. Noonan's store experience in being held up. Mr. Noonan was formerly from Prince Edward Island.

Tulips Best Suited To Color Planting

INFORMAL COLOR GROUPINGS ARE THE MOST SATISFACTORY. No flower is more suited to color-scheme planting than the tulip. You can count with assurance on the height of each flower, as well as on its time of blooming and location. One bulb will usually produce one flower, although there are some varieties which occasionally branch and bear more than one blossom.

While there is a tendency toward a return to formal beds of tulips, especially among those who wish a modern note in their gardens, most garden owners will probably prefer informal groups planted in contrasting colors.

The best way to plant tulips is to set them in rows. Instead of being enhanced by this arrangement their beauty suffers. Beds in the modern manner are planted in masses of a single color and are usually in angular shapes.

Where contrasting colors are planted in adjoining groups it is relatively easy to obtain vivid and harmonious effects. The Darwin and breeding tulips furnish excellent varieties, orange, pink, rose and red varieties. The cottage tulips provide clear yellows, which are given added charm by their pointed petals.

A white and black combination is possible by using one of the dark purple Darwins and a white variety. A violet-purple is a striking picture in combination with a pink. The pale pink variety, Clara Butt, is set off very well with a pale lavender.

Working out such combinations is half the fun of tulip gardening.

Keep Home Fires On to Cool House

Cool homes in hot summers may result from a process that makes ice out of live steam in a fraction of a second. In its present stage of experimental development the process is still too costly for practical use, but engineers are working hard to perfect it mechanically and also to make it economically feasible.

The vacuum refrigeration process was described before the recent meeting of the American Chemical Society by D. H. Jackson of the Croll-Reynolds Company of New York, one of several firms now carrying on research in this field.

In producing the high vacuum necessary to obtain the low temperatures steam is forced through small jets at velocities as high as 4,000 feet a second—nearly twice the speed of an army rifle bullet. Although the jets are only a few inches long, the temperatures drop so rapidly that ice crystals actually form in them and icicles hang from their ends.

At first, high-pressure boilers were necessary for the production of the steam, but lately progress has been made toward the use of low-pressure boilers of the domestic heating-plant type. If their use can be made fully practicable, it may well be that fires will be kept up under home boilers summer as well as winter, the steam being used for the formation of ice, and the latter in its turn cooling water to circulate through radiators of modified cooling with the use of heating equipment and doing away with the necessity for installing costly and bulky air ducts.

Experiments also are being made with the vacuum cooling of milk, both in the pre-pasteurizing and post-pasteurizing stages. One of the advantages already discernible is a reduction of the amount of water in the milk, thus raising the proportions of butter-fat and dissolved food substances.

Maggot Control to Be Rigidly Enforced

KENTVILLE, N.S., Oct. 16.—(C. P.)—The Nova Scotia apple maggot control board, established in 1933, has the right to destroy orchards of all growers refusing to comply with regulations of the board, according to the decision today of Mr. Justice John Doull in the Nova Scotia supreme court.

Application of Frank A. Balsor of Spa Springs, N.S., who did not spray his trees in accordance with instructions from the board, to have continued the interim injunction granted in Halifax last August restraining the board from cutting down trees in his orchard, was thrown out.

It was agreed the apple maggot control act was not ultra vires of provincial authority. It was passed in 1933 as a result of action of the British Government in threatening to place an embargo on Nova Scotia apples.

COCOS ISLAND TREASURE TALES LURE BRITISH COLUMBIAN GROUP

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16.—Lured by fantastic tales of hoarded pirate gold, a group of venturesome young British Columbians have ready the auxiliary ketch Windward for an expedition to Cocos Island.

Erskine Gill, who will take the 64-foot vessel, built five years ago for the rum trade, to sea this week on a preliminary cruise to test her gear. He will pick up two members of his five-man crew on Vancouver Island and will return here for new sails and supplies.

Cocos Island and the reported buried treasure are not the only objectives of the expedition. One of the participants is a chart of remote Revilla Gilego Island, off the coast of Colima, Mexico, and on route south they intend to seek another treasure believed buried there.

VAST OUTPUT OF AUSTRALIAN MINE

In circumstances which have since become almost a romance, the great Broken Hill Proprietary Co. Ltd., of Australia, was established 50 years ago. It was originally formed to develop silver mines at Broken Hill, in New South Wales near the border of South Australia. Its wealth quickly became known to the world, and it was one of the largest of silver mines.

Since its inception the company has mined 11,959,519 tons of ore yielding silver, gold, zinc and lead. In 1913 operations as iron and steel manufacturers were begun at Newcastle, New South Wales, which expanded into an enormous business, and created many allied industries, now grouped around it and close to the coal mines of Newcastle.

It reclaimed swamp land for its works and now has 1,235 acres. Its employees and those of the subsidiary companies number more than 10,000, the wages bill being $260,000 a week. Since the beginning, the B. H. P. Co. has paid nearly $100,000,000 in wages.

Canoe Cove Cullings Will Maintain Peace of World

The bright autumn weather is very favorable for out door work, and the farmers have taken full advantage of it for potato digging, fall plowing, and other agricultural occupations.

A well attended meeting in the interests of the Fishermen's Union was held in the local hall on Thursday evening last. Mr. C. P. McCarthy, Secretary of the Fishermen's Union, attended, and spoke at length on the importance and value of organization, and of the urgent need of a united effort to give an impetus to the fishing industry in the various localities of the Province. Delegates from this area will attend the Convention in our Provincial capital on October 22.

The local lodge of the L.O.B.A. had a largely attended and very enjoyable meeting in the hall last Thursday evening. A welcome was extended to Mrs. J. Ward lately come from Kingston Lodge.

Threshing is the order of the day among the farmers and the grain is a very good yield. Some are hauling turnips and potatoes to the city market these days and are receiving very fair prices.

Election day was comparatively quiet in this vicinity, but there was the usual activity in bringing voters to the poll.

Mr. R. W. Raymond, of Watsonville, California, called on friends in the Cove district this week.

Dr. J. W. S. Lowry attended the Presbytery meeting in the City on Tuesday.

The roads have dried up nicely since the recent rains and are now in very good condition for motoring and driving, as well as for those who enjoy pedestrian excursions.

Mr. Dan MacLean lost a very valuable young horse on Tuesday morning when the animal died from acute indigestion.

PRETTY CHINESE PIRATE QUEEN IS AWAITING TRIAL IN CANTON

CANTON, China, Oct. 16.—A comely young woman who boasts of her exploits as a leader of pirate gangs is awaiting trial in a military prison here, on charges which carry the penalty of death.

She is Miss Tan Ching-Chao, 31-year-old "Queen of Blue Bay Pirates," who, according to military authorities, has admitted complicity in several recent piracies along the South China coast.

Most brazen of the crimes in which Miss Tan declares she had a part was the attack on the steamship Taiyi in which a ship officer was killed and thousands of dollars worth of loot obtained by a pirate band.

Miss Tan said she boarded the boat as a passenger, carrying a bundle which she told questioners was a dying baby. Actually, however, the bundle contained a small arsenal of eight pistols, which were passed out to accomplices when the ship put to sea. The attack followed, and the pirates successfully made their escape in small boats.

Blue Bay, which Miss Tan claims as her home, is a notorious pirate base a few hundred miles east of here.

No More "Alimony"

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Important changes in the law governing alimony in divorce cases are under consideration.

They have been recommended by judges and leading legal experts in a series of legal circles that the law will be so amended that alimony paid to a woman who has divorced her husband shall automatically cease when she marries again.

It has been found that women are often able to live in comparative luxury on alimony while the husband suffers hardship to pay it.

Regular Ocean Flights Coming

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 16.—(C.P.)—Predicting regular ocean flights would not long be delayed, C. A. Clendinning, chairman of the Irish trans-Atlantic air corporation today looked over possible sites for an airplane base in Cape Breton.

Mayor S. E. Muggah and C. J. A. McDonald, president of the board of trade, met the visitor on his arrival here from Montreal and drove him to the Grand Lake road airport, later accompanying him to the historic town of Louisburg.

Today he will visit North Sydney and inspect the old air station at Kelley's Beach.

Before going to Ottawa to consult Canadian aviation authorities, Mr. Clendinning will spend some time in Saint John, proposed intermediate base for planes between Cape Breton.

Medical Doctors In Convention

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—(A.P.)—Advances in medicine and surgery, estimated by some of the leading members of the profession to have added about 15 per cent to the average man's life expectancy, were outlined today to the members of the interstate post-graduate medical association of North America.

In a huge auditorium converted into an operating theatre, American and Canadian specialists lectured hundreds of doctors assembled for the annual post-graduate study.

Elimination of childhood fears and worries, especially over such things as sex problems, was suggested by Dr. Clarence B. Farrar, professor of psychiatry at the University of Toronto, as an early precaution against the development "of morbid mental states."

Dr. Farrar said every case of a nervous disease should be treated individually, and that prevention called for the elimination of worries in childhood where most of the cases had their origin.

Dr. James H. Means, Jackson professor of clinical medicine at Harvard University, conducting a clinic on the diseases of the thyroid gland, said the so-called goiters of the United States could be traced geologically to the action of glacial lakes draining the ice out of the soil in certain sections.

The Great Lakes area and the northwest, he said, contained no iodine in the water or the vegetable foods produced there.

Methods used in the first against diphtheria, and reculs were described by Dr. John C. Fitzerald of the University of Toronto.

Sham Attack On Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 16.—A sham sea and air attack on Gibraltar, capital of the British empire, route, was in progress tonight somewhere in the darkness of the Mediterranean.

Five British ships of the line accompanied by 10 destroyers and escorting craft, with battle planes roaring overhead, moved out of this newly-fortified harbor at dusk.

The night manoeuvres simulated an attack on Gibraltar by a powerful foe. Part of the fleet represented the attackers and part the defenders, with Gibraltar itself manned by searchlights and anti-aircraft batteries.

Servants Arrive Go on to Ottawa

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—The servants of Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's Governor-General designate, who arrives in Quebec October 24, came to Canada Saturday night aboard the Duchess of Bedford. They and their 70 pieces of baggage reached Montreal in charge of H. Fryer, who is steward for the new Governor-General Mr. Fryer, a rather distinguished looking man, served with Lord Minto in India, when the latter was viceroy, and was with him until the time of his death. Lord Minto, being a friend of the Tweedsmuirs, recommended Mr. Fryer, and so he was retained last May, and commissioned to assemble a staff. This he has done, 13 maids, six valets and male servants, and himself in charge.

Mr. Fryer did not say so, but it was learned from other sources that he had to keep a watchful eye on the young maids. They, thrilled by the city lights as they came up the river, wanted to go ashore and see the sights, but Stewart Fryer had other ideas; and when the young ladies came ashore, they were put back aboard the ship again into the third class quarters, where they spent the night. Yesterday, they proceeded to Ottawa.

Earl Tweedey, travelling baggage man for the Canadian Pacific, got the 70 odd pieces of baggage put through without a hitch, and they were despatched to Ottawa.

The girls are here on optional contracts, and either party can terminate the agreement if dissatisfaction arises.

Carol's Ex-Queen To Have 3,500 Pounds Yearly

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—The former wife of King Carol of Rumania, who came into $3,500 a year. But it will come from her native Greece—not Rumania.

The Greek Finance Minister, after interviewing ex-King George of Greece in London, has informed the princess that she will henceforth receive a pension.

The Greek Government has set aside a sum of money which will bring Princess Helen an annual income of £3,500, which, at her death, she can bequeath to her son, Michael.

Princess Helen has so far been living on a small allowance from King Carol, to which strict conditions are attached.

One of them is that she must not give interviews regarding Mrs. Lucescu, Carol's friend, or write uncensored letters to her small son. She has depended almost entirely on the generosity of her brother, the ex-King of Greece.
