PASSING OF "AMERICA"

Management of the New York Hippodrome Sound the Last Call for The Biggest Spectacle of History.

Only a few days and the proudest most spectacular and expensive production ever presented—America—will be withdrawn from the main stage of the huge New York Hippodrome to make way for a Spring comic opera offering, Gilbert & Sullivan's immortal "Pinafore". There is regret in many quarters but popular "America", that has endeared itself to hundreds of thousands during its run of 28 weeks, would pass into a memory. Grand its physical aspects, veiled in a certain indescribable poetic beauty, Arthur Voegtlin's latest contribution to the stage, enjoys the unique distinction of combining art and anank sensationalism, music and the noisy turbulence of the circus ring, dreamy nebulance and the crash realism of ultramelodrama, descriptive music that will enrapture the connoisseur and "popular" melodies that set the feet of the audience tapping in sympathy with "rag-time".

Nowhere else within the memory of most critics mingled on such familiar terms. The result has been an attraction that has given universal delight to old and young, depending on its appeal upon patriotism and the inherent love of a "bargain". There is so much to the spectacle, from every possible standpoint, that it cannot be adequately described except as an entertainment bargain. No matter what one's particular penchant may be—whether a mad dash into pyrotechnics, a sojourn in rama, a gambol in the frivolities of musical comedy, or actual descent into the depths of sleep-stick convulsions, and buffoonery, it is at the command of the visitor to "America". The children shout in youthful glee; the middle aged assume the aspect of youthful days, and age turns juvenile again under the spell of the wizard Voegtlin's handiwork.

To those who have not seen "America" and who would ungrudgingly fritter away an afternoon or night for these delights, the last call has sounded. It is now or never!

Less than one week hence the fairyland of paint and canvas, tinsel and rearse paint will fade away into a mere memory, as many a more substantial work of men has done before.

GIGANTIC 20TH ANNIVERSARY AT B. F. KEITH'S, BOSTON.

The week of March 23rd will mark the twentieth anniversary opening of B. F. Keith's Theatre beautiful on March 24th, 1894. Just two decades have passed since the doors of this famous amusement resort were first thrown open to the public. For his 20th Anniversary Bill, Mr. Keith has gathered together one of the strongest all-star bills ever offered in Boston. Practically every act of the program is of headline calibre. Elizabeth Murray, who has not been seen in Boston vaudeville in four years, famous for her tremendous hit in "Madame Sherry," will appear in a series of comic songs and staves. Jessie Lasky's "Trains and Nurses" with Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, surrounded by a dashing bevy of handsome nurse maids, will appear in a charming one-act musical play. Claude Gillingwater, the celebrated legitimate comedian, will appear with his company of players in a very comely sketch, "Wives of the Rich," which deals with an old theme in a new and novel manner. Jake Bogany's famous of Lunatic Bakers, one of the funniest comedy acrobatic acts in the world, will appear in fun in a new and novel manner. A very big hit of quite different type is John and Mac Burke in "The Ragtime Soldier Man." Other excellent attractions will be Les Cadets de Gascogne, best of all operatic quartettes; Seymour's Happy Family of trained animals; Tooney and Norman, just a little bit of vaudeville; and many others yet to be announced.

How to Prevent Acid Stomach and Food Fermentation

BY A STOMACH SPECIALIST

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, half a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your chemist for the bisulphated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

We Know They're Good Delays Are Dangerous You Risk No Money

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve flatulency promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.
