Mr. Morrison is not at all surprised with our island train service, and wonders how we can expect any tourists, at least east of Charlottetown. He reached the city, he says, on the late train, 11 o'clock, went to the Queen Hotel, and next morning, with his wife took the 9 o'clock freight to Souris, to four, some seven hours, but he would not be able to get to Souris until about ten o'clock at night, about as long a time getting from Charlottetown to Souris as from Boston or Providence to Charlottetown.

—*The shot was flattened out where it struck the bone. The other wounds were treated with antiseptics. Hot applications on the other wound brought out one other shot. The rest of the shot was still there. By the 28th the finger was badly infected and was amputated at the second joint. Gormley was discharged on April 10th. His hospital chart showed fever until the finger was amputated. The hip wound closed up fairly well.

—Cross examined, witness said there was some difficulty in keeping the patient in the hospital, as he wanted to go home before his condition was fit.

—James Gormley, the next witness described his movements on the night of March 12th up to the time he went to McKenna's premises with McDougall. He took a full keg of rum out of a sleigh in the yard, saw Doyle and McKeena there, the witness said he had in his hands what he thought to be a gun, and a moment later he heard a report and saw the flame which he would say came from this gun. Saw his brother who told him he had been shot.

—Cross examined, witness was asked to lift an open ten gallon keg of water, but declined on the grounds that if he did so his clothes would get wet. His Lordship said that the conditions were not the same, that it would be much more difficult to lift an open cask than one with a head on. He never heard of a keg of rum found next day on Connaught Square. Nobody stopped him from taking the keg of rum. Doyle did not try to stop him. He didn't sing to McKenna that the rum was being taken. As far as he could tell Doyle was able to see him.

—Court adjourned at 5 o'clock until half past ten on Monday.

SERIOUS LOSS

—Barriault of Maximville had the misfortune to lose his home and all the contents by fire yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. Mr. Barriault and family were away from home at the time having gone to the afternoon and two men who lived with them were also absent attending their boats. The fire was noticed by these men from where they were working but when they reached the house it was a mass of flames inside. Many neighbors and other gathered but there was no way to fight it. The home with all its contents was a complete loss, even to the clothing and the little money they had saved.

—PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATION ORGANIZED—On the evening of Saturday, June 19th a congregational meeting in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada at West Point was held in the Glenwood Hall. Rev. R. H. Stavert, Clerk of Presbytery presided. After Mr. Stavert had given an address on the standing of the Presbyterian Church in Canada at the present time, a business meeting was held among other things elected a Board of Managers was elected. The Board consisted of the following members: Messrs Albert McLean, Herbert McWilliams, Percy McPherson, J. J. England, John B. McPherson, John M. McWilliams and David McWilliams. Mr. Albert McLean was chosen as chairman of the Board and Mr. Percy McPherson, Sec'y Treasurer. On Sunday morning Mr. Stavert conducted service in the Glenwood Hall. A large congregation was present. At the close of the service a resolution was unanimously passed by the Presbyterians present re-affirming their loyalty to the doctrines and standards of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and asking the Presbytery to establish regular meetings in their midst. Rev. W. G. Hollingsworth, of Alberton, was conducting service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was further agreed to issue a call for an election of two Elders. The election is to take place on July 18th. The real trust of West Point area could not be decided as yet as they were many in the other sections of the pastoral charge and the outlook for the future is bright with hope. In the afternoon Mr. Stavert conducted the services in the Presbyterian Church at Tyne Valley. Here the work is going well. The people were quite appreciative in that the Rev. Mr. Wood who had been supplying for them for some weeks had accepted another appointment in Nova Scotia. Mr. Stavert assured them man loyal to the old work would be on hand to minister to their needs. In the evening Mr. Stavert conducted service in North Rustico. Here he found an enthusiastic group of loyal Presbyterians ready to take up the work of their grand old church. Thus the face of the odds the outlook for the future success of the work of the old Presbyterian Church in Prince Edward Island is getting brighter every day.

Shooting Case Being Heard at Supreme Court

At the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon hearing has begun before Mr. Justice Hazard in the case of the King vs. A. Lincoln Doyle, in which the prisoner is charged with shooting, occasioning grievous bodily harm. The Attorney General appeared for the Crown and J. J. Johnson, K. C. for the prisoner.

The first witness called was William Gormley, who stated in his evidence he had been shot on the night of March 12th, while McKenna was on Sydney Street.

Cross examined the witness said he was twenty years of age. This was the first time he had been sent up to Supreme Court for trial. Describing the circumstances surrounding the shooting he said when he saw Doyle and McKenna in the yard he was dressed in a dark overcoat, and the latter in a fur coat and felt hat. He wouldn't say that when Doyle fired the gun it was intended for him because his back was taken him and Doyle might have mistaken him for McKenna. He didn't state to Officer Jos. Trainor that he didn't know who shot him. He didn't know in what direction he was facing when he was hit, but he was turning to speak to some man standing on the street.

Questioned by the Attorney General as to why he had not gone home instead of going to his aunt's witness said his mother was just getting over a long illness and he did not want to worry her.

The next witness, Dr. Ledwell, said the last witness had come to his office on the night of the 12th suffering from gunshot wounds. He sent him to the hospital, where he came under the treatment of Dr. McMillan. Cross examined, the witness said he did not remember performing any surgical operation, though he heard have taken out a shot that was just embedded under the skin. He did not think that a gun of the sort produced in court would make a wound like that which had been inflicted on William Gormley.

Inferred from the next witness, said he was the doctor of the month at the City Hospital during March last, and that he attended William Gormley, as a patient, for gunshot wounds. There were four or five punctured openings on the front part of the hip. The wounds were X-rayed, both on the hand and on the hip. That in the hip showed seven shot. One shot in the hand caused an infection joint after it had been removed.

The shot was flattened out where it struck the bone. The other wounds were treated with antiseptics. Hot applications on the other wound brought out one other shot. The rest of the shot was still there. By the 28th the finger was badly infected and was amputated at the second joint. Gormley was discharged on April 10th. His hospital chart showed fever until the finger was amputated. The hip wound closed up fairly well.

Cross examined, witness said there was some difficulty in keeping the patient in the hospital, as he wanted to go home before his condition was fit.

James Gormley, the next witness described his movements on the night of March 12th up to the time he went to McKenna's premises with McDougall. He took a full keg of rum out of a sleigh in the yard, saw Doyle and McKeena there, the witness said he had in his hands what he thought to be a gun, and a moment later he heard a report and saw the flame which he would say came from this gun. He never heard of a keg of rum found next day on Connaught Square. Nobody stopped him from taking the keg of rum. Doyle did not try to stop him.
