PRINCE EDWARD — Today and Wed.

"Of Human Hearts" At Prince Edward

The surge and thunder of war is contrasted with the even more dramatic struggles that go on within human hearts in "Of Human Hearts," which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, with Walter Huston, James Stewart and Beth Bondi.

Huston's performance as Ethan Wilkins, the conscientious but realistic circuit rider is an impressive human document. Stewart plays the son who prefers medicine to the ministry, which brings a rift in the family. Miss Bondi plays the wife and mother who follows both blindly in her devotion.

Father and son fight, the son leaves for medical college, the father dies. The mother sells all the owns to educate the boy. During the war he becomes a great surgeon, but forgets his tragedy-stricken mother until Lincoln shows him his price in life. Though not a war picture, thrilling flashes of war are shown. Most of the action is in a quaint village on the beautiful shores of Lake Arrowhead. Clyde De Vinna's photography is outstanding.

Intimate glimpses into human character are given by Charles Coburn as the bibulous village doctor, Guy Kibbee as the skinflint storekeeper, Clem Bevans as the deaf elder, Lorraine Joy Gilbert as Gene Lockhart and other character players. The characterization of Lincoln is done by John Caradine. Lorraine Joy Gilbert plays Ann Rutherford, the heroine as a child, and Gene Reynolds enacts Stewart's boyhood. Hundreds appear in the war and crowd sequences.

"Air Border Smugglers Story" At The Capitol

Machine guns blaze death from roaring planes as Border Patrol officers, in swift pursuit ships, battle a desperate gang of border smugglers in highly dramatic "Criminals of the Air," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Charles Quigley, as the undercover government officer who camouflages his secret service work by posing as a commercial pilot of a trans-border "honeymoon plane," is splendid in the leading masculine role. Rosalind Keith, leading lady, scores a triumph in her clever blend of swift action and gentle romance as the young newspaper woman who falls in love with Quigley in spite of the fact that she suspects him of being involved in the smuggling.

The colorful Mexican border setting of the story, with its romantic elements of runaway marriages and picturesque cafe life, is enhanced by musical and dancing sequences in which Rita Hayworth is featured as a footshow entertainer. She is exceptionally fine.

The supporting company is an excellent one. Russell Hicks, gang leader, and Marc Lawrence, his flying gunman, turn in convincing performances. Patricia Farr and Frank Sully in comedy relief roles add a livening of fun to the comedy-drama.

Don't miss "Criminals of the Air." It's a corking good show.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

A new bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work that other pills can't do. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 10¢

STOMACH TROUBLES
Often Due To Constipation

HOW TO GET WELL

One quick aid for an ailing stomach is Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Many people use no other medicine.

"I was a constant sufferer from constipation and sick headaches," writes G. Slater from Calgary, "and for two years felt so sick and miserable I would cheerfully have died. A friend of mine sent me Dr. Hamilton's Pills and they did wonders for me. Indeed they saved my life. They have ended my headaches, given me a fine healthy complexion, increased appetite and have made me well."

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS

ARE YOU LIKE THAT?

You know folks are so funny, In what they say and do, Myself included in the lot And you—and you—and you.

I often take a notion, To write a little verse, and yet I know from time to time, they're getting worse and worse.

I seem to have written, and think it swell—and that I'm (its just beyond belief).

Right then I think it dandy, Oh yes it really fine, to close months later on I realize, it isn't worth a dime.

I get in every once a while, and feel that I've "got something there," so make another spurge.

Guess that I will never change, but perhaps we're all the same, we think we're smart—but what's this life is just a game.

So keep on doing what you wish, and thinking as you may, and may your life grow brighter, and

Your wish come true some day . . .

Only One Right Way To Spade

The first tool an earnest home gardener has need of in the spring is a spade and the first operation, after the ground is dry enough to work, is to spade the garden.

The task may seem appalling to one unaccustomed to it and the temptation to hire a man with a plow is always strong. And many a garden fever has grown cold, weary and many a cur has kept his promise, while many a garden has been a failure because the work entrusted to the plowman or a laborer's feeble decay, piece of iron, or a spading fork, strongly made, a sharp, short handled spade and a steel rake. It is best to make an investment of a few dollars in a good spade and rake, and to begin by digging across this avenue a trench about 2 feet wide and one full spade's depth. Remove all earth from the trench and level the surface of the next 2 feet of all debris and tramp the debris down in the bottom of the trench. Then spade up and level the surface of the earth from the next 2-foot strip across the avenue. This in turn provides a second trench, which may be filled as was the first, and the operation repeated until the garden is done.

Burying debris, including the remains of last year's crops is said by department of agriculture to be the best method of getting rid of destroying the fungi of plant diseases. But the method here described must be followed with care, which is difficult with a plow, and the damage so often done by careless plowmen is avoided. And best of all, the garden can be prepared immediately the moment of the soil permits, without the wearying wait for someone to come and do it for you. Immediately after spading the surface can be raked smooth, which is difficult with a plow, and the productive powers of the garden increased.

Spading in this manner prepares the garden thoroughly for seeding with much less expense than plowing and much greater satisfaction. All the corners may be reached, which is difficult with a plow, and the damage so often done by careless plowmen is avoided. And best of all, the garden can be prepared immediately the moment of the soil permits, without the wearying wait for someone to come and do it for you. Immediately after spading the surface can be raked smooth, which is difficult with a plow, and the productive powers of the garden increased.

Modern plans food should never be buried. It is important that weeds carry their roots to the roots of the plants, when they are small and near the surface. Apply it after the soil preparation has been finished and give it a top two inches of soil. It will then begin to feed the seedling plants immediately they start to grow, and it will continue growth until it is consumed.

Belfast And Vicinity

The letter that appeared recently in the Guardian regarding the sending of the Hungarian Patriotic to this island was very interesting to many and especially lovers of birds. Several flocks have been reported in this district lately but whether they are the same birds remains a matter of conjecture.

Belfast friends of Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Skinner of Windsor express sympathy to her in the passing of her father, the late Mr. Angus MacDonald at his home on Pictou Island last week. Although not in the best of health for some time, his death came as a shock to his many friends on the island as he appeared in such good spirits when last he visited here.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. McLeod when the Girl Guides were hostesses to the Belle River branch of the Boy Scouts. Games were enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served which ended a pleasant evening.

Debate has been started in Southport Queens with a good attendance and profitable topic on debate. Besides being a pleasant way to spend an evening, it is also a profitable one as it encourages public speaking and many of our best speakers of today give a great deal of credit to their success as beginning in a friendly debate.

With the days lengthening book-keeping has been started with many overy designs as the result.
