Father and Son

BOTH CURED OF

KIDNEY TROUBLE

BY

Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Benjamin Brooks, a well-known farmer of West Cape, P.E.I., tells of how his son was cured of Kidney Disease, and how he was cured of Backache.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

There is not a kidney trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Doan's Kidney Pills will not relieve or cure. The price is 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 and may be procured at all dealers or from

KEEP THE SHADES UP

A Famous Doctor's Views of the Importance of Sunlight.

The habit of keeping the window shades down which is so common a practice even when there is no direct sun glare on the window is a direct setting at naught of physiological principles which teach us the importance to health of both body and mind of an abundance of light. Sir James Crichton-Browne in an address on light and sanitation delivered at the jubilee conference of the Manchester and Salford Sanitary association said:

"I have spoken of light as purifying our atmospheric environment and as freeing us from certain superficial parasitic distempers, and I wish now to remind you that it has still more deep and intimate human relations of a sanitary nature, for light is a necessary condition of mental and bodily well being. Its tonic psychical effects are everywhere recognized. All properly organized men and women love the light, and it is not merely to children that darkness brings with it a sense of powerlessness, danger and alarm.

"Essential for all the purposes of life, for the supply of oxygen on which existence depends, light is a universal stimulus. Falling on the eye, it sets up in the brain functional activities associated with intellectual and emotional states, and attempts have been made to discriminate the psychical effects of its different elements and to employ colored light in the treatment of mental disorders. These attempts cannot be said to have been hitherto very successful, but still it is curious to note that many independent observers—indeed, I believe, all observers who have written on the subject—have arrived at the same conclusion, that the blue rays have a depressing and the red rays an exciting effect on the brain.

"But whatever the therapeutic values of the different rays of light may be, white light, heaven's own mixture, is the normal psychical atmosphere, and variations in its intensity have probably widely diffused constitutional effects."—New York Medical Journal.

Time Well Invested.

Mr. Isaac B. Price of Greenport, who recently celebrated his one hundred and first birthday, attributes his long life to the fact that he always takes at least a full hour to each meal and thoroughly masticates his food. If Mr. Price has pursued this plan for eighty years, he has spent 44,600 hours or five years more on his meals than he would have spent if he had shortened them to half an hour apiece. If by this investment of time he has added thirty-one years to his life he is at least twenty-six years ahead.

Very likely there is something in the Greenport patriarch's theory. Physicians say that cereals are not digested by the gastric juice, but by the saliva. Without thorough mastication, therefore, they are not assimilated and do more harm than good. A simple meal lasting an hour would probably pay several hundred per cent on the investment of time in the shape of increased longevity.

Sketch of Sir George Bonham.

Sir George Bonham, British Minister at Belgrade, who has been temporarily withdrawn from the Servian Court to mark the British disapprobation of the assassination of King Alexander and his consort, was appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary in the spring of 1900. Born in 1847, Sir George was educated at Eton and Oxford, where he graduated in law and history (honors) in 1868. He was nominated as an attache to St. Petersburg in the following year, and was transferred successively to Vienna, Rome, Lisbon, Madrid and Paris. In 1890 he became Charge d'Affaires at The Hague, and was promoted to be Secretary of Embassy at Madrid in 1893. He occupied a similar position at Rome from 1897 till his appointment to Belgrade. Sir George succeeded when only sixteen years of age to the baronetcy which had been conferred on his father for long and useful work in the public service, culminating in the Governorship of Hong Kong at a period when the relations between England and China were far from satisfactory. Sir George married a daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Andrew Buchanan, first Baronet. He owns a good deal of property round his seat at Knowle Park, near Guildford.

Mythical Canals of Mars.

At the last meeting of the Astronomical Society striking confirmation was obtained of the view that the "canals" in Mars are due for the most part to an optical delusion on the part of the observer. Astronomers are coming more and more to this view, its latest adherent being Professor Simon Newcomb. A drawing of the planet showing no canals was placed before classes of boys at Greenwich Hospital School, and they were required to make copies of it. Those placed nearest it drew no canals, but those further away delineated "canals" closely resembling those observed by Schiaparelli and others. It is probable that the eye becomes hypersensitive by long gazing at details which are imperfectly seen, being at the limit of visibility, and that the retinal blood vessels then convey impressions of "canals," to the vision-centre in the brain. The boys were quite unbiased, being unacquainted with any drawings of Mars. Probably Mars is not inhabited, and never will be, but it is very likely has been. It is now in the state which the earth will reach in three or four million years.
