Store Keepers' Hours

According to the Canadian Press a Wartime Prices and Trade Board order governing the hours during which retail stores may be open for business has been drafted though not yet finally passed.

are manufactured by spraying cooked and pulped vegetables on hot revolving drums, where the water quickly evaporates. In egg drying — an outstanding industry in the dehydrated food field — three general methods are used: the spray, tray and belt processes.

To date the greatest concentration of vegetable dehydration plants has been in California, but they are being extended into Idaho, Colorado, Washington and Oregon as well as into some of the eastern states.

The chief wartime value of dehydration, of course, is the great saving effected in shipping space. In addition, much of the tin normally required for packing is saved.

There is no question, therefore, as to the value and importance of establishing such an industry in Prince Edward Island.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is more like old times to have Bruce Stewart & Co.'s engineering shops working almost to capacity.

The "Y" and the "Sally Ann" of overseas and home forces renew, are once more in the public eye. May their war chests be abundantly replenished.

Tuberculosis In Canada

The Vital Statistics Branch of the Bureau of Statistics has issued the preliminary report on tuberculosis deaths in Canada for 1941. This report indicates that in Canada we have not been able to escape the ill effects of the world war on the problem of tuberculosis.

Even more impressive is the fact that tuberculosis has gone up from 8th to 7th place as a cause of death. For three years it had been 8th. Furthermore, the percentage of total deaths increased from 5.2 to 5.3.

Out of the nine provinces of Canada all except two showed an increase in deaths, British Columbia and Manitoba being the only ones to show a reduction in deaths during the past 15 years.

One gratifying feature is the reduction in Indian deaths for Canada. This was particularly noticeable in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, provinces which had previously the highest death rates for Indian tuberculosis.

Another feature of considerable interest is the fact that for the first time since vital statistics have been recorded in Canada Saskatchewan has not maintained its record of the lowest rate in the Dominion.

It is not satisfactory to note that Prince Edward Island's rate is 74.5, the highest next to Quebec (which is 80.8) in all Canada.

The report, says a bulletin issued by the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, is a warning and a challenge to carry on as thoroughly and as efficiently as possible in order to minimize the threat of tuberculosis in wartime and strengthen our national health to withstand the long struggle that lies ahead.

Dehydration In U. S.

The establishment here in the near future of a dehydration plant leads interest to an article in the current issue of Commercial Intelligence Journal on the rapid expansion of commercial dehydrating in the United States.

During the first world war 8,995,158 pounds of dehydrated vegetables (including 6,437,000 pounds of potatoes) were shipped to the United States Army overseas. Research has been carried on ever since, and the treatment of various food products by dehydration has now become pretty well standardized.

Canada's smallest province, Prince Edward Island, is not only the smallest but also the least densely populated.

The duty value of the island fishery products during 1941, totalled $2,347,000, an increase of 10 per cent over the figures of the previous year.

Like other provinces, Prince Edward Island felt the effect of the shortage of the supply in the fisheries. Total production in 1941, was 2,444,000 lbs., a total number of persons employed in fish processing plants was 966, giving an employment of 396 per 1,000 population.

THE MAN NAMED LEGION

The man named Legion asks for nothing more, and the right to stand. Erect, unthreatened, on a square of land. His children sturdy and his peace secure.

The world is wide, the generous earth could nourish. All men are more, and still have room to spare — So brief a while is his to breathe the So cheap, so simple, all that he would cherish.

Out of such modest stuff his dreams are made. But being humble, he is set at naught; Harried, despoiled, most grievously And the pathetic little that he sought is held beyond his hope, beyond his touch — That little; that impossible too much!

Toronto Hoarder To Lodge Appeal

MRS. ANNIE DWORIN GIVEN ALONG TONGUE WASHING WITH RECORD FINES OF $2,000

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (CP)—Mrs. Annie Dworin, 60, of Toronto, charged with hoarding groceries and sugar, will lodge an appeal against her conviction and the sentence imposed upon her, her attorney announced today.

Mrs. Dworin was fined $2,000 on three counts involving grocery and sugar hoarding, contrary to Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations.

Heaviest Ever Imposed TORONTO, Sept. 22—Heaviest fines ever imposed in Canada for hoarding were levied in police court here today when Mrs. Annie Dworin, 60, of Toronto, was found guilty on three charges of hoarding groceries. Magistrate J. D. McNish fined her $1,000 and $500 on each of the other two counts. Costs amounted to $750.

The $1,000 fine was imposed on a charge of hoarding groceries to the value of $105. The second charge was that of hoarding $83 worth of groceries, for which she was fined $500. The third charge, which also drew a $500 fine, was one of hoarding 200 pounds of sugar. The prosecution was conducted by N. L. Matthews and George Bagwell.

In finding Mrs. Dworin guilty and imposing the fines, Magistrate McNish said that as a well educated business woman, active in the affairs of the community, she could not help but be aware of war-time conditions. Referring to evidence that she had always bought in large quantities in the past, Magistrate McNish said it was no excuse for her doing so under present conditions.

If such purchases were permitted, he said, causing shortages of the necessities of life, "we may get money would set food and the rest of the people while those persons who are hoarding money would be finding the defendant guilty."

Noting that the accused had 12 pounds of coffee on hand on January 26, Magistrate McNish said: "It is the defendant's responsibility to have been found necessary to ration the coffee owing to the exigencies of the war. The defendant at that time purchased a supply of coffee for one year. I find that the defendant had acquired 156 lbs of soup which, if she had used one tin each

Yes It is YOUR Hospital

Then You'll Wish to Maintain It

THE PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND HOSPITAL, modernly equipped and thoroughly organized, is pleased to minister to all sick persons. The latter are in three groups,—

- (A) Those able to pay their accounts in full.
(B) Those able to pay a portion of their account.
(C) Those who are not able to pay at all.

The latter class cost the Hospital $13,938.22 last year. Thus the Hospital asks you to be in part your brother's keeper. The Hospital MUST be kept in operation. Those unable to pay MUST be cared for.

day, would last her at least five months. Such things cause shortages and if this sort of thing is permitted to continue during a period of shortage of the necessities of life we may get to the stage where those persons who would normally be able to pay their accounts would not find the deplorable fact that the Hospital would be unable to pay at all.

I am also affected by the fact that the report of the investigators showed in addition there were in her possession some six automobile tires and six new tires which she had purchased for her car. She had no money to do with these tires and it does reflect the mental attitude of the defendant in seeing that she would save the matter what other people did without.

The magistrate said it would seem to him that a woman moving in the sphere Mrs. Dworin must have been aware of regulations and must have been aware of them. He said this fact was impressed on him because she was delivered to the defendant on the very date that the order was made for the supply of sugar. On the basis of the present rationing charges of hoarding rationed goods had one year and seven months' supply and she had not made to return this sugar for use of other people after the rationing went into effect. She was selfishly indifferent to the interests of her fellow citizens in time of war.
