Summerside Commercial Hockey

The Bankers-Lawyers and the Barbers staged a fast Commercial League hockey tilt when they engaged in battle at the Crystal rink Tuesday night. The hair-trimmers were trimmed by the bank boys who were working short handed, to the tune of 5-2. For Downings work in the Bankers' cage was outstanding and although he had a lot of close shaves turned back all but the first two of a lot of vigorous and promising rushes on the part of the barbers.

The Barbers opened a strong attack in the first stanza and Steele defence in a solo effort. His strong shot was turned back by Dewar but Sullivan slammed it in the net before the goalie could clear.

Delaney and Carver in a smart bit of combination rang up the fourth Banker tally with Carver slugging the wafers home.

In the final session Sullivan and Somers made the light twinkle for the fifth Banker score, and although the Barbers staged a five man attack they were unable to get by Downings who kept the cage filled with everything except rubber.

Barbers: Goal, Dewar; Defence, Davison, Steele, Peters; Forwards, Noonan, MacFarlane, Albar Gallant, Blaquiere, Hickey, Ramsay.

Bankers-Lawyers: Goal, Downings; Defence, Keyes, Sullivan; Forwards, Carver, Somers, Delaney.

Referee: R. Bowness.

BENNETT POLICY

Increasingly prosperous, some scheme of unemployment insurance had been instituted the depression would have found the country with necessary funds to meet the government's hope and confidence, however, was that conditions would so improve that every man who wanted a job would get one.

Nothing Conjectural
There was nothing conjectural about the bill. Its details had been worked out with greatest care by actuaries. The basis had been the 1931 census.

Regarding old age pensions the Prime Minister expressed the government's desire to stimulate and encourage people to purchase national savings certificates. He did not believe the present qualifying age for pensions could be reduced.

He did not agree with labor leaders regarding proposals for nationalization of the Bank of Canada.

"To permit any political party to be in a position to manipulate at will the controlling factor in our financial fabric is something I do not care for," he said. Canada was particularly sensitive to pressure of politics, he added.

Standard Grades And Sizes Of Lumber Urged

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce, today recommended to members of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association voluntary standardization of sizes and grades of lumber. He warned that if the industry cannot regulate the matter itself, it will be done by the government as a consequence. "It may be found necessary for the government to take the necessary steps to improve the situation."

Mr. Hanson, speaking before the annual meeting of the Association, said adoption of definite standards and "set" of a product strictly in accordance with these standards greatly facilitates marketing and promotes among consumers a feeling of confidence in the industry.

"It is pleasing to learn that Mrs. T. M. Linkletter is resting easier and the bone in her ankle set. Mrs. Linkletter had the misfortune to fall when leaving Epworth Hall on Sunday and is at present in the Prince County Hospital."

Mr. Clarence Cameron, manager of the Provincial Bank, Summerside, has returned this week on a business trip to St. John, N. B.

Violence Flares In N.S. Coalfields

Striking U. M. W. Workers Drive Rival Organization Leaders Out of Springhill.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) SPRINGHILL, N. S., Feb. 6.—Rivalry in the coalfields flared into violence again today when striking United Mine Workers ran five amalgamated Mine Workers out of town, warned them to "stay out—or else," and wrecked their meeting hall.

Three A. M. W. leaders were badly beaten during the brief outbreak of disorders which occurred while government and union officers sat in conference looking toward an end of the two-weeks old tie-up of Dominion Coal Company mines.

With three other A. M. W. men in jail tonight, the strikers had quieted to await the outcome of negotiations for a settlement, and Hon. Michael Dwyer, Minister of Mines, was hopeful.

Remains Over
After conferring with U. M. W. officers the Minister decided to meet the A. M. W. leaders with a proposal for a truce, but no A. M. W. men were to be found and he decided to remain over until tomorrow.

While complete details of the proposal have not been disclosed, it was learned that President D. W. Morrissey of the U. M. W. had announced the older union would take back the rank and file of the A. M. W. men and consider applications from the 12 rival organizers whose dismissal from the mines had been demanded by the strikers.

Picket Roads

U. M. W. pickets watching all roads leading into Springhill tonight made it clear that negotiations would be conducted with A. M. W. members other than the five driven out of town today. One was Robert Stewart of Grace Bay, Secretary-treasurer of the A. M. W. district union, who had come here to join in the conference.

In contrast to the organizers, the A. M. W. men were bundled into a truck and driven to Springhill Junction, 4 1/2 miles away, with orders to catch the next train.

Later the crowd of 150 U. M. W. men found James Columbine, another rival organizer, bringing from Springhill to the junction with his suitcase. He was set upon and, without a word, driven to a home for medical assistance.

MEISNER IS

miles from Toronto before his release early on the morning of Aug. 17.

The armed robbery charge arose from theft of $99 from Labatt's person when he was taken captive. J. C. M. German, K. C., special crown prosecutor, then addressed Mr. Justice McParland.

Urges Extreme Penalty
"I will move for sentence of the court, Your Lordship," he began. "It would be a great deterrent to any person who intended to perpetrate such a crime in Canada. As this is the first case of its kind I submit the extreme penalty should be given."

"Stand up, Meisner," ordered the court.

Meisner stood erect and looked straight at the presiding justice.

"The jury has found you guilty of three counts, and I think rightly so. But I want this sentence of 18 years imprisonment on each of the three counts to run concurrently to be a deterrent to crimes of this sort."

Meisner did not speak. He turned in the prisoner's dock and went with his guards down the steps to the cells below.

Case Against Islanders Is Deferred

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Residents of Prince Edward Island numbered among the 52 persons charged with conspiring to defraud the Dominion government of $65,000,000 by the smuggling of liquor will not be required to appear for another 10 or 12 days. J. J. Penverne, K. C., crown prosecutor, said in court there today.

Mr. Penverne made the announcement as the preliminary inquiry into charges facing nine persons convened.

The Maritimers had been scheduled to appear for hearing Monday but Mr. Penverne declared the Crown wished to avoid having the accused around needlessly as the case against them would not be proceeded with for several more days.

He said they would be given due notice when to appear.

Labatt Case Highlights

AUG. 14, 1934—John S. Labatt kidnapped by three men while motoring from his summer home on Lake Huron to business in London, Ont.

AUG. 17—After many mysterious telephone calls to Hugh Labatt, brother of John, at Toronto hotel, the victim is freed on the outskirts of the city, apparently without payment of any of the $150,000 ransom demanded.

SEPT. 6—Announced officially Labatt was chained to a bedpost in a Muskoka summer cottage during his three days imprisonment.

SEPT. 20—David Meisner of Cincinnati, one of the men suspected in the case, surrenders to Detroit police declaring he is innocent and can establish an alibi.

JAN. 30, 1935—Trial of Meisner starts in London after Grand Jury brings in a true bill on charges of kidnaping, imprisonment and armed robbery. FEB. 6—Meisner found guilty on three charges and sentenced to 15 years imprisonment without lashes.

Amendment To Income Tax Act Withdrawn

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Fear of retaliation by the United States was the reason given in the House of Commons today by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes for turning down a proposed amendment to the Income Tax Act. In view of the pending trade negotiations, this would be a most inopportune time to invite retaliatory laws.

A. E. Munn, (Lib., Vancouver North) proposed an amendment to the income tax under which all foreigners resident in Canada five years or more, would be excluded from monetary exemptions. The purpose was to promote naturalization and citizenship.

As the resolution was drafted the Finance Minister said, it would apply primarily to Americans, now residing in Canada and would invite retaliation by Washington against Canadians residing in the United States. He pointed out there were more Canadians in the United States than Americans in Canada.

A. J. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) supported the proposal and said he would like to see why the United States should take umbrage as citizens of all other countries would be affected in common with Americans.

In view of Mr. Rhodes' statement the government was not prepared to take action, Mr. Neill withdrew the resolution. He doubted how likely it was that Americans would be chiefly affected and denied he wanted to put additional taxes on foreigners with small incomes. The aim was to reach those foreigners who were receiving large incomes.

Proposal To Cut Interest On B.C. Bonds

(C.P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire) VANCOUVER, Feb. 6.—The city of Vancouver's proposal to cut interest on its bonds from four to two per cent was raised in the House of Commons this afternoon when J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominion Affairs, assured a questioner that while he had of course no power to interfere with the Dominion's action on being informed of the country communicated with the Canadian government on the matter.

Nicholas Gratton Doyle, Conservative, asked what the decision of the Canadian authorities would be following the action by the city, which is holding a meeting of bondholders Feb. 11 to consider the reduction. Mr. Thom's said he was informed that if Vancouver made arrangements for the reduction, the British Columbia government would be prepared to legislate an arrangement, but only on condition the bondholders approved.

"FALL CLAUSE" PROTESTED

Canada Claims Violation of Lumber Treaty.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—The "fall clause" in contracts between Timber Distributors, Ltd. of England and the Russian government selling agency is now the subject of representations by Canada to the United Kingdom Government. Last year Canada protested that this clause was a violation of article 21 of the Anglo-Canadian treaty, and the British Board of Trade ruled in favor of Canada. It is understood that protests now being made are along similar lines to those a year ago.

Timber Distributors, Ltd., is an association of merchants in England which purchases timber from Russia on a contract basis. The contract as drawn up last year the "fall clause" was included. This clause gives the purchaser the benefit of any cut in price to meet reductions by timber exporters any other country in effect the Russians agree to cut their prices to a certain extent if other countries such as Canada and Norway and Sweden are lower.

This clause, which the British Board of Trade ruled against last year, has been included again in the contracts for this year. For that reason Canada has again protested. Negotiations are being conducted through the office of the High Commissioner for Canada in London.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 6.—General Jan Christian Smuts' condition was greatly improved today and his temperature normal. The 65-year-old statesman was taken ill several days ago.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Leonard Tilley, wife of the New Brunswick Premier, has left Ottawa for Toronto where she will visit her sister, Mrs. E. C. Howell. Mrs. Tilley was invited yesterday to luncheon at Government House.

AMENDMENTS TO THREE ACTS APPROVED

Changes to Pension, Interpretation, and Representation Acts Sanctioned.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Final reading was given in the Senate today to measures amending the pension, interpretation and representation acts. The amendments incorporated in the bills will become law on receiving Royal assent, probably next week.

A fourth measure amending the Precious Metals Marking Act, was given first reading. It will be advanced next Tuesday, the day the Senate will reconvene after today's adjournment.

Services Necessary
Services of two additional pension commissioners, both doctors, were necessary to clear up pending pension applications. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government leader, told the chamber. The Pension Act amendment would authorize the governor-in-council to make these two appointments for terms less than the custom of seven years.

Was this increased work a consequence of changes in the Pension Act approved by Parliament within the last two years? asked Hon. H. S. Beland, a former Liberal Minister of Pensions.

"Yes," replied Senator Meighen. "Would the amendment affect the present pension commissioners? asked Hon. A. D. McRae (Cons., Vancouver). Senator Meighen answered he did not believe so.

INTERPRETATION ACT

The bill amending the Interpretation Act to insert the words "Remembrance Day" in place of "Armistice Day" in the list of legal holidays in Canada brought an observation from Senator J. P. B. Casgrain (Lib., Montreal) that he thought Remembrance Day should be observed on Nov. 1 with Thanksgiving Day.

"Will it affect the vote?" asked Senator Geo. P. Graham when the bill to define more clearly the boundaries of the constituencies of East Hamilton and West Hamilton was being put.

"The members in the other house exhibited no concern," Senator Meighen answered. Amendments to the Precious Metals Marking Act involve technical redrafting of sections to ensure protection of the public in connection with markings on articles made of precious and other metals.

Runic Letters Confirms Norse Discovery

(Special to the Guardian) MONCTON, N. B., Feb. 6.—Interest continues to grow in the Yarmouth stone in the public library at Yarmouth, N. S., which bears on it a runic inscription according to the latest translation, confirms the Norse discovery of North America. According to this translation it would appear the inscription was made by none other than Leif, son of Erik the Red, about the year 1007 A.D.

The stone was discovered at the head of Yarmouth Harbor in 1812. The Lief Erikson Memorial Association of America are planning a visit to see the stone next July, according to information reaching R. J. S. Weatherston, general freight and passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways here and from Yarmouth will proceed along the south shore of Nova Scotia over Canadian National lines to Halifax and from there to St. John's, Nfld., via North Sydney. The Association is made up of Scandinavians from the state of Wisconsin and on their way to Yarmouth will stop in Boston to form a branch of the Association there. Plans are being discussed to extend their trip from Newfoundland to Greenland.

reached their objective but were quickly dispersed there.

Meanwhile, the patriotic youth organization marched 3,000 strong under police escort after the memorial meeting to the Arch of Triumph. There they dipped their flags in salute to the unknown soldier and dispersed.

Shortly after midnight the Place de la Concorde was patetically deserted.

Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin was hooded and hissed, the Place de la Concorde, scene of the fatal riots, was splashed with red paint and milling crowds clashed with police in minor scuffles.

But the wave of blind anger inspired by the great Stavisky scandal and the political corruption it had bred was gone, and the night was left to the extremists, war veterans and relatives of the victims of "Feb. 6" maintained the "armed truce" they had pledged the government to observe.

Though leaders of the contending factions summoned their "legal troops" to be ready to meet each other's "challenge," both the right and the left disclaimed any invitation of breaking the peace.

Minor Clashes

Minor clashes marked the solemn ceremonies at which Paris honored those who spilled their blood in the Place de la Concorde last year. The scuffles were quickly over.

Flandin, so determined to take no chances that he canceled all other engagements and sent all his family on the night train, had heavy forces of police, estimated at 14,000, at the danger spots. In the background was the powerful force of 20,000 mobile guards, in full equipment, with rifles and pistols, who also ready to meet the soldiers got out of hand.

The guards and the soldiers barely came into action, however, police for the most part handling what disorders developed and keeping the crowds moving throughout the day.

There was scuffling before the great cathedral of Notre Dame, where memorial services for the victims were held, as police sought to break up groups shouting defiance with Flandin. A more serious disturbance occurred at the Place St. Michel, where students crying "France for the French" clashed with police, but there was no organized resistance.

Centre of Demonstration

The Mobile Guard, violently slammed by parts of the crowd for "brutality" during the 1934 riots, was the centre of a demonstration of 300 persons who gathered at police headquarters and showed the police headquarters with garbage and overturned cars until policemen drove them off.

An outbreak in the Latin quarter occurred at the Faculty of Medicine, but this had nothing to do with the Stavisky riot anniversary. It resulted from current protests by French students against the priviledges accorded to foreign students. Police arrested a number of students who picketed the faculty and barred access to it. Fifty students, banding together, took refuge in one of the University of Paris buildings but soon were ousted.

One of the most filled men in the great palace in the Kremlin. On the preceding days are: Kallinin, Y. M. Molotov, and I. V. Stalin. Note the huge Lenin statue in background. This is one of the few pictures showing the "inner sanctum" which controls the soviet. Chief topic under discussion is possibility of war with Japan.

the country is very great. A younger leader of a more excitable type whose influence in the country is second only to that of Gandhi, is Jawaharlal Nehru. This man advocates a certain type of Socialism; and whereas Gandhi is of a deeply religious nature, the younger leader is not so concerned with spiritual matters.

Rev. Mr. Palmer has been stationed five years at Kangra. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Palmer, Charlottetown. Associated with him at the Kangra mission station is Miss Audrey DeHollis, sister of the Hon. Mr. DeHollis, former member of the Executive Council of the Province of Ontario, who was in Kangra for a number of years, returned to Canada about ten years ago.

Mr. Palmer was three weeks making the voyage from Bombay to New York via Naples, on a steamer which is subsidized by the Italian Government.

In Foothills of Mountains

Kangra, a valley in the foothills of the Himalaya Mountains in the north western part of India, has a moderate climate due to the altitude. During the winter season, when the northern monsoon blows, the thermometer occasionally drops to the freezing point, but it is a rare thing for snow to fall. There is snow on the mountain only a short distance away, however. In the summer the southern monsoon blowing from the warm ocean, brings a very heavy rain during the months of July and August.

The district has rail connection with the rest of India since an important hydro electric scheme was inaugurated a few years ago. A great deal of the transportation in that section of the country is by motor bus, however. The majority of the people are Hindus, with a sprinkling of Mohammedans. The language of the educated class is for the most part "Urdu," which is semitic in character, resembling Hebrew in many respects.

The Christian religion makes but slow progress against the native beliefs. The Kangra mission was established a few years ago, and the number of Christians today numbers only about 500. With the exception of a sect of reformed Hinduism, which has some of the same social principles as the Christian religion, the native sects are not at all antagonistic to the Christians.

PROTEST RELIEF SYSTEM

(C. P. Cable) (By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Feb. 6.—The cabinet met today to consider modifying the provisions for unemployment relief under the Unemployment Assistance Board while protests against the system were voiced through the country.

The government took note of the growing unpopularity of the "needs test" regulations framed by the board and Oliver Stanley, Minister of Labor, ordered a "redraft" on the regulations. It was stated that all cuts would be restored.

The protest against the form at Sheffield today. Nine policemen were injured and between 20 and 30 persons arrested. The crowd tried unsuccessfully to send representatives to interview the city council. Stones were thrown and mounted and foot police had to charge into the crowd before order was restored.
