Back to Garden In City Limits For Unemployed

(By The Canadian Press)

TORONTO, April 27 — Reviving the "back to the land" fervor of war days and taking a leaf from the Old Country book of garden "allotments" several Ontario cities are this year actively developing the "Community Garden" plan for the unemployed.

Last year saw the scheme in successful operation in the city of Hamilton. Families to the number of 5,157 were provided for on 234 acres of land producing vegetables having a retail value of more than $75,000. The average cost for seed, etc., on a lot 25 by 100 feet, was $1.72.

Following the initiation of the movement in a small way in Toronto last year, a meeting of representatives of commercial and industrial concerns under the auspices of the Board of Trade this year authorized a committee to carry out the scheme on a big scale. The committee visualizes many of Toronto's unemployed happily and healthfully busy in community gardens. Plowing has already been done on some of the lots.

Sponsored by Mayor W. J. Stewart and the City Council, the general committee, of which M. L. Davis is chairman, and the Executive under the leadership of Prof. H. Wasteneys, worked out the preliminaries of the project along these lines:

(a) To secure vacant land suitable for gardening purposes and have it prepared for garden use.

(b) To register, through the social agencies, all unemployed persons interested in cultivating vegetable gardens.

(c) To provide seeds, plants, fertilizer, tools and supervision to the would-be gardeners.

(d) To provide instruction in the proper making of gardens, times of sowing and cultivation.

Many large vacant properties within Toronto's boundaries or close to the city have been offered for the purpose of the gardens. It has been estimated at least 400 acres will be needed. The problem is to select the most suitable ground within the reach of watering facilities if possible. Plows and other farming equipment were placed at the disposal of the committee by various agricultural implement concerns.

Toronto's community garden effort will be on as large a scale as resources will permit. The committee hopes to provide for 5,000 families in the project with a "set up" fund of $10,000 now being raised for the purpose. Three thousand applications for plots have already been received.

No Law Against Boy Solo Trips

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, April 27 — The solo flight of a boy of 14 years of age, Ovid Victor Ottley of Alexandra Park, London, who went up 1,000 feet, after only five hours' instruction from a flying officer of the East Anglican Aero Club, has caused a sensation. Incidentally there was considerable criticism of the authorities for allowing the flight.

It was stated the question whether a boy of 14 or one even younger should be permitted to fly solo is at present in the discretion of the aerodrome officials and the parents of the boy.

There is no rule specifically to safeguard the lives and property of people living within three miles of an aerodrome from the inexperience of boy fliers.

Ovid was smiling when he climbed out of the cockpit of the little plane. "It was a wonderful experience, and I enjoyed it very much indeed," he said. "Although I was up for five minutes, it seemed to me only a few seconds. I was not in the least afraid, and I am anxiously looking forward to my next solo flight."

The youngest holder of a pilot's "A" certificate in the country is probably John Cresswell, aged 17, of Buckden, near Cambridge. He qualified at Brooklands.

HELEN KANE LOSES

NEW YORK, April 27—Helen Kane's effort to have a Supreme Court jury determine whether "Betty Boop," of the animated cartoons, is a caricature of her, failed in Supreme Court today.

Miss Kane, who claims to have originated the "boop-boop-a-doop" style of singing, is seeking $250,000 damages from Max Fleischer, artist, the Fleischer Studios, Inc., and the Paramount Publix Corporation on the ground that the "Betty Boop" movies are based on her song style and personality. The case is being heard by Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick.

Although Justice McGoldrick denied the application for a jury, he indicated he would empanel a jury to assess damages if he rules in favor of the plaintiff.

Entertainment At Lot 7

The parishioners of St. Mark's on Monday, April 2nd, when their Lot 7, were delightfully entertained. local dramatic club presented in the parish hall the Three Act Comedy Drama entitled "Turning The Trick." The large hall which was filled to capacity contained not only local critics but also a good representation of outsiders who were anxious to witness the production of this much advertised troupe. Needless to say the clientele were highly pleased with what they were handed. The following characters, who were not "All Stars" but "All meteors" were the product of local coaching and deserve unstinted praise.

TIMOTHY SHEA

Who is being snared into a marriage with the widow, Daphany Rooney, realizes rather late that his freedom is sweet. He pays his pal, Patrick Raney, for the "blue print" as a safe means of escape. Failure is the outcome but Tim is blissfully happy. Playing this difficult role Mr. Francis Connors established a splendid reputation, on for himself.

PATRICK ROONEY

Tim's pal whose terms are cash. Pat gives Tim all kinds of advice and reaps a bountiful reward. Pat has some business ability but suffers from a falacious philosophy. To Mr. Peter Bulger, who in this role was a typical "getter" we offer our congratulations for being hard boiled.

MR. SLADE, DETECTIVE

Is drawn into this scene through the blundering of Pat and the strategy of Tessie, who gave him a bad lead. Slade as usual comes out on the wrong side of things and acts like a white man. Playing the part of law and order Mr. Coleridge Rogers was a tower of justice.

DAPHANY ROONEY

Widow, who is grappling with a vengence for the happless Tim. After a great deal of changing of plans for the wedding and change of heart for Daphany, who is saturated with materialism, rather than with affect on, it all comes out well and the pair are sublimely happy. Interpreting this difficult role Miss Isabel Bulger made her first appearance behind the footlights with so much effect that we are safe in saying that she will be busy with comedy.

NORA SHEA

Daughter of the important bridegroom, who is in love with Jimmy, whom she finally marries after her timid parent has been dragged off by Daphany. To Miss Eva Bulger goes our heartest congratulations for the expert manner in which she navigated Jimmy into the maelstrom of matrimony.

KATHLEEN O'CONNOR

In love with Fred, who is a friend of Jimmy's after all kinds of romantic turmoil finally makes a man of Fred and then marries that man. Famous--- Miss Rogers.

FRED

a delightful character, humorous and lovable, who is a fast friend of Tim's and later the husband of Kathleen. Mr. Redmund Riley, who filled this part to perfection was a real success.

TESSIE CONNORS

Maid, a meddlesome lady, who seeks only reward. Katie Coyle in this part helped to provide a lot of comedy, which is a popular criterion of amateur drama.

JIMMY ROONEY

Who must see Tim and Daphney safely married before he can win Nova, was faultlessly interpreted by Mr. Wilfred Bulger Yoney, Yenny and Yeney, the children without lines. Vernon and Doris Riley and Miss Anna Griffin made their first appearance with pleasing effect.

The Following are the Specialties.
Orchestra, Jerry Dalton, L. Dalton, Harold Howard and Mrs. Lillian McKenna.
Recitation, Elmer O'Holloran.
Step Dancing, Fred Clements.
Song, Alton McIsaac.
Step Dancing, Fred Clements and Ben Clements.

The above list of specialties, which were of a very high order were enthusiastically received and heartily encored.

We wish to thank through the press all who in any way helped to make the entertainment a success.

FEEDING CHICKS

METHOD OF REARING AND FEEDING CHICKS ON THE DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARM, CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

When the chicks are twenty four hours old they are taken from the incubator and placed in the brooder at a temperature of around 95 degrees. Never allow the brooder to get beyond 100 degrees for any length of time. Each week lower the temprature a little so that in three weeks it rangs around 80 degrees to 85 degrees.

As soon as the chicks are placed in the brooder, slightly soured skim milk or buttermilk is given as drink and chick grit is given on boards. After the first day in the brooder the chicks are given their first feed which is an all mash ration. This is fed on clean boards for the first couple of days allowing enough boards to assure all chicks getting something to eat. After this the feed is given in low troughs until the chicks are big enough to feed out of the regular mash hopper. Until the chicks get outdoors they are fed five times daily, leaving the mash in front of them about fifteen minutes at each feeding, when out of doors the mash is left before the chicks all the time. The mash is composed as follows:

80 lb. table cornmeal
20 lb. white middlings
5 lb. pearl grits
5 lb. bone meal (fine)
1 lb. salt
1 to 2 per cent by weight of cod liver oil.

The above mash is used until the chicks are about eight weeks old, when oatmeal is substituted for some of the table cornmeal and ordinary cornmeal is used, a gradual change is made in the mash using crushed oats for oatmeal, so that when the birds are three months old either one of the following rations may be fed:

Bran 15 lb.
Middlings 25 lb.
Crushed oats 20 lb.
Crushed wheat 10 lb.
Crushed barley 25 lb.
Meat meal 3 lb.
Bone meal 2 lb.
Salt 1 per cent.

4 parts crushed oats
3 parts bran
2 parts shorts
1 part cornmeal, or 2 parts crushed barley

1 lb. fine salt to 100 lb. of mash

A light feed of hard grain may be fed in the evening. See that chickens have plenty of green feed. Separate cockerels early. Feed skim milk or buttermilk if available.

Seed Corn Maggot

The seed corn maggot occurs in all of the provinces of Canada and feeds on a wide range of seeds. Over wintering as a pupa in the soil near where maggots were feeding the previous autumn, a greenish-gray fly emerges about the middle of may and lays its eggs in the soil on some form of decaying matter. In a few days the eggs are hatched and the tiny maggots work their way into any suitable food nearby, as for instance, seeds in the process of germination, particularly such seeds as beans and corn. In Eastern Canada, potatoes are added to the list. The insect tunnels into the seed or else attacks the stems of the young plants above ground. Injury is always more serious in a cold backward spring or when seed has been planted in cold damp land. As pointed out in the Dominion Department of Agriculture bulletin on vegetable insects and their control, this insect can be combated best through preventive cultural methods, for example, by shallow planting in clean soil in warm weather.

MAKE UP UNNECESSARY

NEW YORK, April 27— If a new light demonstrated at the American Museum of Natural History today is successful, a woman will no longer have to bother about her make-up. All she need to do will be to turn a button and the room will be flooded with a glow that will make her face seem perfectly rouged.

She can be a brunette if she wants to, or she can be a blonde, or she can have red hair—all by turning on different lights.

This new system of lighting was demonstrated at the museum, under the auspices of the American Institute, by Dr. Samuel G. Hibben, director of applied lighting of the Westinghouse Lamp Company. "The phenomenon," he said, "is one of electric bombardment of the molecules of certain gases or of metalic vapor directly changing molecular energy into radiant energy."

SHOE CODE PLANNED

LONDON, Ont., April 27—Rowland Hill, Jr., president of the National Shoe Retailers Association, said today that steps had already been taken by the organization to adopt a code of trading rules which will constitute one of the first definite results of the lead given by the probe into mass buying and price spreads instituted at Ottawa by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Hill said the executive of the National association has held meetings on the subject and that a plan would soon be presented to the Government for consideration.

The action by the Shoe Retailers Association supported a prediction made in London last night by George Hougham of Ottawa, member of the National Fair Trade Council, who stated business men in all lines would be called upon to draw up a set of rules which will aid them in fighting any unethical and unfair practices such as those charged in evidence before the Stevens committee.

Canadian Red Clover

Owing to the great popularity of red clover, both at home and abroad, and the usual insufficiency of Canadian production to meet domestic requirements, increased production of this seed is recommended by The Agricultural Situation bulletin. As a rule, production is much less than domestic requirements due to the uncertainty of the crop in setting seed, but th fact that red clover seed is now being grown more generally has changd to some extent the domestic marketing. British Columbia now produces almost sufficient for provincial requirements, and production has become more general in Quebec and Eastern Canada, so that less seed than formerly is required from other sources in these parts of Canada. The average price received by growers for red clover seed in the past five years has been about 15 cents per pound, basis No. 1 grade. During that time, annual production is estimated at 3,500,000 pounds; consumption 3,800,000 pounds; imports 800,000 pounds and exports 500,000 pounds.
