

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly needed to publish this any time you wish."

Mrs. ALBERT WICKERT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

JAPAN CANNOT AFFORD WAR.

General Wood has done something to dispel the Japanese-American war scare, but a careful study of Japanese finance would probably do more. When the struggle with Russia began, Japan was poor, but she counted on a quick triumph and a big indemnity. The war, however, kept her long enough to practically bankrupt the treasury, while Russia, whose soil, excepting that of the island of Saghalien, had not been invaded, could not be compelled to pay Japan towards meeting the new bill of costs was a free hand in Korea, fishing and mining privileges in Saghalien, and a chance to divide the trade of Manchuria with her late enemy.

The budget for the year just closed has not appeared, as yet, in foreign publications, but it can not differ much from that in hand, by which a debt of nearly 2,000,000,000 yen, or $1,000,000,000, is acknowledged. The latest figures in the report of the department of Commerce and Labor on the indebtedness and finances of nations, sets the totals for Japan as follows: National debt, 932,445,798 yen; interest charge, 72,752,294 yen; revenue, 246,362,944 yen; expenditure the same, which latter, presumably, takes account of both interest and sinking fund. There is, however, no sign of a surplus, and war cannot be waged at much less cost than a million dollars, or two million yen, per day that was the estimated outlay of Japan in the war with Russia, a conflict which was terminated none too soon for the Japanese, who, despite their victories, were on the verge of financial collapse when the Portsmouth treaty was signed.

What Japan has set out to do is not to increase her debt, but to increase her revenue and the prosperity of her people. She will administer Korea in a way to make that country pay, a task of no ingenuity considering the peninsula's mines and fisheries and its possibilities of agriculture. The Koreans themselves only exported ginseng and a few tiger skins; the Japanese may be trusted to exploit the land to the last ounce of its saleable products and to make it a centre of the silk industry. Furthermore, the empire is in competition for the carrying trade and hopes to get for its manufactures the trade of China, cutting out that of Europe and America by virtue of the low-priced labor and cheap raw material. The interruption in this sagacious programme that war would make is the thing that Japan most dreads.

The United States may be sure that she would cut down her naval and military budgets if this country would but set the example; but with America fortifying a war base close to Formosa, and another in Hawaii, and building a canal so that she may promptly use the North Atlantic fleet to dispute for the mastery of the Pacific, what is left to Japan but to also make warlike preparations? But of one thing we may be sure: She will keep the peace with us and everybody while her finances are low, if this and other nations will let her do it.

TEMPERANCE IN HIGH PLACES.

Kaiser William in opening the new naval academy at Flensburg, Prussia delivered another of those moral speeches which are characteristic of him at times.

After warning the naval cadets against the use of alcohol, and remarking that excessive drinking undermined the nerves and that the strenuous naval service of to-day required strong nerves, he counselled total abstinence, suggested that the young men join the Good Templars and added that the nation in which in future, used the smallest amount of alcohol would march at the head of the column on the fields of art and war.

When the Good Templars gave thanks to the King of Denmark for signing the Prohibition law for Iceland, he said "Few, if any, of my actions since I became king have given me more pleasure and satisfaction than I feel on signing the prohibition law for Iceland and if the parliament of Denmark will pass a similar law I shall be more willing yet to approve that."

"Bronchitis"

This is an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the air tubes in the lungs.

The disease begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty of breathing, hoarseness, and there is a dry, harsh, croupy cough.

After a few days mucous begins to be raised. This is at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

Cure the first symptoms of Bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thus prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps turning to Consumption.

Mrs. D. J. McCormack, Cleveland, N.S., writes: "My little boy, two years old, caught a bad cold which developed into Bronchitis. He was so choked up he could hardly breathe. Reading about your wonderful medicine, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I decided to try a bottle, and with such good result I got another which completely cured him, too much in its praise and would not be without it in the house as I consider it a sure cure for Colds and Bronchitis."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gallicol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membrane. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada, that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

TO SOFTEN THE HANDS.

Nothing is better than good mutton tallow. Try out the fat in a quick oven. When entirely melted, strain several times through a piece of cheese cloth until very clear. When it begins to cool and harden, whip with a large silver fork and add at same time rose water and your favorite extract in the following proportions: To every teaspoonful of melted tallow add one teaspoonful of rose water and a half a teaspoonful of some delicate perfume. Put away to harden in small jelly glass.
