Free Dispensary Reviews Year

Fine Humanitarian Work Carried Out T. Edgar MacNutt Re-elected President.

Thirtieth annual meeting of the Charlottetown Free Dispensary, known formerly as the "Anti-Tuberculosis Society," was held last night in the Board-Rooms of the City Building. President T. Edgar MacNutt who was re-elected to that office, was chairman.

President MacNutt said that last year the free dispensary endeavored to take care of the under-privileged people of the city. Supported by donations from the public, the organization supplied drugs and food and coal to the poor people of the city. Cod Liver Oil was given out in large quantities to undernourished children and patients on the waiting list of the Provincial Sanatorium. Other people who had been ordered by the Charlottetown public nurse to use cod liver oil but could not afford to buy it were supplied by the Free Dispensary.

President MacNutt said the organization was in a good condition financially and would be able to continue its work. "I have only to appeal to all our citizens to continue their kindly interest and support of the society which in a quiet manner carries on an immense amount of work on behalf of those in our midst who are in need of aid," he concluded.

Election Of Officers

With the election of officers, W. F. Tidmarsh was named honorary president. Vice-presidents elected were Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan and D. Williams. Mrs. Robert L. Cotton was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee named was composed of Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Mrs. S. R. Jenkins, Mrs. Gavan Duffy, Miss Eleanor Holl, Mrs. W. W. Clark, Miss E. Dorsey, Mrs. James Harris, Miss Margaret Cotton, Mrs. Louis Sadler, Mrs. D. J. Riley, Mrs. J. J. Morris, Mrs. S. T. Green, Mrs. J. H. McQuaid, Miss. Amy Earle, Mrs. A. E. Morrison, and Mrs. J. P. Gordon

Reports by the president, the secretary-treasurer and by the district visitor, Miss Amy C. Earle were received at the meeting and adopted

One of the speakers at the meeting was Miss Ina Gillan, R. N., who gave an instructive address on the work being done by the Department of Health on Prince Edward Island. She dealt with school health work in the city, the clinic, college students examinations, immunization, tubercular and skin tests, orthopedic clinics, home nursing and first aid. She told of the work being done in Charlottetown regarding the supplying of milk to pupils of the city schools.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Gillan for her informative address.

The Secretary was requested to send the regrets of the meeting to Mr. D. A. MacKinnon upon his illness. For many years Mr. MacKinnon has been auditor of the books of the dispensary.

Votes of thanks to the city council for the use of the Board Rooms, to the Press, to station C. F. C. Y., Rotary Club and other organizations and individuals who had assisted in any way were tendered by the meeting.

Report By Miss Amy C. Earle

The need for better housing conditions, long and repeatedly advocated by the Free Dispensary, was stressed again in the report of Miss Amy C. Earle in a review of her work the past year as District Visitor.

Miss Earle reported that in the course of her visitations she found "many of the dwellings unfit for habitation, and that no cheap homes have taken the place of those pulled down."

In one instance, she said, "I recall one room which contained two beds, all the family's belongings even to the kitchen stove. Fire had gutted a house occupied by several families, so that all had to vacate. A husband and wife, however with six small children were glad to move into the partly destroyed building for some sort of shelter, a roof at least over their heads. Daylight showed here and there and with only one fire they had a most distressing winter and suffered terribly from cold."

Miss Earle reported that several families who had moved into the city and were helped by the Dispensary had returned to the country, but not to the district to which they formerly belonged. "Evidently," she said, "relief was foremost in their minds and they did not know that a man must be a resident for two years, not twelve months, as formerly, before he can receive civic relief, and they learned their lesson through a bitter experience."

Commenting on the work of the Dispensary Miss Earle said "it had supplied medicine, nourishment clothing, coal and Christian cheer, and it wil continue to do so as long as it receives the interest and support of our citizens."

"Our drug bill is over $600.00, our largest expenditure," she said

A most successful Christmas made possible by donations from the Rotary Club, Male Chorus, City Travellers, Girl Guides, Church Groups, Women's Institutes, merchants and citizens was reported.

In referring to activities around Christmas Miss Earle said, "The children I know would like me to thank His Honour the Lieutenant Governor for the delightful party he gave them again this year. Hundreds of invitations were sent out. No child of proper age was overlooked, but we are sorry to say that some who were not invited took advantage of the Governor's generosity and received gifts that were intended for others."

Miss Earle referred to the fine support and aid received from the Canadian Legion and also "from our good friend Mr. A. G. King."

President's Annual Report

Ladies and Gentlemen:—In presenting my report as President of the "Free Dispensary," may I first remind you that over thirty years have passed since it was first organized as "The Anti-Tuberculosis Society," and that at the last annual meeting you approved of its name being changed to "The Free Dispensary."

The Capital Account amounting to $1700.00 in debentures, as ordered at the last annual meeting, has been placed in the Bank of Nova Scotia, in trust, the officials of which clip the coupons when due and credit same to our current account. This system is proving very satisfactory.

My work as President has been very pleasant, and, on account of an efficient staff, has been reduced to a minimum.

The annual collection last year, as will be seen in the report of the Treasurer, was very satisfactory, and proves beyond a doubt that the Society has not only the sympathy, but the wholehearted support of our citizens. Another proof of this was the splendid attendance at the Sacred Concert, given by the Male Chorus and a chorus from the Women's Music Club, in the Prince Edward Theatre.

A slight change was made at Christmas, as the usual tree was dispensed with and, instead, a larger number of useful gifts were made to the children together with a bag of candy and fruit. The usual Christmas dinners were also provided. The ladies of the executive and staff carried on the immense amount of work connected with this Christmas cheer with great thoroughness and efficiency. Our thanks are certainly due them.

Resolutions of sympathy have been sent by your executive to Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Dorsey, members of the executive, on account of family bereavements since our last annual meeting.

Last year in my report I gave a somewhat extended review of the history of the Society, and there is little I can add this year which would be of interest, but I can assure you the work has been carried on during the past year as usual.

Miss Earle, as usual, has performed her duties with cheerfulness and efficiency and, although not well during the early part of our fiancial year, she saw to it that her work was not in the least overlooked, as she procured the help of Miss Hughes, who ably assisted her.

I must also refer to the usual splendid and capable work of our Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Cotton, who has never lost her interest or overlooked her duties in the Society over a long period of years; in fact since its inception.

In closing it is my pleasant duty to thank not only these officials, but also all the members of the executive and friends for faithful service.

Thanks are also due to the press and C.F.C.Y. for publicity freely given, to the Male Chorus, the Women's Music Club, the management of the Prince Edward Theatre, the Rotary Club and all other societies and individuals who in any way contributed to the work or aid of the Dispensary.

Lastly, on behalf of the Society, I have only to appeal to all our citizens to continue their usual kindly interest and support to the Society which, in a quiet manner, carries on an immense amount of work on behalf of those in our midst who are in need of aid.

T. Edgar MacNutt,
President.

McPhee Riddles Premier's Alibis In Great Speech

Leaves Government Leader And Candidates Gasping Helplessly At Georgetown Meeting.

Arriving at the Georgetown meeting Thursday night for the purpose of aiding his party supporters, Premier Campbell ran into more than he bargained for when he encountered Mr. H. Frank MacPhee on the same platform. Mr. MacPhee followed the Premier, and subjected his arguments to such a devastating analysis that Mr. Saville, who followed in rebuttal, made no attempt whatever to reply, but contented himself with discussing other matters, and wrangling with the corporal's guard of the audience which remained to hear him out

Answering the Premier's statement that the Opposition should welcome the calling of an early election, Mr. MacPhee said the objection was not to the Government's going to the country before the expiry of its term, but to the secrecy and the suddenness with which the election was sprung.

"We think that was an attempt at 'smartness' on the part of the Government," he said. "An attempt to sneak back into power. We criticise them for going to the country at this particular time, when there has not been afforded to the electors the opportunity they should have, of freely discussing the important problems which are before us."

The current explanation of this procedure, he continued, is that the Government find themselves in a position where they can no longer carry on. "I think the charitable suggestion is this, that the Government at last has come to the conclusion to which the people arrived long ago, that they should give up the duties they assumed just as quickly as they possibly can." (Applause.

Serious Situation

"I do not think I need apologize to Mr. Saville when I say that I think, with all thinking men of this Province, that our financial situation is now a serious one," said Mr. MacPhee. "I do not think that any man, whether he be Liberal or Conservative, is pleased with the fact that our known debt is now something in excess of seven million dollars. Last year alone the Government increased the debt, in so far as we know, by one and a quarter million dollars. That means that the resources of this Province are pledged and hypothecated to that additional extent.

"I say our KNOWN debt is in excess of seven millions. And I say that because we feel that in addition to the debt exposed by the Public Accounts, there exists a large unknown debt in respect to claims against the Government in unpaid bills.

UNPAID BILLS UNKNOWN

"The Auditor is alleged to have made an unofficial statement, placing the unpaid bills at Dec. 31, 1938, at something like $70,000, I understand.

Premier Campbell: "That is right; the same as in 1934."

Mr MacPhee: "That would not be an alarming situation, if it were correct. Mr. Campbell tells us the Auditor unofficially states that to be the case, but I say to the Premier that the Auditor has no idea what the outstanding claims are against the Province. I say he has no idea what bills remain to be paid in respect to the work done last year.

"For example, part of the new highway from Charlottetown to Montague runs through the district in which I am a candidate. During my canvass I find that a number of people had claims against the Government in respect of which no calculation has been made. I find the Government engineer did not make the first survey in the case of one man's claim, which originated at least a year ago. Some claims on that highway, in which settlement has not been made, originated two years ago. In respect to these claims I understand that no survey has ever been made.

"Does the Premier mean to tell us that Mr. Massey knows what these claims are when the engineers have made no report? I say Mr. Massey has no idea what these claims are, and as to this particular department of unpaid bills—the highway work done—the situation I found within that small section within two or three miles of Montague is capable of being multiplied throughout the Province. Therefore there must be an immense amount of outstanding accounts. Mr. Massey does not know what they are. The Premier does not know. BUT WE ARE GOING TO FIND OUT WHAT THEY ARE." (Applause).

"We have in addition to this an alarming debt of seven million dollars, so that our financial position is one to which we do not look with pride.

"Here we have a little Province which in resources has been getting poorer at the same time that it has been going more deeply in debt. We had a large lobster business as one of our industries. We had almost a monopoly on the fox industry. We had the seed potato industry. We have these industries yet, but to what extent are they producing revenue in comparison with past years? I say we cannot stand a debt of seven million dollars now as well as we could some years ago.

"Should we 'hush up" about this as the Government candidates suggest? I say no. Let us face the facts. Let us discuss these things with the electors and tell them where we stand. And so the first plank in our platform,—which the Premier describes as 'bunk'— is to have a complete investigation to ascertain and reveal the true financial condition of the Province.

Self-Centered "Economists"

"The reason for the position we now find ourselves in," continued Mr. MacPhee, "is not traceable to the fact that we have constructed certain miles of paved highway. It is traceable to the attitude towards public expenditure and administration which this Government assumed from the very beginning.

"One of their first actions was to amend the Election Act in order to enable sitting members of the Legislature to assume offices to which salaries were attached, and offices which heretofore had not existed.

"Mr. LePage, a member of the Government, was given—not a new job but an old sinecure to which there was attached a new salary. Always in the past the Premier was President of the Executive Council. It was his duty to preside at meetings of the Council. The office was divided, under this Government, and Mr. LePage given a salary of $1,000 for doing that one thing, for performing a task which our good chairman is performing this evening,—for sitting." (Laughter and applause).

"Previous to that, the Premier improved his own position by adding to his own salary the sum of $500 in connection with the administration of the Prohibition Act

"That appeared to set the pace for the members of the Legislature, because Mr. LePage comes in and gets another salary for himself. Then Mr. Acorn, a private member of the Legislature. Then Mr. Gallant. We find Mr. Trainor coming in and being appointed Clerk and getting a salary for himself. You see the thing became contagious!" (Applause).

Blundering Legislation

"One after another of these men, who were forbidden by the Election Act to do this thing, did it illegally; and it is illegal still, because all the time they sat in the House as members in occupation of these offices, and received salaries which they themselves had made incident to the offices, were sitting illegally. They tried to amend the Act, and failed. They tried twice, and failed. Then they tried to whitewash it in another Act, and failed again. So we find these men, in spite of the best efforts of the legal members of the Campbell Government, sitting year after year in these offices illegally." (Applause).

Continuing, Mr. MacPhee said this clearly indicated that the Government members and supporters were not thinking of their pledges to balance the budget or practice economy in any way. They were not thinking of the public welfare at all. They were not thinking of anything at the moment except getting something for themselves.

"When you find men so careless of their promises and so thoughtful of themselves, are you surprised when you find that the financial position of the Province is as I have indicated it to be?" (Applause)

In addition, Mr. MacPhee pointed out, several members of the Government used their offices to gain Government contracts for firms in which they themselves were managing directors.

"The Premier," he continued, "can draw a red herring across the trail by suggesting that we would have to cut out public works to achieve economy; but one way we can get reduction of expenditure is by abolishing at once these offices that were created by the Legislature for Legislative members. Therefore one of our planks is to do away at once with this pernicious system." (Applause).

Unrepentant

"Mr. Campbell says that the Conservative platform is a weak imitation of their own. I find nothing in his platform about doing away with these abuses. If we found that these men who are seeking your support intended to repent, it would be a different story. But they give no indication of any such intention. Instead, across the trail they draw this red herring, attempting to divert your minds by suggesting that if this Government is defeated and a Conservative Government is elected to office, certain road work which is largely promised in the Liberal platform will be discontinued.

"I will admit that if you are looking for magnificent promises, then you have them in the Liberal platform. BUT YOU HAD THEM BEFORE. (Applause). You had them in 1935. YOU VOTED FOR THEM BEFORE. There is a new set this time, but you will notice that there is nothing about a balanced budget. That was used once and cannot be used again. The emphasis now is on this highway policy, designed to capture votes in every constituency.

"Let me say this: I believe in good roads I believe we should provide just as good roads as we can afford. But the Liberal platform in respect to highway policy is framed not in the interests of economic road paving but to capture as many votes as possible in every part of the Province."

Barefaced Bribery

Continuing, Mr. MacPhee instanced the abolition of fares on ferry steamers. "That of course," he said, 'is a pure election move. I know the people of Georgetown, Lower Montague and Newport well enough to know that they can't be bought with a cheap little thing like that. Neither can they be bought with great big highway promises." (Loud Applause).

"It is not a bit of use, after a Government has carried on the finances of the Province as this Government has done, to hope again by promises which will greatly involve this Province, to be elected to power. You have had one experience of promises from this Government. You know how well they kept the platform on which they were elected! (Applause).

"It is not as if these promises were made by irresponsible candidates going about seeking election —though there were many irresponsible promises made as well. But when a great party like the Liberal Party solemnly writes into its platform important pledges such as were contained in the Liberal platform of 1935, and then openly violates them,—where the men who have promised to reduce expenditure are the very men who rush in to have money spent on themselves,—then you have a situation which is so worthy of condemnation that it is difficult to find words sufficiently severe with which to describe it." (Applause).

The Two Platforms

"The Premier commends item after item of the Conservative platform. I had intended to deal with that but it is not necessary. The Premier has spent half his time on it, and he has commended every single plank in it!" (Applause).

"Neither is it necessary for me to deal with the new Liberal platform. Is it necessary for me to deal with the new platform of a party when you can remember that four years ago they had a platform to which they themselves paid no attention whatever? (Laughter) Therefore I say that the two platforms require no mention by me tonight: ours because it has been fully attended to by the Premier; theirs because it is one to which apparently no attention will ever be paid." (Loud Applause).

NATIONAL PARK

With regard to the National Park question, Mr. MacPhee said it had been stated on many occasions that we have a total provincial area which is all Park. The Liberal argument is that certain moneys were being expended by the Federal Government for National Parks, that we were not getting our share, and therefore we had to establish a National Park.

"I am as interested in the tourist business as any person and in establishing good roads," said Mr. MacPhee. "But I feel that if the Dominion Government had been approached in the right way they would recognize what every one at once recognizes, that the whole Province of Prince Edward Island is a National Park. If that principle were established, then these same moneys which have been voted could be devoted to beautifying various sections throughout the Province.

"Already in connection with the National Park the Dominion Government has recognized its obligation to build highways to its own area. But the Dominion obligation will be very limited in this Province, and the amount of highway mileage which will be covered is relatively small. Had this Government done what citizens of this Province think they should have done,—had they pointed out to the Government at Ottawa our true situation, as recognized by tourists, that what we have here is a great Provincial Park,—then those moneys made available at Ottawa might have been distributed more equitably throughout the Province. That would have been a sound National Park policy. (Applause).

"Amicable" Settlement

"The Premier has stated in connection with his expropriation procedure, that in all but four cases the property owners in the National Park area made 'amicable' settlement. What is an amicable settlement? Apparently the Premier means that the man who owned the farm didn't shoot him or somebody else. (Laughter).

"When you find a poor man with a mortgage on his place,—when you find a Government come in and take that land away from him and he is placed in a position where the usual legal recourse to the Courts is denied him, —what must he do except take the money which the Government gives him, feeling bitter for the remainder of his life at the treatment he has received? And that, in the Premier's interpretation, is AN AMICABLE SETTLEMENT!"

"I am not saying that the Government paid too little or too much for the land they took for the National Park. But no British subject wants the Government to come in and give him what they like for it. That is what these people resent." (Applause).

ROAD GRAVEL

Continuing, Mr. MacPhee said that a very large amount of material which this Government calls gravel was used during the past two years. "Have any of you had occasion to visit the gravel pits from which the gravel has been taken during the past year?" he
