FINAL CHAPTER OF "THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS"

TORCHY COMEDY

Are Delighted With New Home

A Guardian representative recently had the privilege of inspecting the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McQuaid, Greenfield Avenue, constructed this fall by Messrs. MacDougall and McAulay. The exterior of the building presents a dignified appearance, while the interior embodies the latest and most approved structural features, including celotex insulation at all vital points, ten-test laths, satin-finished oak flooring, leaded glass windows, and a kitchen equipped with every modern convenience.

From the wide hallway a Colonial stairway leads to the upper floor which contains three roomy bedrooms, a den with fireplace, and bathroom finished in beautiful white enamel. The bedrooms each contain two windows, giving an abundance of light.

Downstairs, in addition to the spacious living room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, porch and front vestibule there is a commodious sun-room with southern exposure and with windows all around. A handsome fireplace in the living room gives an added touch of comfort and coziness. From the dining room there is direct access to the kitchen, which has specially built in cupboards, ironing board and other fixtures calculated to make light the tasks of the housewife.

The basement which is exceptionally large and convenient, extends under the whole area of the building and is lighted by ten windows. A Mogul No. 4 furnace has been installed, providing economic heating facilities.

A special run of Brantford shingles was used in roofing the building.

Practically everything used by the contractors was purchased locally, the building materials being chiefly obtained from the firm of L. M. Poole and Company.

The house was constructed by Messrs. MacDougall and McAulay at a cost twenty per cent less than the prevailing price last year. While satisfied that they have given excellent value, they hope next year, if present prices prevail, to be able to build at even less cost.

The greatest satisfaction with the high quality of workmanship in their new home was expressed by Mr. and Mrs. McQuaid to the Guardian reporter. They also expressed pleasure at the expedition with which the work was carried out, which enabled them to move in before Christmas.

Heating arrangements in the building were installed by Stanley, Shaw and Peardon; electric wiring by the Brown Electric Company; painting by J. Alfred Doyle.

APPRECIATION

On December 23rd, on board the "S. S. Charltttetown" plying between Borden and Tormentine, the staff of the Steward's Department assembled together and presented their Chief with a suitable gift and the following address as a token of their esteem for him:

Dear Steward:—As the Christmas season is again with us and we your staff looking back o'er the past year, we realize that we have received many acts of kindness and favors through you as Chief Steward. We therefore wish to show our appreciation in this small way, so that you will understand we are not ungrateful for past favors. We kindly ask you to accept this gift as a token of our esteem and respect for you. Also our best wishes for many happy returns of a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

(Sgd.)—From the boys of the Department.

We also ask of you to deliver to your estimable partner, Mrs. Scott, this token and extend to her our best wishes and compliments of the Season.

(Sgd.)—The Steward's Department.

"Little Orphan Annie" A Treat For Young And Old

"Little Orphan Annie," now at the Prince Edward Theatre, with Mitzi and May Robson, are the best reasons for visiting that house of entertainment offered in some weeks. It offers comedy, pathos, drama, tragedy, farce—everything a picture can offer.

And through it all marches young Mitzi in the title part, a Little Orphan Annie with talent amounting to actual genius. Oddly enough here is a little girl possessed of acting knowledge denied many a more prominent, more glamorous, more celebrated star of the screen sisterhood. There are moments in "Little Orphan Annie" when Mitzi, not by any mechanics of drama, but through sheer feeling of her character alone, will bring tears to your eyes and a tightness to your throat as can few other actresses. Mitzi may be young but she's not inexperienced. And she knows her theatre.

The fine dramatic work of May Robson in the powerful character of the foster mother adds an exclusive distinction to the performance.

The story is grand. It is human. The plot, as is true of most worth while pictures, is simple and direct. Annie, left along when Daddy Warbucks, her quaint and kindly foster father, is called away, "adopts" Mickey, another little orphant Mickey proves a problem. Annie heroically tends him for awhile. But presently she is forced to turn him over to older hands. How she succeeds in having Mickey adopted by Mrs. Stewart, the acidly spinster with a heart as big as the traditional bucket, and how Annie herself finally wins through to happiness and a home, is a story tender and moving.

His Majesty Disposes Of His Prize Cattle

SMITHFIELD, Eng., Dec. 29.—The King sold privately all but one of his prize exhibits at Smithfield recently.

His champion Highland steer, bred by the Duke of Atholl, was bought by a firm of London butchers at a price which, it is understood, approaches a hundred guineas.

A Birmingham firm bought his first prize Highland heifer as well as two pens of prizewinning Southdown wether sheep and a Lincoln heifer and steer.

Royal Titania, the champion of the Red Polls, has gone to Pontfract, and a Highland steer, just under three years old, from Sandringham, was sold to a Sheffield firm of butchers.

The actual prices paid for these royal cattle are not known, but Mr. E. F. Snyder, who conducted the sales, stated that they averaged nearly 90s. a cwt.

In all, 178 beasts came under the hammer and fetched an average of 63s. 11d. a cwt., as against 61s. 1 1-2d. last year; pigs made 7s. 10d. a stone of 14 lbs., an increase of 1s. 5 1-2d.; while sheep showed a sharp decline, dropping to 5s. 3 1-2 d. a stone, from 7s. 5 1-2d.

Oats In China

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—Canadian oats have been acclimatized to conditions in Western China and are being distributed in quantity from West China Union University, Chengtu, a missionary institution, to government experimental farms and to the hill tribse in Szechwan province for 1933 sowing.

The original supply was brought across from Canada eight years ago by Rev. Frank Dickinson, B.A., M.Sc., a Canadian missionary, and tended by him in plot and field every season since.

In the Chengtu plain the staple diet is rice and in the hill country the tribes rely mainly on Indian corn. Under this condition it is considered that the introduction of oats will add ultimately an important article to the diet of large numbers of people. The experiment has not yet reached the commercial stage but will be watched with interest

Mona Lisa Theft Is Repeated

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—While guards were stationed at every door, and a number of spectators were walking through the long galleries, a thief today cut a large prize-winning oil painting from its frame in the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, and walked unnoticed from the building with the canvas.

The painting was "Portrait by Night," by Hilda Belcher, New York artist and magazine illustrator, who lent it to the academy after it won the Lippincott Prize.

It is about four feet high and three feet wide, and shows a girl in a red dress, with the light of a fireplace reflected on her.

Police said the thief used a sharp knife, which cut the canvas on a clean line, close to the edge of the frame. Detectives called every guard and employee of the academy into a conference to compare notes on persons they had seen entering and leaving the building. Police refused to discuss the outcome of this meeting.

Negro Soldiers Given Tributes

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Colored men stood around Sir Ian Hamilton at the Cenotaph in London recently and heard him pay tribute to the bravery of negroes in the war. After getting a wreath in their memory gaainst the Cenoitaph, Sir Ian, who had made a special journey from Scotland to do so, said: "Although war is a wicked and cruel thing it has one great merit in that it draws folk together into one family. All men and women are equal. Colour is no bar."

Recalling the fine service of the Senegalese soldiers in the Dardanelles he said: "No men could have died more bravely. Over and over again, fighting for Greater Britain, your race has shown qualities of courage and self sacrifice second to none, but this is the first time in modern history that the debt has been publicly acknowledged."

The ceremony followed a service for colored men in Westminster Abbey and a visit to the Unknown Warrior's grave, where a wreath was laid.

Sharkey Will Not Meet Max

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—(A.P.)—Jack Sharkey today said Max Schmeling of Germany would never get the chance to regain his heavyweight boxing championship from Sharkey.

The once loquacious sailorman, who has been quiet of late, burst forth in an attack on Schmeling and termed him a "quitter" and a boxer who should retire from the ring inasmuch as he has resorted to meeting only handpicked opponents.

The Boston champion has talked the Schmeling matter over with Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for the New York Garden, and said that it had been decided to rule the German out as a heavyweight contender because of his refusal to sign for a June bout with Sharkey. Regardless of this fact, Schmeling is signed to meet Max Baer in June and could not accept a Sharkey match before that time.

Lennox Island School Examination

The Christmas examination at Lennox Island School was one of the most delightful yet held and showed the exceptionally clever work of the splendid teachers and the support given them by parents and friends. There were 18 pupils present, bright faced, clever and eager for the proceedings to begin and to see what Santa had brought them.

Among the visitors present was Chief Jacob Sark, who gave a splendid address of encouragement to both parents and children. He said he had never seen such well trained children and praised the parents, teacher and pupils. Among others present were Mrs. Matthew Peters, Miss Eliza Francis, Messrs Albert Francis, Arthur Francis, John Andrew Francis, Wm. Marr and John Brooks. The last named gentlemen said a few words of praise and expressed surprise to hear the youngest children answering so fully and well in English Catechism and hoped that Santa would not forget them.

The Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa was praised for providing the school children and parents with such advantages and above all thanks was given to the genial pastor, Father John, Indian Superintendent of P. E. Island who does so much for this Island.

Following is the program for the day:

1. How pure, how frail and white; (a) English Catechism; (b) English Catechism; (c) English Catechism.
