Setting Canada To Work For Canada

NATIONAL SERVICE LOAN GIVES CANADIANS AN OPPORTUNITY TO REVIVE BUSINESS ACTIVITY WITHOUT RISK.

The savings of the people of Canada, as shown by the savings deposits in the Canadian chartered banks are at a very high level, as compared with past years. In purchasing power they are much greater, owing to the low price level now prevailing for every sort of commodity. They place the Canadian people, in proportion to their numbers, among the richest nations of the earth.

The National Service Loan undertakes to make a substantial proportion of these and other savings of the Canadian people available for the purpose of giving useful employment to Canadian workers. There is work that needs to be done in Canada, and plenty of money to do it with; but present-day uncertainties have made individual owners of money all over the world reluctant to invest it in forms involving the slightest degree of risk.

Certain owners of savings now have an opportunity of using these savings for the direct promotion of business activity in their own country, but lending them to the Government, while at the same time incurring no risk whatever in the employment of these funds. The security of the National Service Loan is absolute. It is a first charge on the whole property and income of one of the richest and most productive countries of the world—a country possessed of unrivalled natural resources, with a population of the highest intelligence, enterprise and integrity, and capable of the most rigid thrift. Now is the time for Canadians to show their faith in themselves.
