HOW CANADIAN SOLDIERS CAPTURED GERMAN TRENCHES Fleeing Germans Caught by Canadian Bullets

LONDON, March 12.—An interesting description of the capture of a German trench by Canadians has been given in a letter from one of the men who took part in the charge. The Canadian writer says:

"At 4 a.m. we were ordered to take a German trench 25 yards away. Quite simple, we were told. 'Just shake your bayonets and they will surrender.'"

"With four companions, besides two bomb-throwers, I crept forward, knee-deep in mud, until we were almost on top of the enemy's trench. The Germans, who were apparently surprised at seeing visitors, fired a round apiece at us and then fled. One of our men was shot outright, but we caught the German who hit him, and we settled the account. Not one of their lot escaped. I think it was hell, as the enemy all along the line started firing, also throwing hand-grenades and employing machine guns, but we held the position long enough to enable our fatigue party to break down the trench. Then we slowly retreated, taking the dead and wounded with us. We were stepping into our own trench when a machine gun caught me."

"Today's London papers contain the simple announcement that the second Canadian contingent has reached England. There was no previous intimation given in the newspapers here.

As a Result of Britain's New Method of Warfare Against Submarines the Kaiser is Reported to Have Called a Council of War to Discuss the Advisability of Abandoning the Submarine War. The Allies Have Made Splendid Progress in West, Capturing 1,000 Prisoners Saturday Besides Several Groups of Houses Prepared for Defense.

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, March 13.—At the harbor entrances and all other strategic points around the British Isles the Admiralty has set miles of submarine traps to catch the German underwater craft. A report has it that three submarines were caught during the first ten days of the blockade. The traps set for submarines are not unlike the gill-nets used by fishermen.

LONDON, March 13.—A despatch to the Daily Express from the Hague says: A secret report has been sent from Cuxhaven to the Admiralty at Berlin that twelve submarines have failed to report at their base, eight of them being among Germany's newest boats. The naval council will meet to-day or to-morrow, under the presidency of Inspector William, to discuss whether or not it would be better to abandon the submarine war.

PARIS, March 13.—Official—The British troops continue to progress. They crossed the brook of Larjes, which runs parallel to the road from Neuve Chappelle to Fleuvaix. At the end of the day they reached the road known as "the highway to hell," which runs towards Auben. To the southwest of Eltere they carried several groups of houses which had been strongly prepared for defensive purposes. The total number of prisoners taken during the day was 1,000.

(Special to the Guardian.)
PARIS, March 14.—The advance of the British troops in the vicinity of Neuve Chappelle is estimated at four miles in a despatch reaching here to-day from Bethune. The Germans are declared to have been driven back beyond the forests.

SERMON ON "JUDGMENT" BY REV. DR. FULLERTON Second in Series of Four Addresses.

In St James Church last evening the pastor, Rev. Dr Fullerton, preached the second of his series of four sermons on "Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell." Considerable interest is being shown in these special sermons, and last evening, as on the Sunday before, there was a large congregation.

Dr Fullerton spoke from the Second Epistle of St Paul to the Corinthians v. 10: "We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ."

"We know very well, he said, that judgment is absolutely indispensable. Outside of mere chaos things stand for something; events surely must tend somewhere. If there is not a judgment day in the economy of the world, why should we trouble about life at all? It is not an arbitrary enactment, but it is an unavoidable process, the sequel and corollary of that sense of responsibility that every man feels in his saner moments in life. Belief in a judgment is part of our faith in the sanity of the universe in which we live.

On one occasion the great Daniel Webster was asked, "What is the greatest thought that ever entered your mind?" "My personal sense of accountability to the great God," was his reply. Edmund Spenser, in "The Faerie Queene," has written a beautiful poem on moral standards. Eliminate that, and where is the claim that we are made but a little lower than the Eternal God and bear the impress of His own image? Every man has felt that unique imperative of duty. We feel the pull of the great depths of our nature. It is the imperative of conscience; it is the outcome of responsibility; it is the one mark we bear that indicates that we are the sons of the Eternal God.

They tell us that the rays of light from distant stars which reach us now, after thousands of years ago, are the past of the star in the present of the observer. So these light rays which leave the earth are never destroyed. In other words, our actions transmit themselves outward into infinity; they are immortal; they are undying. The earth is not a stage, where the thing dies from out the memory. It may disappear, but it is not exterminated. We may seem to forget, but how little will vividly recall the past. The book may be out of our reach at the close, but it is not burnt. The crisis will be when the next day, we may read—You remember that touch in the parable of the rich man in hell. God says, "Son—mark the words—'Son, remember'; and the memory gave of its dead. And God is ever saying the same to us and our memories are revived. You may take it not merely as an arbitrary declaration in the divine book, but take it as the concurrence of all experience of men. We must all be made manifest before the judgment seat of God; each one discovered to himself before God's throne, and each one will stand as he were alone. Do you grasp the significance of this declaration? We hide much from our nearest friends; but there the mask will be torn off. What shall the revelation be? Death removes the veil of flesh, all the drapings of earth dropped to sweep the dust. You know what the Frenchman said, 'Surely the Omnipotent God will not condemn a man of my rank.' Ah, prince and pauper are on the same level when we pass into the unseen and eternal. There is no respect of persons with God; there is no place for mere rank, or birth, or chance distinction when we stand at the great Tribunal. To use the figure of our

IN ST. DUNSTON'S CATHEDRAL YESTERDAY

Programme for Peace Services on March 21.

Yesterday at High Mass in Saint Dunstan's Cathedral the preacher, Father Pius MacDonald, read the following:

Holliness our Sovereign Lord, Pope Benedict XV, in deep affliction at the sight of a war which destroys thousands of young lives, brings misery to families and cities, and rushes flourishing nations to the brink of ruin, yet bearing in mind that Almighty God, whose prerogative it is to heal by chastisement and through pardon to preserve, is moved by the prayers that spring from contrite and humble hearts, desires ardently that above the clang of arms may be heard the voice of Faith, Hope and Charity, alone capable of welding together the hearts of men in one mind and one spirit. Therefore, while He exhorts the clergy and faithful of the whole world to works of mortification and piety in expiation for the sins by which we have called down upon ourselves the just wrath of God, the Holy Father has ordained that throughout the Catholic Church solemn prayers shall be offered in order to obtain from the mercy of Almighty God the peace which all desire.

His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown, therefore, orders that in accordance with the desire of our Holy Father there shall be celebrated special religious functions in all the churches of this diocese on the 21st day of March (being Passion Sunday) in the following order:

In the morning, immediately after the Conventual or Parochial Mass the Most Blessed Sacrament shall be exposed, after the reading of the Gospels, with the Psalm miserere mei, Deus (ps. 50) shall be sung with the antiphon "Da pacem, domine, in diebus nostris, qui non est alius pugnet pro nobis nisi tu, Deus noster" followed by the "Pax in virtute tua, et abundantia in turribus tuis, et in diebus tuis, Deus, a quo sancta desideria," etc.

The Most Blessed Sacrament shall then remain exposed to public veneration till evening; and it is desirable that arrangements be made whereby children also should take part in the public adoration.

In the evening previously to the deposition of the Most Blessed Sacrament, the third part of the Rosary is to be repeated, followed by His Holiness in order to obtain the benefit of peace; then the Litanies of the Saints, according to the form prescribed for the devotion of the Forty Hours' Prayer in the Rituale Romanum of the year 1913. Immediately after the Litanies shall be sung the "Parce, Domine, parce populo tuo, ne in aeternum irascaris nobis" with the versicles and prayer usually recited after the Procession in quatuordecim tribulationibus, or in the Rituale Romanum, with the addition of the Collect "Deus a quo sancta desideria."

In the hope that Almighty God may pour forth in yet greater abundance His Divine Grace, the Sovereign Pontiff exhorts the faithful to approach the Sacrament of Penance and to receive Holy Communion, and grants to all those who, after confession and Communion, shall assist at one of the sacred actions, or "Redemption," or the Most Blessed Sacrament while solemnly exposed, a Plenary Indulgence.

In the evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. Father McAuley, St. Peter's, delivered one of the finest sermons of the series of Lenten discourses on, "Redemption." He dealt with his subject in an interesting and impressive manner.

2,000 GERMAN PRISONERS ON WAY TO ENGLAND

(Special to the Guardian.)
HAVRE, March 14.—Two thousand German prisoners, captured by the British, arrived here to-night on the way to England.

THE GERMANS LOST 10,000 MEN IN 3 DAYS

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, March 14.—The War Office to-night made the following announcement:

"Heavy counter-attacks were delivered by the enemy Saturday afternoon, and several minor counter-attacks earlier in the day. All were repulsed.

Judging by observations on various positions of the front of battle, and by statements of prisoners, of whom there are now 17,200, the enemy's losses must have been very heavy and cannot have fallen far short of 10,000 men within three days.

A train at Don station was blown up by our air craft Sunday morning."

While War Office makes no mention of the region where the above operations took place, it is probable they occurred in the vicinity of Neuve Chappelle, where severe fighting has been in progress for several days. The town of Don, where the railroad station is reported to have been blown up, lies about ten miles south-west of Lille.

NEW AUSTRALIAN ARMY IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, March 13.—An Australian contingent arrived in England to-day, according to an announcement made to-night.

URGES KAISER'S BULLETS FOR SHAW.

ATLANTA, March 12.—John Burroughs, great nature lover, has little use for the Germans and George Bernard Shaw. This was made clear when a party of Atlanta teachers visited him at the home of Dr. R. J. H. Deloach at Experiment, Ga.

"I consider Germany the most bigoted nation on earth," declared Mr. Burroughs, "and it is best for the world that the Allies should curb them. She must respect the rights of other nations and realize there is a stopping point in her expansion. That point happens to be the English Channel. This is a most terrible war. My sleep is frequently disturbed by it. I was hoping the end would come in June, but now I think otherwise."

He called Shaw "the most conceited literary man alive," and added: "He imagines he is greater than Shakespeare. Worse than that, he has maligned England, and the best I would recommend for him is the front rank in the British army, where he would have ample opportunity for inspiration in the whizz of the Kaiser's bullets. It would do little damage if several of the said bullets found lodgment in Shaw's anatomy."
