Life Underwriters Annual Meeting

The Life Underwriters of P.E. Island held their annual meeting yesterday in the office of the Commanding Officer, Mr. C.H. Black, C. L. U. President presided, and a goodly number of the members were present.

Mr. Black gave a resume of the year's work during his term of office, showing how the membership had more than held its own during the period, stressing how several ways during the period, the association was able to assist the individual underwriter, and life underwriters generally regardless of membership, pointing out that it is the duty of all underwriters to be members of the association, and not to content themselves by standing aloof, participating in any and all benefits as a result of the association's activities, and offering in return nothing but criticism. Mr. Black spoke of the Sales Congress held at the Charlottetown, in June of this year, led by Mr. Frank Robinson, President of the Dominion Life Underwriters Association, assisted by Mr. Gordon Nairn, Field Supervisor. It was an example of what could be done by the association, and he was pleased with the attendance and results.

A change being contemplated as to date of annual meeting, due notice of which was given, the old date of the meeting was cancelled until such time as the change receives approval, and a meeting then held to elect a new executive. The officers for the interim are: President, C.H. Black, C. L. U. Vice-President, H.W. Ives, Vice President, Prince County, Fred Murphy, Vice President for King's County, J. Martin Currie, Secretary, Treasurer, Thomas McAvinn, C. L. U. all re-elected.

It is expected that boats and other naval equipment, which along with naval uniforms, will make such an appeal to all boys, will soon be available for use by the local cadets.

In starting a Sea Cadet Corps in Charlottetown and possibly other centres in the near future, Prince Edward Island is standing shoulder to shoulder with other provinces, all of whom report big increases in cadet enrollment, Mr. Gillard said.

It is expected that boats and other naval equipment, which along with naval uniforms, will make such an appeal to all boys, will soon be available for use by the local cadets.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent, who is Royal patron of the Sea Cadets, has already consented to be Honorary Admiral of Sea Cadets.

Next year a naval camp will be conducted for local cadets and in this connection Mr. Gillard told a very interesting story of the new cadet camp recently established in Ontario. This camp is being built on the site of the former Queen Elizabeth Camp. The main buildings are constructed like the bridge of a ship.

Lieut. G. McCarthy spoke of an interesting talk about their uniforms, pointing to the tradition which has attached to these. He explained that the origin of the naval uniform goes back a very long way. He traced the evolution of uniforms from the days when the men who sailed the seven seas wore a variety of ordinary clothes. Then the India Tea Company started to outfit their men. This was at the time the British had no navy but in time of crisis commenced ships. Soon the importance of uniforms to their men was appreciated. They bought durable outfits which could serve their purpose. That is why the sailors are called "bell-bottom pants." It was found these were very serviceable as they could be rolled up when the "tar" was scrubbing the deck. He also explained in detail the reason the jumper and other articles of apparel were chosen.

Your uniform is one of our traditions. It is the uniform that has made the British the commanders of the sea. Be proud of it," Lieut. McCarthy told the boys. He also explained in detail the reason of the commoner expressions peculiar to the men of the sea and explained the derivation of these sayings.

Lieut. McCarthy also spoke briefly about the motto which is attached to the wearing of the naval uniform. He told the cadets they are required, when in uniform, to salute all commissioned officers of any of the proper naval salute.

At the conclusion of the proceedings, the cadets were treated to refreshments.

Important Movement
The Sea Cadets, Mr. Gillard said, are an institution with the Navy League, and considered to be a very important youth movement. Of the tens of thousands of Sea Cadets in the past several years, the Navy League is proud that not one, to the League's knowledge, has had to appear before a police magistrate. At the outbreak of the war, several thousand Sea Cadets enlisted for active service, and many of these have already won glory for themselves and the services they represent, by heroic action while on duty.

Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of Naval Services, Capt. E. L. H. Black, C. L. U. President, and other members of the association were present.

The Sisters' Choir sang the customary psalms and hymns very acceptably.

At the close Bishop O'Sullivan congratulated the participants in the Ceremony on the steps they had taken that morning and also the Sisters of St. Martha on the ad-

Anglican Church

At O'Leary To Be Re-Dedicated

St. Luke's Anglican Church at O'Leary will be re-dedicated on Sunday. The service will mark the 52nd anniversary of the opening of the building originally built in 1860. The church has been completely renovated. Located on the western road the building has been a landmark for more than a half-century. The church was completed during the pastorate of the Rev. J. Forbes in 1890. Only one member of the congregation is thought to have helped in the construction work. He is John Webb of nearby Woodstock.

Sunday the preacher at the morning service will be a son of Mr. Webb, the Rev. Russell R. Webb of Waterford, N. B., and a former member of St. Luke's.

In the evening the special speaker will be Rev. A. Ledrew Gardner of Charlottetown.

Urgent Talks Underway At Moscow

By E. C. Daniel (Associated Press Staff Writer) LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP) Urgent conferences on means to win the war were reported in session at Moscow today among strategists and diplomats of the United Nations. Other information came from sources whose identity could not be disclosed.

Known to be conferring with Russian militarists in the Kremlin were: Admiral William Standley, United States Ambassador to Russia, who flew from the alternate capital at Kulybshayev; Maj.-Gen. Follett Bradley of the United States air forces, who flew from Moscow to the United States with a personal message from President Roosevelt to Premier Stalin; Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British Ambassador to Russia, who flew from Kulybshayev to the Kremlin; and Roger Grouse, head of the fighting French mission in Russia, who flew from the near future.

Prime Minister Churchill has been in Moscow along with Wilham C. Bullitt, special envoy of President Roosevelt.

The presence of these conferees suggests that the near future represents their own and other United Nations were in Moscow to help determine how to relieve the pressure on the Red armies defending the Caucasus and the Volga lifeline of supply.

Axis radio broadcasts of the last several days have suggested that Prime Minister Churchill has been in Moscow along with Wilham C. Bullitt, special envoy of President Roosevelt.

WAR RESTRICTIONS CURTAILS HIS EFFORTS

LAC LA NONNE, Alta., Aug. 5.—(CP) War restrictions have forced Archibald D. Henderson, 63-year-old ecologist, to curtail his annual egg collecting program.

Transportation difficulties necessitate cancellation of the Henderson's annual bird bush country and Mr. Henderson will confine this year's hunting to his own immediate district. He will look especially for the nests and eggs of such bird varieties as the lesser yellowlegs, solitary sandpiper, Bonaparte's gull, Connecticut warbler and buff-breasted duck.

Mr. Henderson has a collection of 7,300 eggs, representing 875 varieties of birds and more than 30 years' work. He ranks among the leading collectors of the continent and his collection is one of the most complete in Canada.

"Among the rare and near-rare eggs in my collection," said Mr. Henderson, "are an egg of the extinct Gaudeloupe petrel taken in 1886; a set of the passenger pigeon also extinct, taken in Minnesota in 1888; and one of the marbled murrelet."

"There are only two other eggs of this bird in existence, one of them being in the British museum." Each season the ecologist loads a couple of pack ponies with blankets, provisions, cameras and other supplies and works the hinterland of northern Alberta. He has obtained most of his specimens in his immediate district but, through exchange with other collectors, he has added a number of other American and Old World species to his collection.

Preparation of the eggs for filing is a process that calls for care. Eggs are blown with one hole in the side and, if properly prepared, are imperishable, barring accident. Mr. Henderson files his complete collection in seven cabinets.

OTTAWA, July 27.—(CP) Increased Canadian farm production is expected this year with the existing labor force, and a further reduction of these available for farm work must be expected.

Mr. Gardner said that the marketing of crops in one area in one season and in another place at a different season.

Back-Bencher Is Principal Gov't Speaker

(By Foster Barclay) (Canadian Press Staff Writer) LONDON, Aug. 6.—(CP) Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, a resolute, mild-mannered Conservative back-bencher, has become Britain's most outspoken critic of the government.

There's seldom a debate in the House of Commons on topics ranging anywhere from finance to war strategy that doesn't bring this 63-year-old broad-shouldered Scot leaping to his feet to criticize or offer advice.

A loyal Conservative, Sir John is no "yes man." He earnestly believes that criticism and suggestions are necessary to spur the government to greater efforts.

Sir John, knighted in 1932 for political and public services, a former chairman of the select committee on national expenditure, a brief former to see there was no undue wastage in war expenditure.

He has been a constant thorn in the side of government departments in exposing complications of red tape and cutting down waste. The committee's reports have been the subject of many wide-open debates.

East Anglian Town Bombed by Nazis

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Friday)—(CP)—German bombers were reported to have dropped their new type phosphorus fire bombs in a short, sharp attack on an East Anglian town early today. The Ministry of Home Security has just warned Britons of the new-type bomb. High explosive bombs also were dropped by the attacking planes, which flew through an intense anti-aircraft barrage.

Raiders also were reported over the southeast coast of Scotland early this morning. High explosive bombs were dropped near one town.

Two German raiders bombed and demolished a section of a hospital in a southeast town at dusk last night, causing several fatalities and trapping a number of patients.

Major increases in farm production had been attained since the war started, Mr. Gardner said. It was probable that available for the farms would have to be reorganized and moved from place to place within provinces to assist the marketing of crops in one area in one season and in another place at a different season.

Engaged in the serious business of military training this group of the 17th Reserve Armoured Regiment, P. E. I. Light Horse, paused long enough to pose for the photographer yesterday afternoon at Victoria Park. The men were in the midst of receiving instructions in rifle cleaning when they were snapped. The six soldiers at the rear had no ill intentions toward the cameraman as they pointed the rifles in his direction. They were unloaded. The Reserve Unit is composed of men from all sections of the province and are completing their first week in camp.

PROPOSED SECTION MOUNT ALLISON UNIVERSITY MEN'S RESIDENCE

The architect's sketch above shows the centre section of the proposed new residence to provide accommodations for men students at Mount Allison University. The above section of the new residence will accommodate 117 men and will be divided into three units with communications from one unit to another through the diningroom only. Each Unit will have a separate office, reception room and common room. The building will be erected of sandstone from the Mount Allison quarries, and will be entirely of fire proof construction. The proposed new residence as designed by C. A. Fowler of Halifax will eventually consist of three buildings and will be located on the extended site of the old residence. The centre block, pictured above, will be about opposite the present Owens' Museum of Fine Arts. A campaign to raise $100,000 for a new men's residence from Allisonians and friends of Mount Allison was organized last spring following the tragic fire of December 16, 1941, which completely destroyed the former men's residence. Among the prominent alumni behind the undertaking are W. J. West, Frederickton; Dr. George Skinner, Saint John; C. A. Fowler, Ira McNabb, Halifax; Dr. Mel Rice, Campbellton; Senator C. W. Robinson, Hon. Dr. C. H. Blankens, Moncton; N. T. Avard, Amherst; Senator F. B. Black, Capt. R. V. Bennett, N. A. Hesler, J. L. Dixon and C. C. Avard, Sackville. The Brunswick Hotel, purchased by Mount Allison last January, and Allison Lodge (Ford Hotel) have both been fully equipped with sprinkler systems and other fire precautionary measures have been completed.
