Right Depth of Planting Important for Fall Bulbs

Keep This Bulb Planting Depth Chart. It Will Be Helpful To You

Fall bulbs should never be planted in poorly drained locations. If your garden is low, lacking a place where water never stands, but always quickly runs or drains away, then such a place must be created by elevating a bed six inches or more above the surface.

Remember that newly turned soil settles; so heap it above the bulbs, an inch or two to avoid leaving a depression when it packs down. The depth of planting given in the table may be considered minimums; deeper planting may often be advisable. One of the chief hazards for all bulbs is "frost heaving," due to alternate freezing and thawing of the soil, which may lift shallow rooted plants out of the soil. Bulbs planted so late they cannot make roots in the fall are likely to suffer from it; and large bulbs not set deep enough will often be injured. A mulch placed over the bulbs after the ground has frozen will keep the frost in, and reduce frost heaving.

When it is intended to allow tulips to remain where you plant them several years rather than dig them up after they have blossomed and their leaves have turned yellow each summer, they should be planted two or three inches deeper than the normal depth.

Deep planting may cause flowering to be somewhat later, so all bulbs which it is desired shall blossom at the same time should be planted the same depth.

The lilies which need deep planting (7 to 10 inches) are those that make roots on their stems above the bulb. The madonna lily, which does not do this, needs shallow planting, 3 to 4 inches down.

WELL, WE CAN DREAM, CAN'T WE? BEAUTIFUL PHRASES FOR POST-WAR USE

Every so often some speech authority comes out with the five or ten most beautiful sounding words in the English language.

It isn't going to take any speech authority to decide what the most beautiful phrases of the postwar world are going to be. We'll all agree on those. How about:

"Fill her up."

"Just charge and send it please."

"Is the roast beef rare, waiter."

"Send me a case, please."

"Remember when that used to be rationed?"

"Send me a cab please."

"We're driving to the mountains for the week-end."

"Apartments for rent."

"Experienced maid wants work—"

"I told my bucther off this morning."

"Walter, will you please bring me more butter, please."

"The customer is always right."

"I haven't canned since the war."

"January White Sale —sheets pillow cases, towels drastically reduced."

"It isn't worth repairing."

"Please. Thank you. I'm sorry," coming from those who serve the public.

"I really shouldn't have a second piece of that chocolate whipped cream cake. But it's simply delicious."

Beautiful phrases—aren't they?

FIRST IN CANADA: This is one side of the Canadian Pacific's "railway within a railway", introduced for the first time in Canadian train service at Windsor Station, Montreal, to save time for both those who make sleeping and parlor car reservations and those who take them. Mounted on ball-bearing wheels and an elevated track this mobile filing cabinet makes accessible to seated operators all diagrams of sleeping and parlor cars in regular and extra line service which they are asked for over direct telephone lines from all ticket clerks in Montreal. Lined up by W. C. Wainwright, reservations supervisor, after intensive study of arrangements in effect in principal American cities, it was built at the C.P.R.'s Angus Shops in Montreal.

It's a Free Country

After all, this is a democracy, isn't it? We have had gold rushes, and rushes to new territory to stake out homesteading claims.

Surely we can face a rush for nylons.

So why not give women an equal chance at these precious stockings. And let the women with the sharpest pair of elbows win. Why not make it a purely sporting proposition? And maybe even sell bleacher seats for masculine spectators? It would be better than a wrestling match —no doubt about it.
