ANNIVERSARY MEETING

The final and major work of the evening was Serge Rachmaninoff's brilliant Concerto No. 2 in C Minor. The full-bodied and rich melody which was woven into the theme of the work proved to be both charming and thoroughly delightful. Mr. Rogers' facile legato was particularly noticeable in this selection. At no time during the evening did the organ tend to overpower the theme which was being carried by the piano. Mr. Musford is to be complimented on the admirable restraint which characterized his skilful use of the organ. The thrilling finale of the Concerto concluded the recital in a restrained but nonetheless emotionally satisfying manner.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Reuben J. Vescey, who departed this life August 29, 1921.

Oh how we would love to hear your voice And see your smile once more, Or hear that familiar footstep As we did in days of yore.

It is so lonely here without you And so the weary way For life can never be the same Since you were called away.

They tell us time is a healer And helps us to forget, But time so far has only proved How much we miss you yet. Ever remembered by the family.

Delightful Recital At Trinity Church

Last evening a delightful recital was given at Trinity United Church, Charlottetown, by William Keith Rogers, pianist and Royston F. Musford, organist.

The entire concert was characterized by a fluency of expression and a pleasing balance of instruments. The remarkable coordination between the two artists reflected a sympathetic understanding of the functions of both the piano and organ.

The opening selection was the well known chorale, "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" from the church cantata, "Hertz and Mund" by Johann Sebastian Bach. This selection evidenced a lucid flow of expression on the part of both musicians. From among the several arrangements which have been made of this chorale, Mr. Rogers chose one by the famous pianist, Harold Bauer.

The second selection of the evening was the "Piano Sonata in C Major" by Mozart arranged by Grieg. This offering seemed to present a secular continuity of expression from the previous religious offering. During the rendition of this number, Mr. Rogers demonstrated a technical excellence accompanied by an admirable interpretation of this great composer's musical genius.

"La Cathedrale Engloutie" by the renowned French composer, Claude Debussy, evokes an ancient city buried far below the surface of the sea. Throughout the work of this composition, his skillful depiction of the sub-aqueous tonal effects, with little imagination the listener can picture the cathedral slowly rising from the mists, can hear the swell of the mighty organ bells tolling from the central tower and finally the lapping of the waves which casts the vision once again into the mists from whence it came. Both Mr. Rogers and Mr. Musford working in close rapport, presented this vivid musical description played with reflective and sympathetic feeling. The arrangement of this number was made by William Keith Rogers next offered two solo selections of which the first was a brilliant tonal composition, "Jeux D'Eau" by the late French composer Maurice Ravel. The playing of this work by Mr. Rogers presented it in an exquisite and masterful manner.

For his second solo number, William Rogers played the familiar "Polonaise in A flat," by Chopin. This offering was marked by striking melodic and tonal effects, which though startling to the ear at times, produced an overall impression of vivid force and beauty.

Following a brief intermission both soloists returned to present the "Coronation Scene from Boris Godounov" by the brilliant Russian composer Moussorgsky. This moving musical setting, regal in nature, displayed skilful coordination between both musicians. The music was characterized by a mounting crescendo and by sustained passages of majestic feeling. The orchestral score was arranged for organ by Royston Musford.

The final and major work of the evening was Serge Rachmaninoff's brilliant Concerto No. 2 in C Minor. The full-bodied and rich melody which was woven into the theme of the work proved to be both charming and thoroughly delightful. Mr. Rogers' facile legato was particularly noticeable in this selection.

At no time during the evening did the organ tend to overpower the theme which was being carried by the piano. Mr. Musford is to be complimented on the admirable restraint which characterized his skilful use of the organ. The thrilling finale of the Concerto concluded the recital in a restrained but nonetheless emotionally satisfying manner.

New Micro-wave Station Nearing Completion Here First Of Kind In World

A revolutionary method in modern long distance telephone communication between Charlottetown and New Glasgow, N.S. is on the verge of completion through the progressive work of the Island Telephone Company in co-operation with the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The new set-up, which is known as a Micro-Wave Link System, consists of a radio transmitting and receiving system, will be the first of its type in the world to be used for communication between two cities. It is a channel of telephone communication between here and New Glasgow, as compared with the two which are provided by present submarine cable system. The special unit for carrying radio network programs, and enough blank units to increase the number of communication channels to 23 if required.

The installation here, which is being set up at Tea Hill, consists of specially constructed, one story building which houses the receiving and transmitting equipment, including an auxiliary gas-driven generator for stand-by power supply in the event of regular power failure. Outside the building, receiving and transmitting antennae are mounted on 10 foot telephone poles in an "inverted V" shape. The building, which has been treated with a special creosote solution. The "dishes" which are circular, and made of spun aluminum, weighing over 600 pounds, are mounted on a steel frame, which is lower for receiving, in the headlight of a car, reflecting in the antenna, and operating on a direct line of sight with the reflectors of the corresponding station.

The building which houses the receiving and transmitting micro-wave equipment, is of cement with a stucco finish, having special flex-board panelling on the inside walls. The building is composed of two layers of concrete separated with a heavy layer of cork insulation, and all windows are bricked. The dimensions of the building are 24 1/2 feet by 14 1/2 feet of one-storey construction.

Telephone communications to and from the transmitting and receiving station at Tea Hill and Kent streets, from where it is transferred to underground cable to the Telephone Company located on the corner of Fitzroy and Queen streets.

Mr. J.E. Troutman, representing the Federal Tele Communications Laboratories, New York, which designed and built this new system of communication is here in charge of the installation of the equipment, while Mr. A.H. MacKinnon of the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph Co., Halifax, is superintendent of construction. The foreman of construction is Mr. David Birt, City under the supervision of Messrs E. G. Cameron, plant superintendent of the Island Telephone Co., and Sam Waugh, plant supervisor of the same local company.

Mr. Troutman, who is a radio engineer, and has been instrumental in the research work of this new type of equipment, told Guardian representatives Saturday, that the installation at Tea Hill should be completed within the next two weeks, but will give a preliminary test period of about two months before being turned over for commercial service. He said that the set-up at New Glasgow, which is the other half of this Micro-Wave Link System, operating over a distance of some 46 miles, is identical to that of the installation here, and is in about the same stage of completion. The station at New Glasgow is located on Fraser's Mountain about four miles from the City.

Mr. Troutman commended the Island and Maritime Telephone Companies for their far-sightedness in installing this new system of long-distance telephone communications, which he said "will be the first commercial conversation by radio-wave link in the world." On further questioning Mr. Troutman on other installations of this kind, he said that there were three others in operation one in Peru, one in the United States and one in Maine and Massachusetts. While away he had the honour to represent His Honour Lt. Governor J. A. Bernard at the dedication of the new building of the French Naturalization Club in Chelsea, Mass., the members of which are all former "Islanders."

Mr. John Perry and Mr. Paul Gallant, both formerly of Tignish, are president and secretary of the French Club in Chelsea, Mass. Mayor Governor Bernard is an honorary member.

Among the distinguished guests who addressed the gathering at the dinner were, Maurice J. Robit, former Governor of Massachusetts; U.S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge; Mayor Thomas A. Keating and Chelsea Aldermen; the Very Rev. Peter Forrester, S.M. and Mr. John B. Gaudet.

The French Club is very active in everything pertaining to the advancement of Islanders and the beautiful new clubhouse is a credit to their energy and foresight. Each summer many of its members visit Prince Edward Island.

POTATO BLIGHT

Formula is 8-3-80 or 8-2-80. Interesting and instructive experiments in the control of late blight are conducted by the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at Charlottetown and farmers and others interested in this disease are invited to inspect the plots. Potato aphid populations have been building up rapidly during the past week and have now about reached the peak. In some fields especially where DDT has not been used regularly throughout the season the infestations are heavy. Controlling aphids should go a long way in reducing the amount of virus diseases such as leafroll

S' side To Supply Milk To Airport At Goose Bay

Two serial milk runs are now operating out of Summerside. For three years now planes from Harmon Field, a U. S. base in Newfoundland, have been putting a mile area of Goose Bay into three times a week for fresh milk, eggs and other supplies. Now arrangements have been completed for a similar service for the U. S. base at Goose Bay, Labrador. Only one trip a week will be made from Goose Bay but they will take 350 gallons of milk each trip.

Arrangements for this new service were made on Saturday between army officers from the base and Mr. Elmer Offer, proprietor of the Ideal Dairy. The business which is growing up with these American bases has come to mean much more to Summerside than the amount of milk and eggs which are sold, as important as that is. Purchases are made by the men from Summerside as the crew of the planes or as leaves of every conceivable kind of merchandise. The amount of business left in Summerside every week could be computed in the thousands of dollars. Practically all the credit for this must go to Mr. Offer of the Ideal Dairy who look on what appeared to be an impossible task of supplying about 600 gallons of milk every week to larger centres had turned it down. He now ships nearly 100 gallons that they are satisfied with the service they are getting is attested by the expansion of this arrangement to Goose Bay.

On Saturday three American Air Force planes were drawn up on the runways at Summerside. Two ships had come from Harmon Field and one from Goose Bay. On next weekend the Harmon Field baseball team will pay another visit to Summerside and will play on Saturday afternoon and on Labor Day—S.

ELECTION TALK

predicted that if the crisis reached near-hopeless climax, elder statesman Edouard Herriot, a radical Socialist, would be asked to form a "cabinet of liquidation." Herriot, president of the National Assembly, would, in effect, prepare the way for the Assembly's dissolution and the holding of new general elections, these sources predicted.

That is just what Gen. Charles DeGaulle and his Rassemblement du Peuple Français have been urging. The government which preceded Marie's was a coalition unit formed by Schuman last November. It fell July 19 when the Assembly amended a government-sponsored military budget and five Socialist ministers in Schuman's 16-man cabinet resigned.

"Bodies were scattered over a mile area," Clowesay said. "We didn't find all the bodies but I don't see how anyone could have lived through it."

"When we first heard of the crash, we started out to find the wreckage," Clowesay said. "We waded in water waist deep along the Burlington Railway right-of-way and there found a piece of the wing."

"A little beyond, we found a part of the tail. As we started climbing the bluffs, we followed a flooded creek. There we found the decapitated body of a man who apparently had been washed down the hill after the plane crashed."

"We climbed higher and there found three more bodies, all of them badly mutilated. A farmer, William Peher, said he and his son, Charles, were in their barn at 4:30 when they saw the plane flying east, apparently to get out of the storm."

"Peher said he thought the ship was going to hit the barn, it was flying so low. "It went over a rise and then Peher said and his son heard it crash into Sutters Ridge."

"We found the body of one woman whose clothes had been torn off and she was still clinging to a red purse." Clowesay said it took them nearly two hours to reach the crash scene after they arrived at Fountain City.

The crash is near the scenic river route of the Burlington Railway. On one side is the river which is bordered with swamp Jewell.

Stohr had examined them. It was doubtful, Clowesay said, that all the bodies would be found until daylight when a thorough search of the heavily-wooded area would be possible.

Mrs. Charles Guenther, a farm woman, said she and her husband witnessed the crash from their automobile while returning to Fountain City.
