WHY HONEY SHOULD BE GRADED

(Experimental Farms Note)

Honey is one of the few uncooked, pure and natural foods in its class that remains. But because it is too frequently allowed to go to the market in an unclassified or ungraded manner, it is often overlooked by the purchaser.

Since there are so many different kinds of honeys, and so many individual tastes, it is important that, when buying honey, the purchaser should know what he or she is getting.

For example, buckwheat as a table honey, is disliked by many people, while on the other hand, many people prefer it to any other. It is perfectly good honey, but it does not suit the palate in some cases. The only way to make sure that the purchaser is getting what is liked best, is to have the quality or grade marked on the container.

Because in these days so much of the food-stuff consumed is graded and labelled, any commodity, such as honey, that is not graded, is frequently overlooked by the housewife when purchasing her provisions.

When purchasing a can of peaches, one can see the quality marked on the label, or when buying jams one can see the kind clearly marked on the label, leaving no doubt in ones mind concerning the quality of such purchases.

When it comes to buying honey, unless it is graded—and much of it is not—one must make a stab in the dark, at such close range as to literally hoping that it will prove to be good overhadow it.

POTATO MARKETING SUGGESTIONS

Sir.—I have a few suggestions to make in regard to the Potato situation, which I believe if adopted would help towards a solution of the problem now confronting the farmers and shippers of P.E. Island and could if necessary be placed in operation in a reasonably short time.

Potatoes which are sliced or grated, and dried in the sun or by artificial means and called dehydrated potatoes, dry up and shrink to very small compass and weight and could be sent to grocers or stores in gross packages of small pasteboard boxes and both the growers and shippers would profit by the lower freight bills for transportation as the dried or dehydrated vegetables weigh next to nothing compared to the ordinary vegetables. And moreover could be kept in storage for a long time without inuring the product in the least.

Have two different size packages made up, one for a family of four, a small size for the small family and large size for the large family. Also there could be mixed vegetables, potatoes, onions, carrots, etc., prepared in the same way, in two sizes with potatoes supplying the major portion.

They would sell well even in the summer time, especially in the cities and towns, as they would mean a distinct saving for the housewife in time and money as the dinner is all ready to place in the stew or with the meat, and the potatoes are quite as wholesome and nutritious as vegetables fresh from the farm in their natural state.

Also a demand could be created for "Prince Edward Island Select Baking Potatoes," that is for light mountain and Early Rose by sorting out the perfect, uniform sized potatoes and packing them in attractive crates, with or without wrapping them in paper.

They would command a price in the market of ordinary potatoes for the extra fancy baking trade and would range in weight from 10 pounds to one and a half pounds each. They must be smooth, in every way, and free from all defects. In every family want the select baking potato, and will noticker about the price if they get the product they are looking for.

The light mealy baked potato is taking the place of soggy varieties in the select city trade, regardless of price for the doctors and dieticians claim the mineral salts, the best part of the potato, are lost when a potato is boiled and the water thrown away, which by the way would be the chief point in advertising the select baking potato. Also such catch phrases as "Had Your Mineral Salt Today?" and other such attention-getters at the beginning of advertisements would help to boost them.

A high class cook may pass almost any other class of food by working it over, but he cannot make a high class baked potato out of a soggy one, and right here is where some P. E. I. varieties excel all other potatoes grown.

The demand for dry mealy baking potatoes is growing rapidly and since we have the select potatoes let us cater to the select demand which, as I said before, will pay the price for the right article and after the select baking potato is culled out the remainder of the good potatoes could be dehydrated or dried and placed on the market.

And last but not least, for the sake of the farmer, who is making this island what it is, pass a law to limit the acreage planted and leave the Potato Growing Industry to the farmers who grow from 3 to 10 acres, and stop the speculators who jump in and out with from 20 to 100 acres.

These ideas are in the rough but with a little care could be worked out and would be a great benefit to the industry here.

These are my pet ideas which for lack of capital I was unable to place in operation myself.

I am, Sir, etc.

RUIED POTATO GROWER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30.—Out of the 8,500 British harvesters who came to Canada this year for work in Western harvest fields under Government auspices, 3,800 have returned home up to today, according to officials concerned in their handling. Many are in the city at present, waiting to secure jobs in their various trades, while farm placements for those still in the country are being arranged.

BISHOPS DECLARE FOR UNITY

Heads of U. S. Episcopal Church Issue Pastoral Letter at Convention.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Declaring emphatically that "it is not the business of the Christian Church to control governments," the Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in a pastoral letter read at the close of the General Convention here today called upon the Church to put "moral force behind the efforts for peace and a law governed world."

The letter, delivered approximately three years, in addition to vigorously emphasizing the plea for peace between nations, called upon the churches of the world to find a common ground of worship for all.

"If Catholic and Protestant cannot find a way to live together and to worship together, then is our faith in vain. We live in our sin," the message declared.

Turning to the question of peace, the letter said "the most momentous task which faces the world of today is the warfare against war. Again and again the voices of prophets and statesmen have been raised to tell us that if war is not destroyed, Christian civilization will be. That we believe in exaggeration, Christ is too strongly entrenched in human society to be conquered by war, its matter has world-wide implications, and it is not what Christ stands for."

"It is not the business of the Christian Church to control governments. It cannot lay down its hands to those plans and projects which it is the business of governments to formulate and carry out. But it is the business of church to speak in no uncertain way concerning the relations of men and nations to one another."

"It is the business to guide the Christian conscience in its application to all such matters. It cannot, therefore, look on indifferently at war or what makes for war. It must put moral force behind the efforts for peace and a law-governed world. Christ summons us to world unity as he does to church unity."

British Empire Losses in the Great War

The latest and most accurate list of deaths sustained by the British Empire during the Great War is contained in the 1928 annual report of the Imperial War Graves Commission and places the total at 1,019,882, of whom 56,813 were Canadians. The bodies which have been recovered lie in 14,188 cemeteries in almost every part of the world. The total Empire losses, 1,019,882, is higher than estimates previously given. Mr. Austen Chamberlain, as he then was, stated in the House of Commons on May 4, 1921, that the approximate number of deaths was 946,023 and that number and also the numbers for other countries have been carried in Whitaker's Almanac until the present time. The deaths of Allied and Associated Powers are there given as follows: France, 1,395,398; Belgium, 35,172; Italy, 460,000; Portugal, 7,222; Roumania, 335,706; Serbia, 127,535; and the United States 115,660, and for the enemy powers as follows: Germany, 2,050,466; Austria and Hungary, 1,200,000; Bulgaria, 101,224 and Turkey, 300,000. These figures have been revised by different countries from time to time. A statement compiled by the United States War Department and checked up on February 25, 1924 gave the following killed and dead: British Empire, 908,371; France (official), 1,365,000; Belgium, 13,716; Italy, 1,365,000; Portugal, 7,222; Roumania, 335,706; Serbia, 45,000 and the United States 126,000, and for the enemy countries: Germany (official), 1,773,700; Austria and Hungary, 1,200,000; Bulgaria, 101,224 and Turkey, 300,000. This United States estimate from the British Empire carried forward in the World Almanac, 1928, is too low by 111,509, and appears to be too low for Belgium. On the other hand, a total of 126,000 for the United States appears too high. General Peyton March, chief of staff of the U. S. A., army, placed their dead at 50,000, but apparently did not include those who died from wounds later. The losses sustained by Russia have generally been placed at 1,700,000, but they were never known accurately.

Lady Spinks Visits Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—An interesting visitor in the city is Lady Spinks, wife of Sir Chalton Spinks, commander-in-chief of the military forces in Egypt. Following a brief visit with Miss Laitley and Charles S. Laitley, 26 Whitney Ave., she left to join her husband, the Sirdar in Egypt.

Lady Spinks before her marriage was Miss Marguerite Coleman of this city. It was during a boat trip to Canada that General Spinks met his future wife, the trip being made to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spinks, who reside in Victoria, B. C. The romance on shipboard was quickly followed by an engagement.

Their marriage took place while General Spinks was on furlough in 1916, recuperating from a bad shrapnel received when he was buried by the bursting of a shell in Gallipoli.

They have a small daughter, 12 years of age, and twin daughters of eight. General Spinks' last visit to Canada was four years ago on the occasion of the golden wedding of his father and mother in Victoria.

A year ago last June General Spinks was knighted and the former Miss Coleman of Toronto became Lady Spinks. The sirdar has had a remarkable military career.

A Students Conference

EMMONTON, Alta., Oct. 30.—Delegates from all parts of the British Empire will gather at Montclair, Que., in 1929 for the Imperial Conference of Students which will open on September 6th and will be held jointly at the University of Montreal and McGill University. Student delegations from India, South Africa, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Hong Kong, England and Scotland have already completed arrangements to attend the conference and representatives from universities in Ireland, Malta, Ceylon, Bermuda, Trinidad and other British possessions are expected to be present.

The first Imperial Conference of Students was held at Oxford and Cambridge in 1924, being attended by about 100 students. Delegates from the National Federation of Canadian University Students at that time secured the next conference for Canada. It was to have been held this fall, but owing to the inability of some of the more distant removed delegations to make arrangements, it was decided not to hold the conference until 1929.

The conference will last for ten days and, while the delegations will bear the largest part of their own transportation expenses, the N. F. C. U. S. has already raised over a hundred thousand dollars with promises of several hundred more. Addresses will be given by several outstanding men in Canada and the Old Country.

The agenda of the conference will include discussions of the following topics: student magazines and publications; the organization of athletic teams, debating tours, student exchanges and tours within the empire; travel facilities for students; scholarships; student loan schemes, lectureships, openings for post-graduate work; the national unions of students within the empire; the International Confederation of Students, establishment of the Imperial university, other international student organizations and international movements.

The exchange of undergraduates scheme is also expected to prove a subject of lively interest at the conference in Montreal.

Turkey 325,000. This United States estimate from the British Empire carried forward in the World Almanac, 1928, is too low by 111,509, and appears to be too low for Belgium. On the other hand, a total of 126,000 for the United States appears too high. General Peyton March, chief of staff of the U. S. A., army, placed their dead at 50,000, but apparently did not include those who died from wounds later. The losses sustained by Russia have generally been placed at 1,700,000, but they were never known accurately.

DAILY AIR SERVICE TO EUROPE IS SEEN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 30.—"Europe—every hour on the hour." The air throbbing with the rush of wings; planes coming and going on 24-hour schedules between Philadelphia and Paris; negotiating the now-hazardous air lanes more readily than a motorist now threads the great highways. Planes carrying as many passengers as the present-day elevated trains; liners of the heavens, by scientific achievement, soaring the hazards of fog and sleet and storm. Airways so controlled by aerial police that accidents will be unknown; huge, Fort white eyes in the dome of the sky, Churchhill, the new terminus of the passing and re-passing with the rush of mighty wings and powerful engines. All this in five years.

This is a picture of man's supreme conquest of the sky, as seen by Chas. R. Wittmann of Brooklyn, a pioneer in the science of aeronautics, who is the guest of Hutchinson Scott, Jr., multi-millionaire sportsman, at the Racquet Club here.

"Within five years, aeroplanes, carrying from fifty to one hundred persons, in addition to mail and express, will be leaving Philadelphia every hour on the hour for Europe," he declared.

"Within ten years, aircrafts—and by aircraft, I mean heavier than air machines, although the dirigibles will have their place—will be in operation between this country and Europe. The present-day methods of travel—automobile, steamship and steam and electric train—will be obsolete, in so far as the greater distances are concerned."

From a rather obscure and unimportant seaport village, Fort Churchill, the new terminus of the Hudson Bay railway, has expanded in the last five months into a teeming town of nearly four hundred population and by the middle of next summer, it is believed, will have a population of over 1,000 people.

This was the impression brought back to Winnipeg by Captain Baldwin Anderson, who has just returned from an extensive visit to that district. Warehouses are being constructed and houses of every description are being built rapidly at Fort Churchill.
